33 Million Asked For D. C. Schools, All-Time Record

Board of Education Requests Big Rise For New Buildings And More Teachers

By Elsie Carper
Post Reporter

Taking a long look at overcrowded classrooms and part-time schooling, the Board of Education yesterday asked for $33,659,250 to run the schools during the fiscal year beginning next July.

The request, the largest ever made by the school board, is $8,670,995 more than the current school appropriation.

Bulk of the increase is for the construction of new school buildings and for additional teachers to bring class sizes down to a standard of 36 students for each teacher.

Negro schools would receive 75 percent of new construction funds and 85 percent of new teacher positions under the proposal. No breakdown on other funds was available.

In making its record-breaking request, the board said it was keeping in mind the Commissioners' orders to hold down on operating expenses so that money available from the sales tax may be applied to capital improvements.

For capital outlays the board is asking $10,036,650. This is $7,541,400 more than allowed in the present budget.

Most of the money would go for beginning construction of six new schools, eight additions to existing schools, and for the purchase of 19 school sites.

Operating expenses would account for the remaining $23,622,600. This amount is $1,129,595 more than the present budget allows. A third of the increase is to provide for teacher pay raises required by law.

For Negro Schools

Of $6,152,550 requested for new buildings, $4,600,000 is for new Negro schools.

Sixty-eight of 80 new teaching positions asked would be in Negro divisions.

Ten of the new Negro teachers would be hired for kindergarten classes. The board said there are now 2500 Negro children of kindergarten age not enrolled because of a shortage of facilities.

Fifty of the extra teachers would be assigned to elementary grades in the Negro schools where classes average more than 36 students.

Ten teachers would be hired to extend driver training to all high schools.

Program For Handicapped

The program for handicapped children would be expanded with four additional teachers, two white and two Negro, provided for the speech correction program, and six teachers, three white and three Negro, for remedial reading clinics.

139 Million D. C. Budget Submitted

By Sam Zagoria
Post Reporter

District department heads, encouraged by glowing reports of expected revenues from the city's new tax program, yesterday asked for almost 139 million dollars to meet operating costs and make a start on war-shelved construction during the fiscal year 1951.

The $138,984,400 total is highlighted by a 33½-million-dollar capital outlay program, much of which has been gathering dust for almost a decade as wartime construction and high postwar building costs forced delay.

The estimates of departmental fiscal requirements are the second highest in the city's history, about five million less than the record-breaking $143,886,908 requested for fiscal 1949. The 1949 estimate included 53 million earmarked for capital outlay, but Congress reduced the entire budget to $101,823,398.

Two indications of the city's improved financial situation were given by Budget Officer Walter L. Fowler in releasing the overall budget request figures:

Court Jolts Blackmer in Guilty Plea

Tax Evasion Admitted; Judge Won't Dismiss Perjury Indictments

Denver, Sept. 26 (AP).—Henry M. Blackmer, multi-millionaire oil man who fled to France and 25 years of self-imposed exile, when the Teapot Dome scandal was exposed, pleaded guilty today to income tax evasion.

He stood, white-haired and slightly stooped, before Circuit Judge Orie L. Phillips to enter the plea which he thought would clear up his difficulties with the courts of the United States.

A few moments earlier, District Attorney Max N. Bulkeley had informed the court that when Blackmer pleaded guilty in the tax evasion case, the Government would move for dismissal of four perjury indictments against him.

But Judge Phillips, to the obvious surprise of both sides, refused to accept that arrangement at face value.

"For what reason," he asked, "does the Government propose to dismiss these so-called perjury cases?"

Bulkeley replied that the United States Attorney General's office believed the evidence was insufficient to support the perjury charges. As early as 1933, he said, the Government had indicated a willingness to drop the perjury cases if Blackmer would come back to answer the evasion charges.

Judge Phillips then instructed Bulkeley to turn over his complete file, "including all facts in the Government's possession," and said he would make up his own mind whether the cases should be dismissed.

"If I should reach the conclusion that it is entirely impossible to prosecute these cases," he added, "I would, of course, agree to drop them."

Bulkeley told newsmen later he was "surprised. I didn't expect Judge Phillips to do that." Blackmer's son, Myron, a Denver broker, said his father was "disappointed. He hoped this would end it."

None of the indictments against the 80-year-old Blackmer was concerned with the Teapot Dome scandal, which shook the Harding Administration.

Blackmer was accused of evading payment of $1,137,514 in in-

Man, 70, Shoots Radio Next Door, Goes to Gallinger

A 70-year-old man was committed yesterday to Gallinger Hospital for mental observation after he was charged with firing a gun into the radio he said kept him awake all night with its noise.

He is Sims Butler, 1318 New Jersey ave. nw. Police in Municipal Court said that Harrison Williams, of 1317 4th st. nw., reported that "every night" between 1:30 and 3 a. m. Butler shot through his back wall into William's building, which adjoins it.

One bullet lodged in the bed and one went through the radio on Friday. Butler said in a court information the people in Williams' building kept the heat and the radio on so high that he couldn't sleep.

His bullet stopped the radio, but not the heat, police said.

Military Pay Bill Passed By Senate

Federal Executive Increase Stalled, Prompting Personal Appeal by Truman

The Senate yesterday voted members of the armed services a pay increase of more than 300 million dollars a year but talked of "compromising" salary raises for top Government executives.

The military pay bill, first top-to-bottom revision of armed forces pay scales in 40 years, zipped through the Senate by a voice vote.

But similar action to hike salaries of President Truman's official family was so uncertain that Mr. Truman made a personal appeal to the Senate.

Salaries "Ridiculously Low"

He wrote Vice President Barkley that salaries paid key Government officials "are ridiculously low"—that he was personally concerned because it has become increasingly difficult to get and keep qualified people for important posts.

Mounting criticism of the bill in the Senate meanwhile caused Democratic leaders to consider a substitute barring any top Government pay raise in excess of 50 percent, and holding Cabinet salaries to $22,500 instead of the $25,000 asked. The bill is slated to come up in the Senate today.

There was no effort however to cut back the military pay bill. As passed by the Senate it ranges armed service pay raises and allowances all the way from $5 a month for buck privates in the Army five months up to $306.50 for some generals with 30 years of service.

Goes to Conference

The bill now goes to conference with the House, which approved identical raises except for the three top grades. The Senate slightly increased these. Percentage-wise, the increases ranged higher for officers and non-coms. Bill managers said the officers haven't had a general pay alignment in four decades while enlisted pay had previously been upped.

Besides the Army, the bill provides comparable increases for the Navy, Air Force, Marine Corps, Coast Guard, Coast and Geodetic Survey, Public Health Service, the Reserves, the National Guard and the Air National Guard.

Only three floor amendments were added to the bill, all on the liberalizing side:

1. By Senator Edwin C. Johnson (D., Colo.) permits members of reserve components who are retired or granted retirement pay for disability to be given hereafter the same pay, rights, benefits and privileges as retired regulars. Approved, 50 to 15.

Retirement Equalized

2. Also by Senator Johnson, equalizing the physical retirement pay of reserve officers with those of regulars when the disability occurred in line of duty in time of war or National emergency. As technically the war is still on, this would be immediately applicable. Approved, voice vote.

3. By Senator Hugh Butler (R., Nebr.), granting an officer hospitalized on the date the bill becomes law and who retires for physical reasons within six months thereafter the option to decide whether to retire under the old or new law. Approved viva voce.

Senator Styles Bridges (R., N. H.), withdrew an amendment directing the military establishment to absorb the cost for the current year by saving on other items for which Congress has already provided funds. He said he will seek the same objective in appropriation bills.

Incentive Pay Boosted

Besides varying pay increases, major provisions of the bill include:

Longevity—A ceiling on the present system of 5 percent for each three years of service so that a person who fails to win promotions will not continue to get raises up to the present 30-year maximum.

Incentive pay for hazardous duties such as flight and submarine service—Flat rates ranging from $100 to $210 a month for officers and $30 to $75 for enlisted personnel instead of the present system

For the first time since April 17, the Yankees were ousted from the league lead, by a Red Sox team that after tossing away a three-run lead of its own, struck hard at Page and a wavering Yankee infield in that eighth inning.

Before a noisy mob of 66,156 fans who crammed the big stadium, the Red Sox squeezed the winning run home on Bobby Doerr's bunt with the Yankees hotly protesting Umpire Bill Grieve's decision that ruled Johnny Pesky safe, ahead of

Senate Passes $3 Million Sesqui Fund

By Edward F. Ryan
Post Reporter

A three-million-dollar grant for the National Capital Sesquicentennial of 1950, and a $100,000 District fund for the child day care center program here, were approved by the Senate yesterday.

They were adopted as part of the supplemental appropriation bill, which was passed by a Senate voice vote. Both amounts are now subject to conference action and to clearance by the House.

The House previously refused to grant any money for the sesquicentennial and voted but $50,000 for the District day care center program.

The increased day care center fund was recommended by Senate District Chairman Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.) and seconded by Senator Carl Hayden (D., Ariz.).

Senator Hayden, one of five Senators who will serve on the joint conference committee on the supplemental bill, pointed out that Congress early this year authorized the $100,000 figure for day care centers. To the District appropriation are to be added some $48,000 expected from parents' fees for the service. The sum of the two would permit the six day care centers to continue operating for about 270 youngsters through next June 30.

Neely said that failure to increase the House figure to the $100,000 level would seriously affect a number of working mothers in the District. Without

More Tariff Cuts Coming, Truman Says

By Ferdinand Kuhn
Post Reporter

President Truman assured dollar-hungry countries yesterday that the United States was ready to cut its tariffs still further and buy more foreign goods.

"We must reduce our own barriers, wherever possible, to permit our people the freest access to the foreign goods they may want to buy," the President said in a formal statement after signing the two-year extension of the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act.

"The maintenance and the enlargment of our export markets are impossible without a substantial expansion of our imports. As the world's largest creditor Nation, it is our special responsibility to welcome imports."

Under the act which became law yesterday, the President can match tariff cuts by other countries until June 12, 1951, without congressional approval.

Tariff-cutting agreements with 10 foreign countries will be published and proclaimed next month, and still others are expected to be negotiated next summer.

Sitting alongside the President as he signed the two-year extension yesterday was former Secretary of State Cordell Hull, sponsor of the original Trade Agreements Act in 1934. It was his first visit to the White House since VJ-Day, and his second since he resigned the secretaryship because of illness in 1944.

The white-haired former Secretary leaned on a thick cane as he

Kindler's Will Gives His Soul To Music, Estate to Family

By Joseph Paull
Post Reporter

The late Dr. Hans Kindler "humbly" recommends his soul to the "God of Music" in his last will filed yesterday in District Court.

The testament expresses the philosophy of the noted Washington symphony conductor as a man and as a musician. It directs a simple but musical funeral service and recommends "my friends and near ones to eat and drink and be merry, right after the funeral."

His attorney, G. Bowdoin Craighill, said he did not believe Dr. Kindler's estate will exceed $200,000. A petition for probate, which will contain the estate's value, is expected to be filed shortly.

In a codicil, written less than 10 days before his death, Dr. Kindler left the bulk of his fortune to be divided between members of his family.

Between $2800 and $3000 is set aside for concerts here and elsewhere, but the details are not spelled out.

He gives the National Symphony, which he started and led until shortly before he died August 30,

Attlee Faces Confidence Vote Today

Labor Party Stakes Survival in Office On Parliament's Devaluation Stand

London, Sept. 26 (AP).—Prime Minister Attlee's government bet its life today on the outcome of a Parliament vote on devaluation of the pound.

At the same time the potent General Council of the Trades Union Congress implied it still was withholding support of the government policy.

The Labor cabinet decided to put a motion of confidence before a three-day emergency session of Parliament which opens Tuesday. If it is defeated Prime Minister Attlee would have to ask a dissolution of Parliament and call for a new election at once. Labor's five-year term is not up until next July.

Hard to Vote Against

With a sharp eye to such fateful political consequences the cabinet worded the motion so that it will be difficult for any member to vote against it.

A "no" vote would not only be against Britain's 30 percent slash in the dollar value of the pound; it could also be construed as a vote against economic recovery and feeless medical service, a measure popular with many people.

Winston Churchill and his Conservatives could attempt to bring the showdown on something like their own political terms, however, by offering amendments to the confidence motion with a clause censoring the Government's handling of the economic crisis.

Churchill summoned tonight his "shadow government," a group prepared to form a government if the Conservatives return to power, for a decision on the party's policy.

Cripps Meets Unionists

Economics Minister Sir Stafford Cripps met the restive leaders of the Trades Union Congress tonight in an effort to convince them it was necessary to devalue the pound from $4.03 to $2.80. The TUC General Council, top leaders of 8 million unionized workers who are the backbone of the Labor Government, withheld their approval last week.

After the meeting, the council said it was considering Cripps' explanation of the effect on wages and cost of living and would have further meetings with government chiefs.

This indicated the TUC leaders still were withholding their approval of devaluation.

Cripps needs strong support from them to enforce his call for continued wage-freezing.

Attlee has called a caucus of Labor members of Parliament for Tuesday, just ahead of the House of Commons meeting.

Labor's total of 393 members out of the 640 in Commons gives it a commanding majority so long as the oft-rebellious left wing toes the mark.

The government may be helped by President Truman's signing of the law extending the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act today.

The Cabinet's confidence motion asks Commons not only to approve devaluation but also the Washington monetary agreement.

While the Cabinet was in session the first impact of devaluation hit the housewife. The price of bread advanced 1 penny (1 1/6 cents).

Tokyo Rose Case Is Given to Jury After 13 Weeks

San Francisco, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—The fate of American-born Mrs. Iva Toguri d'Aquino, the Tokyo Rose whose disc jockey chatter from the enemy camp was heard by thousands of GIs in the Pacific, was placed in the hands of a jury today.

A panel of six men and six women was given the case at 11:14 a. m. (2:44 p. m. EST) after 13 weeks of testimony, the longest treason trial in American history.

Mrs. D'Aquino, 33-year-old graduate of UCLA who went to Japan a few months before Pearl Harbor, is accused of treason in making a series of wartime broadcasts over Radio Tokyo.

If convicted, she faces a minimum sentence of five years in prison and a $10,000 fine. Maximum penalty is death.

Some Non-Union Coal Mine Operators Plan to Open Pits

Pittsburgh, Sept. 26 (AP).—Some Pennsylvania nonunion coal operators made plans to reopen their pits today despite threats of violence from roving pickets in the week-old United Mine Worker strike.

Fourteen operators in the Clearfield area who closed their workings last week because of picketing activity said they will resume operations Tuesday. The operators represent 30 mines, some of them small.

The mines will operate under the watchful eye of reinforced State police forces which have been patrolling the area to guard against violence.

In West Virginia a picket band of 75 to 100 cars assembled in the Charleston area coal field today, but there were no reports of trouble. State Police Corp. R. G. Coen said the pickets seemed generally in an angry mood but were peaceful enough.

Berlin Hears Of 5000-Mile Soviet Rocket

Berlin, Sept. 26 (AP).—German scientists are producing for Russia trans-ocean rockets they designed for Hitler just before the war ended, Soviet zone informants claimed today.

The informants, who have access to offices of the Soviet-backed East German Police, said the mammoth underground munitions plant at Peenemuende on the Baltic coast, is turning out rockets at full speed.

Allied intelligence officers said they know of "certain activity" at Peenemuende but declined to elaborate. One of them explained:

"If Russia is making munitions in Germany it's a high-level matter and not for discussion here."

At the end of the war the victorious Allies agreed that Germany's war potential should be destroyed.

The new rocket, said the German informants, was dubbed "Fire Lily" by the Nazis, who never had a chance to use it.

The name comes from the way the rocket blossoms into eight to ten separate aerial bombs when it arrives over the targets, scattering destruction over a three-square-mile area, informants said. Its range and accuracy are enough, the report said, to hit a target 5000 miles away.

Allied Talks On A-Energy To Continue

Closer Cooperation With Great Britain, Canada Is Expected

By The Associated Press

High State Department officials said yesterday that atomic energy conferences with Britain and Canada will likely be on an "intermittent, continuing basis" from now on.

This suggestion of much closer future cooperation among the three nations came from Undersecretary of State James Webb and George F. Kennan, State Department counselor, after a call on President Truman.

They had no word whether any legislation is to be asked of Congress. The present basic Atomic Energy Act sharply restricts any exchange of information with other nations.

Most emphasis from lawmakers—in comments since last week's disclosure that Russia now presumably has an A-bomb—has been on tightening up against Communist spying.

Report to White House

Webb and Kennan went to the White House to report on the progress of current talks with Britain and Canada on atomic problems. These talks began last Tuesday. They are concerned chiefly with questions of the exchange of information and the division of supplies of uranium, the raw material for atomic bombs.

Reporters asked the effect of the Russian development on the talks.

"It makes them more timely," Webb said.

Kennan, pressed for comment, said:

"I have the feeling that there will be continuing talks, intermittently, from now on."

He went on to say that last week's development reinforced the need for the best utilization of the resources of the three countries.

Hickenlooper Assails AEC

Meanwhile, Senator Hickenlooper (R., Iowa), said that "loose security policies" of the Atomic Energy Commission helped speed Russia's A-bomb efforts.

Asserting that by laxness in keeping the A-bomb secrets the AEC had "permitted vital information to filter out of this country,"

Reduction by House Restored in Sequel To Russian Success In Exploding Atom

By Robert C. Albright
Post Reporter

A House-Senate conference committee yesterday quickly accepted the full $1,314,010,000 voted last week by the Senate to arm friendly countries against Communist aggression.

House conferees failed to put up even a fight for the nearly 50-percent cut in Europe's share recently adopted by the House.

Agreement on the Administration-approved totals was reached in less than three hours and another meeting was called for today to clear up loose ends and report the bill.

Sequel to Russian Explosion

Swift acceptance of the top Senate figures was the expected sequel to weekend disclosures on the Russian-made atomic explosion.

"We compromised with the House," Senate Foreign Relations Chairman Tom Connally (D., Tex.), said with a grin after the conference. "We got the full amount."

House Foreign Affairs Chairman John Kee (D., W. Va.) said personally he did not think the Russian atomic development influenced the speedy agreement.

But Representative Charles A. Eaton (R., N. J.), ranking minority member of the House group, told newsmen before the meeting it would change his own vote.

$819 Million Voted by House

"It indicates the higher figure may be more desirable," said Eaton.

The House had voted a total of $819,505,000 for all areas, with only $580,495,000 earmarked to supply arms to Europe.

Totals Itemized

Here are the Senate arms totals ratified yesterday by the conference:

For Europe—One billion dollars, of which 100 million dollars would be immediately available. Another 400 million dollars in cash and 500 million dollars in contract authority when the President approves a joint plan for integrated defense of the North Atlantic area.

For Greece and Turkey—$211,370,000.

For Iran, the Republic of Korea and the Philippines—$27,640,000.

For the non-Communist area of China, strictly discretionary with the President—75 million dollars.

Far East Section Approved

They also approved House language calling for creation of a joint Far Eastern organization to formulate plans for resisting Communism, but did not commit the United States to participation in it, Connally said.

Connally was asked what he

13 Feared Dead As B-29 Crashes In Oklahoma

Talihina, Okla., Sept. 26 (U.P.).—A B-29 bomber believed to have 13 men aboard crashed and burned four miles south of this community in heavily wooded southeastern Oklahoma tonight. All aboard apparently perished.

Talihina Marshal Jack Bishop said "five or six" bodies had been sighted, but that the flames were too hot for searchers to get near the wreckage.

Officials of the Smoky Hill Air Force base at Salina, Kans., reported that a B-29 bomber with 13 men aboard left there today on a routine training flight. The plane, one of the fifteenth Air Force, had the numbers "333" marked on the tail.

Bishop said the partly obliterated lettering "15th Air Force" was sighted on the burning plane along with the numbers "333."

Mrs. Layton Brown, Talihina, who saw the big plane go down, said "it looked like something exploded before the crash."

Witnesses said flares were released as the plane flew over Talihina.

Voluntary Health Plan Spread Urged

Cleveland, Sept. 26 (AP).—United States Senator Lister Hill (D., Ala.) told the American Hospital Association's fifty-first annual convention today that "the course of wisdom is . . . to expand and strengthen and adapt the voluntary plans to fulfill the health requirements of our people."

At the opening session of the four-day meeting, Hill predicted that a bill he introduced in the Senate and which passed there, would get final approval before Congress adjourns. That bill, he said, will double the present 75-million-dollar-a-year in Federal grants for hospitals, extend the Federal program for five years, and make hospital construction easier in rural and low-income areas which hitherto have not been able to raise their share of costs.

In advocating regional coordination of hospital services, Senator Hill agreed with Mrs. Eugene Meyer, Washington writer, who suggested Veterans Administrational hospitals be integrated into the Nation-wide system of hospitals.

States should make their estimates of hospital beds for the total population with existing VA hospitals in mind, said Mrs. Meyer, who is the wife of the chairman of the board of The Washington Post.

She praised Maryland and Michigan health plans as demonstrating that the key to expand medical and hospital services at low cost is flexible organization and administration.

A third speaker at the afternoon panel, Howard L. Bost, representing the CIO United Automobile Workers Union's social security department, said "inadequate benefits and limited coverage are the principal deficiencies" of the payroll deduction method of voluntary medical and hospital insurance.

Bost said before the Blue Shield voluntary insurance plans could become an agency in labor-management social security programs, there would have to be:

More public representation of boards of trustees;

Adjustments in scope of benefits;

Improved business efficiency to compare favorably with commercial insurance.

The sequicentennial fund, recommended by the Senate appropriation committee, cleared the Senate without discussion.

Also approved without comment were other District funds totaling $4,814,219.49. The biggest part of that is the $4,205,850 for paying the retroactive salary increases of District employes for the year ending last June 30. Since both House and Senate have now approved the pay increase figure, it is not subject to change in conference, and requires only final enactment of the supplemental money bill to become available for payment.

Among other major District items cleared now by both House and Senate were $225,000 for improvements to the Bell Vocational School; $41,116.66 for the District Tax Collector's office, and $122,186.73 for District payments to the Federal Courts here for the 1948 fiscal year.

The Senate wrote into the bill $103,065.95 for District repayment to private Washington hospitals for care given indigent patients in the 1948 fiscal year. The amount is subject to conference action; the House earlier refused the appropriation.

Silver Spring Urged to Add Policemen

The Allied Civic Group of Silver Spring will work for elimination of one-man police cars in Montgomery County as part of its program for the year.

The group's program was announced last night by Robert T. Snure at the organization's first fall meeting, in the Liquor Control Building hearing room. The program had been approved previously by the group's executive committee.

Among other goals listed in the year's program are: (1) elimination of overhead electric wires in the business district, (2) additional traffic lights, and (3) enlargement of the police force.

The organization, composed of delegates from 20 affiliated civic bodies, also called for enforcement of hunting regulations in the area, following complaints of violations including shooting within 500 feet of residences.

Resolutions calling for improved transportation, a plan for street-naming, and construction of a community auditorium were introduced.

The transportation resolution, introduced by Ralph D. Boyd, called for establishment of a bus route from the Naval Ordnance Laboratory over New Hampshire ave.,

The street-naming resolution, also introduced by Boyd, asked for a uniform system

Mrs. Betty McDevitt introduced a resolution asking for a city auditorium

Montgomery Charter's Value Debated for Junior Chamber

Efficacy of Montgomery County's charter form of government was both praised and criticized last night in a debate before members of the Silver Spring Junior Chamber of Commerce holding their first fall meeting at Stone House Inn, Four Corners.

Col. Norman B. Ames, president of the charter committee, termed the accomplishments of the charter government during its nine months of existence "phenomenal" while former County Commissioner Wesley I. Sauter saw the county councilmen as "empire builders creating departments within departments."

Sauter, emphasizing that he does not advocate elimination of the charter form of government, offered four suggestions for its "improvement":

1. A "realistic" redistricting of council districts with each voting only for its own councilmen.
2. Reducing the number of councilmen from 7 to 3.
3. Incorporating Silver Spring and Bethesda as towns to provide better measures of self government.
4. Limiting of the powers of the county manager and providing more control of his office by the council.

Colonel Ames declared the charter government has provided home rule and "an end to political bossism" as promised.

"The county's credit is better than ever," he said. "Taxes have been reduced in suburban areas and zoning is on a ship-shape basis."

The opposing speakers differed on the political makeup of the charter committee. Sauter termed it "a political organization, making three in the county."

This was denied by Colonel Ames who said the committee is not political and "does not oppose the two party system."

Following the debate, County Manager Irving G. McNayr reminded the Junior Chamber of Commerce members he had served under three administrations,—Democratic, Republican and Charter.

"I have found all members of these bodies were men of integrity and honesty with the firm desire to serve the county with the best they had," he said.

The present form of government he termed "an evolution to meet the needs of the growing county which represents a trend in the right direction."

Children Return To School, Ending Crowding Protest

Parents returned their children to the Slowe Elementary School yesterday, ending the walkout which began Friday because of a supposed fire hazard created by crowded classrooms.

After a 1½-hour talk with Dr. Hobart M. Corning, District school superintendent and other school officials, the education-recreation committee of the Slowe P-TA issued a statement, saying officials had promised to take "immediate steps" to remedy the seating arrangements in classrooms.

Head of the P-TA committee is Dr. Frank M. Snowden, jr., chairman of the classics department of Howard University, who circularized mimeographed letters Friday implying that crowding as many as 46 students into a classroom designed for 42 created a fire hazard and that minimum aisle space requirements were not being observed.

Neely Seeks District Vote In Resolution

Senator Matthew M. Neely yesterday introduced legislation aimed at letting District citizens elect members of Congress and vote in presidential elections.

Neely (D., W. Va.), chairman of the Senate District committee, presented a joint resolution to the Senate calling for a Constitutional amendment which would say:

"The Congress shall have power to provide that there shall be in the Congress and among the electors of President and Vice President members elected by the people of the District constituting the seat of the government of the United States in such numbers and with such powers as the Congress shall determine, but such representation and powers shall be no greater than those of a State. All legislation hereunder shall be subject to amendment and repeal."

His resolution was referred to the Senate Judiciary Committee, the burying ground of similar legislation for a number of years.

Meanwhile, Arthur Clarendon Smith, president of the District Democratic Club, announced plans for a suffrage dinner here in mid-November. He said William Fadler, Washington attorney and vice president of the club, had been named chairman of the committee to organize the dinner. He said the purpose would be to organize support for and raise funds to conduct a suffrage campaign.

He said the members of the two Congressional District committees would be invited as guests of honor, and the cost per plate would run from $10 to $25.

Buscher to Head Recreation Board In Prince Georges

C. Gerard Buscher of Berwyn Heights, Md., has been chosen chairman of the new Prince Georges County Recreation board, and Smith H. Purdum of Hyattsville, executive secretary.

The board yesterday announced it is now receiving applications for the $5000-a-year post of full-time recreation director for the county. When he is appointed, the board said, formulation of a program for the county will begin.

The last session of the Maryland General Assembly authorized a total of $180,000 in bonds to be issued for the recreational program and facilities.

Improvements Asked For Negro Schools

Lynchburg, Va., Sept. 26 (AP).—An interracial mass meeting of over 800 persons tonight agreed to broaden a petition to the school board for a new Negro high school to include a demand for "complete equalization of Lynchburg Negro and white public schools."

The legal staff of the National Association for the Advancement of Colored People has been called in to conduct an investigation of the Lynchburg Negro schools.

Spottswood Robinson 3d, Negro lawyer of the firm of Hill, Martin and Robinson of Richmond, told the group that court action would be taken if their investigation showed unequal school facilities for Negroes and whites.

Remodeling of 184 Schools Projected

Funds to begin a four-year $1,655,900 program of remodeling 184 of the city's old school buildings to comply with the new egress law are requested in 1951 District budget.

The Board of Education, in forwarding its estimates to the Commissioners yesterday asked that $325,000 of the money be made available during the first year for "urgently needed projects."

Most of the money, the board said, will be spent on very old elementary buildings, to inclose open stairways, and provide more than one exit from classrooms "where children otherwise may be trapped" in case of an emergency.

To Save 5400 Windows

The board also asked for $20,000 to begin a five-year program of installing guards on the 5400 school windows which overlook playgrounds. The city annually spends that much to replace the broken window panes, the budget said.

Noise will be reduced in the city's older school buildings if the board receives $22,000 to begin a five-year program of accoustically treating gymnasiums, cafeterias, music rooms and shops. The noise level "now is so high that it interferes with the instructional program," the board said.

Also requested was $9090 to provide automatic gas furnaces for greenhouses at Anacostia, Central, Coolidge, Dunbar, Eastern, McKinley, Roosevelt and Wilson High Schools.

With present methods of heating, plants freeze in the winter and greenhouses must be shut down, it was said.

For McKinley Gymnasium

The board said it wanted to use the McKinley High School gymnasium for interhigh basketball games and asked for $21,000 to provide eight new exits and 1800 folding seats on the gym floor and 700 fixed seats in the balcony. Seating capacity of the gymnasium now is set at 700 by the District building inspector.

Fifty elementary schools do not have electric clocks or bells to summon students to class, the board said, and asked $25,000 to begin a five-year program to replace the hand bells now rung by students.

Other Items Asked

Other items requested by the board for individual schools were:

Armstrong High, building improvements to cost $10,000, and new furniture and equipment, $35,000. Auto, electric, graphic arts and shoe shops would be newly equipped and classroom chairs in use 40 years replaced.

Burdick Vocational High, completion of second floor, $35,000.

Chamberlain Vocational High equipment for an office practice room, television testing equipment for the radio repair shop, $12,000.

Deal Junior, first aid room, $3500; steel shelving to expand the library, $1500.

Dunbar High, replacement of obsolete fixed furniture with movable chairs, $37,300.

Eastern High, new stage draperies and stage lighting, new home economics laboratories, new equipment for mechanical drawing rooms, $35,700; installation of new equipment, remodeling to provide offices for counselors, replacement of armory floor now infested with termites, $32,500.

Elliot Junior, offices for counselors, $4500.

Fairbrother Elementary, replacement of hot-air furnace, $15,000.

Garnet-Patterson, replacement of worn-out equipment in electrical shops, visual instruction equipment, custodial equipment, $13,000.

Langley Junior, new art room equipment, new office, custodial and visual instruction equipment, $7000.

Macfarland Junior, new lockers, replacement of obsolete office equipment, new duplicating equipment, $6500.

McKinley High, new equipment for auto and machine shops, replacement of worn-out business practices machines, $19,500.

Miner Teachers, new gymnasium showers, $15,000.

Randall Junior, new equipment for electric shop, metal crafts shops where "equipment is so obsolete it is impossible to carry on approval courses of study" visual instruction equipment, custodial equipment, $20,800.

Roosevelt High School, home economics equipment to set up a new department, visual instruction equipment, $25,700.

Slowe Elementary, completion of second floor, $37,000; resurfacing and grading of play area, $35,000.

Terrell, print and woodwork shop equipment, office and custodial and visual instruction equipment $18,600.

Western, replacement of boys' gym floor, $4500.

Record School Fund Sought For More Buildings, Teachers

the building fund would be used for continuing construction of the Negro Spingarn High School which will get under way this year. The school, at 24th st. and Benning rd. ne., when completed will cost $3,600,000.

The board also asked for a million dollars to begin construction of a new Negro Armstrong High School in Brentwood Park. The school which will cost $4,800,000 will be the largest and most expensive school ever built in the District. A technical school, it will replace the present building at First and O sts. nw.

Major Construction Items

Major building construction items listed for the white schools are:

Bunker Hill Elementary School, 14th st. and Michigan ave. ne., eight-room addition. Enrollments at the school have increased by 300 in a year and classes are expected to go on part time in 1950.

Davis Elementary School, 44th pl. and H st. se., eight-room addition. Part-time classes may be needed in 1950, and are "inevitable in 1951."

Hine Junior High School, 7th and C sts. se., replacement. The budget request states that the school, "an antiquated building, the oldest section of which was constructed in 1887, is unsatisfactory for a junior high school program." The third floor auditorium has been closed as a fire hazard.

Elementary School Plans

Keene Elementary School, Rock Creek Church rd. and Riggs rd. ne., eight-room addition. The school now is operating above capacity and a school census shows a thousand children under school age in the area.

A new eight-room elementary school in the River Terrace area of the Northeast. Children in the area now must travel as far as a mile and a half and cross hazardous Benning rd. to attend the overcrowded Benning School.

Money was requested to prepare plans and specifications for a 20-room school to replace the present Amidon, Fairbrother and Greenleaf Elementary Schools in the Southwest, and for a 16-room building near 3d and I sts. nw. to replace the Seaton Elementary School.

Construction items for other schools in Negro divisions are:

Browne Junior High, 24th st. and Benning rd. ne., 10-classroom addition, new gymnasium and inclining floor in the present auditorium. Despite opening this year of the new Kelly-Miller Junior High School, the increasing number of Negro elementary school pupils in the area shows need for additional facilities, the board said.

Dunbar High School, 1st and O sts. nw., major improvements including construction of new gymnasiums, remodeling of the stadium "to place it on a par with similar facilities in white high schools."

Francis Junior High School, 24th and N sts nw., conversion of the present cafeteria into a home economics laboratory, construction of a new cafeteria and a second gymnasium.

Payne Elementary School, 15th and C sts. se., eight-room addition to relieve overcrowding in the school now used "48 percent above capacity."

New junior high school at Pomeroy rd., Douglass pl. and Stanton rd. se., to provide junior high school facilities for Negro children in Anacostia. At present children in the area must either attend classes in an elementary school, or travel into the center of town to go to school.

Syphax Elementary School, N and Half st. sw., eight-room addition to relieve congestion at this school and the Anthony Bowen School. Enrollments show four additional rooms are needed at each school.

Terrell Junior High School, 1st and M sts. nw. The 60-year-old building with a capacity of 673 students has an enrollment of 922.

The board requested $2,925,000 for the purchase of school sites. Of that amount $675,000 would be for unimproved land for schools still in the planning stage.

The District would save hundreds of thousands of dollars by purchasing land before it is improved, the board stated. It was pointed out that the land, now available for $675,000 could have been purchased a year ago for $600,000.

Money was requested for additional land for play areas at Anacostia High School, Hine Junior High, Stanton, Tyler, Bruce, Burville, Crummell, Mott, and Turner Elementary Schools.

New site requests were in the vicinity of:

Massachusetts ave. and Fordham rd. nw. for a new white elementary school.

Mississippi ave. and Stanton rd. se., white elementary school.

Sixth and G sts. sw., white elementary school to replace Amidon, Fairbrother and Greenleaf.

Fifty-third and C sts. se., Negro elementary school.

Forty-ninth and Hayes st. ne., Negro elementary school to replace the Merritt.

Forty-ninth st. and Sheriff rd. ne., new Negro junior high schol.

Pomeroy rd., Douglass pl. and Stanton rd. se., new Negro junior high school.

Sixth and O sts. nw., Negro junior high school to replace Shaw.

Twenty-first and L sts. nw., Negro elementary school to replace the Stevens.

Ninth and Barnaby sts. se., white elementary school. (Funds for this site are now available and must be reallocated.)

Georgia ave. and Barry pl. nw., new Negro high school to replace Cardozo.

Plan Backed For Anacostia

A $4,531,200 flood control project for the Anacostia River won backing of the Senate Public Works Committee yesterday.

Chairman Dennis Chavez (D., N. Mex.) said the committee, in executive session, had approved the House-passed Anacostia River plan, subject to final committee action Thursday on the billion-dollar rivers and harbors authorization bill.

Another project calling for a 15-year $142,000 drive to eliminate water chestnuts from the Potomac River was approved by the committee, Chavez said. This item also has cleared the House.

The Anacostia project plans for flood control installations at a number of points in Prince Georges County, including Bladensburg, Edmonston, Riverdale, Hyattsville, Brentwood, Cottage City and Colmar Manor. Main features of the proposed works include levees, enlargement and realignment of the Northwest branches, a pressure conduit and a pumping plant.

Another part of the project calls for dredging the navigation channel to a depth of eight feet below low water mark, and extending it for a width of 800 feet between 15th st. se. and Blandensburg.

There would also be most basins of the same depth for commercial and pleasure craft at Bladensburg.

A major aim of the project is elimination of recurrent flood conditions near Peace Cross, Bladensburg.

RUNG BY HAND—Fifty D. C. elementary schools lack electric clocks or bells and summon pupils to class as Helen Marie Tracey is doing here at Blair School, I st. ne., between 6th and 7th. The Board is asking $25,000 to begin installing electric bells. Helen Marie, a sixth grade pupil, lives at 520 M st. ne.

D. C. Sales Tax Hikes Budget

sential, particularly a sales tax, this year Fowler declared flatly:

"There is no thought of any new taxes or of increasing any existing taxes. Heaven forbid!"

2. The budget estimates submitted will be used as a starting point for the lengthy pruning process, rather than rejected, as was the case last year. At that time the first estimates were returned to department heads with a sharp reminder that this was an "austerity" year. As a result, 10 million dollars was cut before the Commissioners went into action on the departmental requests.

Fowler pointed out that this year department heads were given no economy instructions, but were told to submit requests for funds necessary to "meet the needs of the city.

"The needs here are terrific. We expected the estimates would be high," he added.

Fowler said he could not at present determine the revenue that will be available to meet the city's expenses, since the amount the new 2 percent sales tax will bring in remains uncertain. Estimates have ranged from a thousand dollars a month average to $16,940,000 for the 11-month period that the tax will be in operation this year.

The drop in building costs in the past year, estimated at from 10 to 20 percent, "will make it possible to enlarge the building program" on available funds, but on the other hand, he pointed out, new buildings will create new expenses in added operating and maintenance costs.

Recognize 'School Needs'

Acting Engineer Commissioner L. E. Cox commented that the Board of Commissioners recognizes the "need for more schools and more capital improvements," but reminded that the city heads are required to submit a balanced budget to Capitol Hill.

This means that the construction plans will have to be tailored to anticipated revenue, he said.

Commissioner Guy Mason echoed this thought, saying that the key point in the budget trimming sessions will be available revenues.

The city heads will begin meetings with individual department chiefs Wednesday morning. Budget office experts will sit in on the closed sessions and advise the Commissioners. No date has been set as yet for the public hearing on the budget.

The requests for the 1951 fiscal year, which begins July 1, 1950, add up to $9,959,779 for the highway fund, $6,113,000 for the water fund and $122,911,621 for the general fund, which covers the other city costs.

$26,174,781 for General Fund

Of these amounts, capital outlay projects account for $26,174,781 in the general fund, 5 million dollars in the highway fund and $2,233,000 in the water fund. The remainder to be drawn from the funds is for operating expenses.

Included in the requests for operating expenses is the creation of 1768 new positions costing $4,895,000 in salaries. Other items cover mandatory increases for the city's 18,000 workers. Provision for the $330 a year pay raise recently granted has already been made in the current city budget.

Presently the city is operating on a 109-million dollar budget, including $6,253,285 for pay raises. Originally, departmental officials asked for $110,188,648, and the pay raise fund was in addition. The Commissioners chopped the 110 figure to 103 million and Congress lopped off another half-million.

The record for the past five years on departmental requests has been:

Fiscal Year	Dept. Estimates	Commissioners Approved	Congress Appropriated
1950	$110,188,648	$103,321,427	$102,764,447
1949	143,886,908	101,464,783	101,823,398
1948	136,108,913	95,082,500	96,456,843
1947	86,800,596	81,305,000	83,759,638
1946	68,613,689	65,915,480	74,250,944

Road Work Begun At Key Bridge

Work was begun yesterday on the $16,000 project to speed traffic at the Virginia end of Key Bridge by widening and straightening the road on the west side of Rosslyn cir.

The bus stop has been temporarily moved to a point in front of the Hot Shoppe on Lee hwy. while work is under way. The job is scheduled for completion by the District Highway Department by October 8, when the Whitehurst Freeway will begin feeding traffic into the circle.

Johnson, Generals Impressed by Navy

By John G. Norris
Post Reporter

Aboard the Carrier F. D. Roosevelt at Sea, Sept. 26.—Landlubber generals and Defense Secretaries got their first view of Carrier Task Force operations today and pronounced themselves "impressed."

"It was magnificent," said Secretary of Defense Johnson. "The Navy is on the job."

For Johnson and most Army and Air Force members of the high command this was their first taste of flattop activity. During a full day, they saw jet fighters climb into the sub stratosphere, plane-destroyer assaults on snorkel-equipped submarines and anti-aircraft gunners shoot down a "Kamikaze."

"We all know more about the Navy now than we did before," commented Johnson. "Cross education is vital to unification and getting out like this is good for the Secretaries and Joint Chiefs."

The latter agreed, though privately unwilling to concede they needed "educating" in what has been called "Johnson's school for backward defense chiefs." The Secretary later plans to get the entire high command aboard the Air Force's B-36 global bomber and in the Army's General Patton tanks. A recent survey showed that few of the civilian and uniformed heads of the armed forces had actual first hand knowledge of the others weapons.

Air Force Secretary Symington, Army Secretary Gray, Gen. Omar N. Bradley and Gen. Hoyt S. Vandenberg, USAF chief of staff, had never been aboard a carrier at sea before today.

Their comments stressed the high degree of coordination and training required for efficient aircraft carrier operations. Praising the show, Symington noted that "hundreds of men in the deck crews as well as the pilots must work as a team, compared with the five to 25-man team in a bomber."

Gen. Lawton Collins, Army Chief of Staff, who had witnessed carrier operations in the Pacific during the war, said he was reminded again of the "tremendous stress and nervous strain which the pilots and carrier personnel must be under in war."

Today's operations, held off the Virginia Capes, involved the FDR and Midway, 45,000-ton flattops, the "Guppy" submarine Spinax, two cruisers, 12 destroyers and all types of carrier planes.

A simulated attack of the Spinax on the FDR was underway when Johnson arrived from Washington. He had flown to Norfolk and transferred to a Piasecki helicopter which put him down on the carrier deck.

The rest of the high command boarded the Roosevelt last night with 80-odd leaders of industry, labor, education, press and radio who are attending the Pentagon's fourth "defense orientation conference." Previously the civilian group had witnessed Army and Air Force demonstrations at Fort Benning, Ga., and Eglin Air Base, Fla.

Planes from the two carriers tracked the submarine which simulated a torpedo attack on the FDR. Then the destroyers came in with a depth charge assault which sent columns of blue water high in the air.

Next McDonald jet Banshees from Comdr. William N. Leonard's 171st Fighter Squadron took off and climbed to 40,000 feet in 10.4 minutes. Vice Admiral Felix B. Stump, commander, Atlantic Fleet Air Force, said the F2H Banshees previously have climbed to 40,000 feet in 6.5 seconds and have made successful "overhead passes" at bombers at 45,000 feet and successfully "deflection passes" from the side at 47,000 feet.

Assisted by jato, a twin-engined Lockheed P2V patrol bomber, weighing 66,000 pounds, took off from the FDR, amid billowing smoke. It headed for Moffett Field, Calif., on a 3200-mile training cruise. Another of the Truculent Turtles, holder of the distance record, has flown 4000 miles carrying a 10,000-pound bomb, Stump said.

Next a Navy blimp landed on the FDR and took off after a simulated refueling and rearming. Navy chiefs say the Goodyear airships have "tremendous possibilities" for coastal antisubmarine work.

A Grumman Hellcat drone then made two Kamikaze torpedo assaults on the carrier. The FDR'S gunner vainly tried to shoot it the first time, using normal shells. On the next pass—employing proximity fuses—they sent the craft blazing into the sea.

Fifty "Whistling Wienie" Banshees, Grumman Bearcats, Chance-Vaught Corsairs piloted by Marines and Douglas Skyraiders landed on the carrier from shore bases. One jet and one piston fighter came in high and were caught by the flattop's final barrier, damaging one of the craft. The planes then launched dive-bomb, rocket and strafing attacks on smoke targets. Johnson, accompanied by Symington and Bradley, then left for Washington aboard a "turtle."

Opium Issue

Visit of Shah Beclouded by Drug Squeeze

By Robert S. Allen

The backstage atmosphere for the impending visit of Iran's young Shah Mohammed Riza Pahlevi is not very propitious.

Not only are United States authorities miffed at an attempted Iranian price squeeze on opium, but the United Nations' Narcotics Commission is squaring off to crack down on Iran for persistent overproduction and illicit sale of the drug.

In both matters, Iran has acted in a high-handed manner, including frequent intimations of turning to Russia. At the same time, Iran has been pressuring for a 250 million dollar United States loan. Officially, that is one of the purposes of the Shah's visit. Unofficially, he is reported to be romantically interested in the daughter of Hussein Ala, his Ambassador here.

Involved in the clash over the price squeeze are the Munitions Board, the Federal Bureau of Supply and the Commodity Credit Corporation.

Because of its morphine derivative, used for medical purposes, opium is high on the strategic stockpiling list. Iranian opium has a lower morphine content than Turkish opium. It requires 30,000 cases of Iranian opium to produce from only 22,000 cases of Turkish the amount of morphine obtained opium. A standard case weighs 160 pounds.

The United States buys Turkish opium at $1500 a case, f.o.b. Mediterranean ports.

But despite the inferior quality of Iranian opium, Ambassador Hussein Ala demanded a higher price than was being paid Turkey. United States officials retorted they valued Iranian opium at not more than $1000 a case.

After protracted attempts at dickering, Ambassador Hussein Ala tried another tack. He went to the Commodity Credit Corp. with a barter proposition. He proposed swapping opium for United States wheat.

Triple C officials quickly discovered two jokers in this deal.

One was a demand for a high price for the opium and the other a low price for the wheat.

Triple C authorities immediately got in touch with the Munitions Board and Federal Bureau of Supply, which Hussein Ala had bypassed. Shortly after this get-together, he was politely, but firmly, told, "No."

Note: In 1926, the State Department deported a member of the Iranian legation for smuggling opium.

The United Nations' Narcotics Commission has long been at loggerheads with Iran over opium violations.

These have been so persistent and widespread that the Commission is considering depriving Iran of its export quota for legitimate opium sales.

United States Narcotics Commissioner Harry Anslinger, American delegate to the United Nations agency, is bluntly critical of Iran.

"Iran's current crop is 1500 tons," he said. "That is three times the legitimate need of the entire world." The other opium-producing countries, which are cooperating with the U. N. to regulate this vicious traffic, have decided steps must be taken to put an end to Iran's violations. Iran was constantly under fire during the last meeting of the Commission in New York. The feeling within the Commission is very strong that the time has come to take drastic action.

Military Police Receive Pat On Back and Put on Show

The much-maligned MP got a pat on the back for a change last night.

The District National Guard's 163d and 171st Military Police Battalion received the compliment, and in a show composed partly of spit-and-polish and partly of their business tactics, showed why they deserved it.

The occasion was the eighth birthday of the establishment of the Corps of Military Police. The Army's top MP, Maj. Gen. Edwin P. Parker, watched the show and congratulated the District units on their spirit and efficiency.

Other distinguished brass on hand to celebrate the corps' birthday were Maj. Gen. Kenneth F. Cramer, chief of the National Guard Bureau; Brig. Gen. W. H. Abendroth, commander of the District National Guard; Brig. Gen. Louis Renfrow of the Defense Department, and Col. J. T. Cole, commander of the Military District of Washington.

Demonstrating their duties in peace and war, the guardsmen herded a flock of jeeps around the gigantic Armory floor in a simulated traffic problem, responded to simulated traffic accidents, and displayed their tactics in riot and mob control.

Carbines, .45-caliber automatics and Springfield rifles crackled with blank cartridges as they reconstructed their training in both combat and range firing. Later, visitors inspected the battalion offices and the company rooms where the guardsmen gather for their weekly drills.

During a review and inspection, General Parker presented awards to Lieut. Col. George Weber, commanding officer of the 163d, and Lieut. Col. Sylvester Blackwell, commanding officer of the 171st, and 21 of their men for length of service in the Guard, gunnery and athletic achievements.

Britain Seen Outproducing Reds' A-Bombs

London, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—A scientific writer for the London Daily Express predicted today that Britain soon will be producing atom bombs on a scale surpassing Russian output "for several years."

Chapman Pincher, recognized as a popular authority on atomic physics, said that an atom station in West Cumberland was nearly ready to begin turning out enough plutonium to make at least six bombs a month.

Pincher said he believed the British have a considerable edge on the Russians because they finished "most of the spade work during the war," while the Russians only recently completed "basic research aimed at discovering how to make a workable bomb."

Pincher said he drew his latest conclusions after a study of documentary evidence "which does not infringe security." He said that "three significant facts" were clear:

"1. Britain's $19,600,000 atom station in West Cumberland is about to start production of plutonium—the explosive metal used in the Nagasaki and Bikini bombs.

"2. Most of this plutonium will be availbale for defense. Little will be taken for power production experiments.

"3. The plant will be bigger and more efficient than the original United States plant at Hanford, Wash., which first produced bulk quantities of plutonium. Output from the Hanford plant before recent extensions was enough to make six bombs a month."

Pincher said that Britain now has "four huge establishments fully geared to atomic developments."

He said they included a research station at Didcot, a uranium smelting factory near Preston, Lancashire, an atomic engineering center at Warrington, Lancashire, and the new plant at Sellafield, West Cumberland.

Berlin Hears Of New Rocket

German sources confirmed that Russia had installed a chain of rocket-launching platforms in Eastern Europe, stretching from the Baltic to the Black Sea.

Peenemuende was wrecked by Allied bombers during the war, and then rebuilt by Russia, with labor from the war prisoner camp at Blagovostroi in the Ural Mountains, the informants said.

Germans Direct Production

Russian technicians supervised the installation of machinery, but Germans who built the rockets for Hitler's war machine are said to be in charge of rocket production begun early this year.

The informants said the entire population of Peenemuende was evacuated when the Russians began rebuilding the rocket plant. The instalation now is guarded by a barricade of high voltage wires and mine fields and is patrolled by 3500 members of the Soviet MVD (security) police. Speedboats guard the seaward approaches.

Another German informant said the Russians are turning out powerful, long-range rockets at Rechlin, site of a big underground munitions factory built by the Nazis.

every Thursday on Television

Guess who's losing sleep over this one?

FOR years, folks have talked about the "low-priced three" in the car business.

For a generation these have been the same three cars, unchallenged for position simply because they were lowest priced.

But take a look at the beauty pictured here and ask yourself:

How would you like to sell against it, with its wealth of Buick features?

How would you like to compete with it when it wears a price tag any new-car buyer can reach, gives you straight-eight performance for less than many sixes?

Truth is, this one sets a lot of standards that are going to be hard to match.

This styling is certainly something to start other designers tossing in their sleep.

This handy size—a dream in traffic, yet generous in interior room—is a "must" for cars yet to come.

The lift of high-pressure Fireball power—the level-going comfort of the Buick ride—the luxury of Dynaflow Drive, here optional at modest extra cost—all these are wanted things others just can't overlook.

So why not do the obvious thing and go see the car that's causing sleepless nights in Detroit?

Study its smartness, test its room and comfort, try its handling, note the precise figures of its delivered prices.

You can do all that on a single trip to your Buick dealer's—and make your selection of a wide choice of equipment and colors at the same time.

'Propaganda,' U. S. Says of Red Offer

By John G. Rogers

New York, Sept. 26 (NYHT).—The United States denounced the latest Russian "peace" proposal in the United Nations today as an "olive branch . . . surrounded by poisonous thorns," and made clear to the Soviet Union that the West will judge the Russians on peace actions—not on peace words.

The brief debate came in the steering committee of the U. N. General Assembly where, without opposition, it was decided to place on the agenda for further discussion the Soviet proposal which first charges that the United States and Great Britain are preparing for war, and then calls for the writing of a Big Five peace pact.

Just before the decision was taken, American Delegate Warren R. Austin asserted in angry tones that while the United States was willing to debate the issue publicly with Russia, the Soviet proposal was "just a repetition of the type of propaganda which we have had at every session of the General Assembly from the Soviet Union."

Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Y. Vishinsky curtly thanked Austin for not opposing admission of the proposal, and then said: "Our design is to help the cause of peace. Those who object to the pact object to peace, and therefore must be preparing for war."

Meanwhile, in the Assembly's general debate at Flushing Meadows, Communist Yugoslavia stepped into the Western speech-making camp, along with Great Britain and Canada, and repeated the challenge to the Soviet Union to start demonstrating devotion to peace instead of merely talking about it.

Yugoslav Foreign Minister Edvard Kardelj, whose speech was well applauded by Western delegates, denounced the Soviet Union for alleged threats to Yugoslavia's independence, and asserted that if Moscow wanted to demonstrate devotion to peace it could start by terminating its cold war against Yugoslavia.

British Foreign Secretary Ernest Bevin said that in the light of Vishinsky's latest proposals, he would hope for more Russian-Western cooperation, but he told the Russians that they were "deluding themselves" if they thought the West would sit back and permit the Communists to grab any more European countries.

Lester B. Pearson, Canadian Minister for External Affairs, condemned Russia for "despicable" meddling in other countries to try to overthrow legal governments, and he noted that in the last 10 years the Soviet Union had added 21 million persons and 179,000 square miles through expansion of Russian borders.

Bevin described the Russian atomic arguments as "stupid" and blamed the Soviet Union for the long standing deadlock in the U. N. Atomic Energy Commission on international control of atomic energy.

Big 4 Ministers Fail to Agree On Austria Pact

New York, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—The Big Four Foreign Ministers met informally for 3 hours and 25 minutes tonight but failed to reach any agreement on the deadlocked Austrial peace treaty. The ministered agreed, however, to meet for further discussions at 9 p. m. (EST) Wednesday.

The four—Dean Acheson of the United States, Ernest Bevin of Great Britain, Robert Schuman of France and Andrei Vishinsky of Russia—were accompanied at today's session by their deputies.

A-Bomb Talks Will Continue

Hickenlooper declared in an address prepared for Senate delivery:

"I have no doubt they have helped step up Russia's time table for the production of an atomic explosion by a very substantial period of time."

Chairman McMahon (D., Conn.) of the Joint Atomic Energy Committee quickly challenged Hickenlooper's assertions as not backed up by evidence.

McMahon told reporters the committee's investigation had produced "not one scintilla of evidence" that loose security policies on the part of AEC had helped Russia.

"On the contrary," McMahon declared, "the evidence showed a profound and constant concern for security on the part of the commission."

Hickenlooper chose to take his criticisms of the AEC to the Senate floor at a time when the Senate-House Atomic Energy Committee, amid some controversy, is polishing up a report on its investigation of the AEC. The report is being rewritten in the light of the Russian atomic explosion.

The inquiry, which occupied the committee for several weeks during the summer, was touched off by charges from Hickenlooper that there had been "incredible mismanagement" of the atomic program.

Senator McMahon confirmed that the first draft of its report had been handed back to staff members for revision.

There are indications any report that finally gets the approval of the congressional committee will say that Hickenlooper overshot the mark with the "incredible mismanagement" charge.

McMahon, who directed drafting of the preliminary report by the committee staff, is said to feel that there is ground for strenuous criticism of some of the AEC's actions.

But McMahon apparently would like to see the committee find that the AEC is doing a pretty good job.

Dr. R. E. Lapp, an atomic scientist was shown yesterday to believe that if Russia has sufficient uranium she can accumulate about 100 atomic bombs within the next two years.

But Dr. Lapp also says he's positive the Reds can not make bombs any faster than we can.

(In 1945, Dr. Robert Oppenheimer, one of this Nation's top A-bomb scientists, indicated in testimony before a Senate committee that the United States could produce 1000 bombs in two years in an all-out effort.

Formerly executive director of an atomic energy committee in the National Military Establishment, Lapp said he believes Russia definitely has the bomb, but he added:

"The actual time when Russia has the first bomb is not as important as many people think. It is the time when Russia will have the bomb in quantity and can deliver it. That's the really important thing."

He made the statements in a copyrighted interview with United States News and World Report.

2 New Chiefs Appointed for AEC Branches

Appointment of two new branch chiefs to the Washington headquarters staff of the Atomic Energy Commission was announced yesterday by Carroll L. Wilson, general manager of the AEC.

They are Dr. Walter D. Claus of Milwaukee, as chief of the biophysics branch, division of biology and medicine, and Dr. Joseph B. Platt of Rochester, N. Y., as chief of the physics branch, Division of Research.

Before joining the commission staff, Dr. Claus for three years headed the physical-chemical Division of the Pabst Research Laboratories in Milwaukee. He replaces Dr. Lauriston S. Taylor, on loan to the commission from the National Bureau of Standards, who returns to the bureau as chief of the X-ray section.

Dr. Platt came to the commission from the University of Rochester, where he was associate professor of physics. He was a member of the group that designed the university's 130-inch cyclotron, second largest atom smasher of its type in the United States.

The physics branch of AEC's Division of Research is a new office established to administer the AEC research program in physics.

Tidelands Hearings To Open October 4

The Senate Interior Committee will begin hearings October 4 on the long-disputed issue of who shall control the oil-rich land beneath United States coastal waters, Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) announced yesterday.

The Federal Government claims the underwater areas, although it is willing to give the States part of the revenue from oil leases to private concerns. To back its claim, it cites a 1947 Supreme Court decision that it has "paramount power" over California's offshore lands.

Coastal States are supporting legislation to name themselves owners of such lands.

Acheson Atom Talk Attacked by Reds

Jets Ineffective

B-50s 'Blast' Britain in Mock Battle

London, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—American B-50 bombers fought their way past defending jet planes and "plastered" London with theoretical atomic bombs in Sunday's air exercises, it was reported today.

Experts indicated that if it had been a real raid instead of maneuvers, in which 500 bombers and fighters participated, London and several other large cities probably would have been left radioactive shambles.

A senior British Royal Air Force official confirmed that American B-50's penetrated the theoretical defense of jet interceptor fighters and radar screens.

The official said further that in general, bombers in "major raids" during the exercises reached their targets.

Some of the B-50's, however, weren't so lucky. One carrying two high officers was "shot down" by jet fighters that intercepted it over Oxford. The officers were Maj. Gen. Leon W. Johnson, commander in chief of the U. S. Air Force's Third Division, and Air Marshal Sir Aubrey Ellwood, chief of the Royal Air Force bomber command.

Moscow, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—The political commentator for Pravda, official Communist newspaper, accused United States Secretary of State Dean Acheson today of a "monstrous distortion of facts" in blaming Russia for failure of the United Nations to institute atomic controls.

At the same time a Tass agency dispatch from New York reported that Soviet Foreign Minister Andrei Vishinsky's peace proposals in the United Nations were received sympathetically by the American people and that efforts to "weaken the tremendous force of the Soviet proposals will obviously fail."

Commentator Yakov Victorov, while hailing Vishinsky's speech as a "new Soviet contribution to peace," said Acheson's was "an example of hypocrisy and tactics obviously calculated to undermine the United Nations.

"Hypocritically hiding behind a stream of words regarding his devotion to peace, Acheson tried to cover up the policy of aggression and unleashing a new war which is waged by America's rulers," Victorov wrote.

He particularly assailed Acheson's treatment of the atomic problem, contrasting his "wordiness" on other subjects "with the extreme brevity on such important problems as outlawing atomic weapons and reducing arms.

"But in such brief remarks he distorted the truth and tried to impose an American dictate on the Assembly," Victorov said.

He charged that Acheson "shed crocodile tears because the U. N. failed to control atomics and, in contravention of all reason, tried to blame the Soviet Union for failure.

"It is difficult to say what Acheson envisages when he resorts to such monstrous distortion of the facts," Victorov said. 'The whole world knows the Soviet Union ... is the first to propose outlawing and controlling atomic weapons."

Arms Bill Cut Is Restored

thought accounted for the speedy House conference switch to the Senate figures.

"Conversion struck them, like it hit old St. Paul when he was going down the road to persecute the Christians," said the happy Connally.

Said Kee: "We just agreed to the Senate amendments, that's all."

He said he expected no trouble in getting the House to agree "because of the transcendental importance of this bill."

Discounting the Russian atomic explosion as a factor in the quick agreement, Kee said:

"The fact that we know Russia has had the bomb at least two months—and they say they have had it since 1947—is an encouraging rather than a discouraging factor. I say that because they haven't tried to use it."

There were intimations meanwhile of some opposition when the conference report returns to the House for final approval.

Before the conferees met, Representative Robert F. (Where-are-you-going-to-get-the-Money?) Rich (R., Pa.) demanded the House managers reject the Senate increase.

Rich said arming Europe would be a waste of money in view of the Russian atomic development. He accused Mr. Truman of releasing the news to smooth the path for the arms bill.

Across the Capitol, Senator Russell B. Long (D., La.) said he felt "more strongly than ever" that arms aid bill funds should be spent in building up this country's own military strength.

Senator Connally highly praised Chairman Kee and other House conferees. He said they "rendered distinguished service in reaching these agreements."

Hungary Ejects 10 Yugoslavs

Budapest, Sept. 26 (A.P.).—The gap between Yugoslavia and the rest of Communist-dominated eastern Europe widened tonight as Hungary gave 10 members of the Yugoslav Legation 24 hours to get out of the country.

The Foreign Ministry handed the legation a sharply worded note saying the recently concluded Budapest treason trial had proved that Tito's regime had plotted to kick out the Communist Hungarian government, assassinate its leaders, and restore capitalism.

The note added that Hungary will make sure in the future that "spies and assassins" do not come to Hungary disguised as diplomats.

The expelled diplomats included the legation's first counsel, Dusan Sakota; Second Secretary Slavko Zecevic and Military Attache Killbarda Mahajlo.

The remaining seven were secretaries and clerical personnel.

Tito Saturday bluntly accused Hungary of joining a "warmongering" scheme to replace his government with one which would be "servile" to Soviet Russia.

He said part of this plot was the Hungarian treason trial of Laszlo Rajk, former Hungarian Communist leader, and seven others. Rajk and two other defendants were sentenced to death.

Th Hungarian Foreign Ministry replied that Tito's charge was "Chauvinistic arrogance and megalomania."

The Hungarian note also said the treason trial proved that Yugoslavia's present leaders had been agents of the German Gestapo and American and British spy organizations.

McCloy, Queuille Seek End to West German Mark Deadlock

Paris, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—John J. McCloy, American high commissioner for Germany, met for six hours tonight with French Premier Henri Queuille in an attempt to solve a Franco-American deadlock on devaluation of the West German mark.

McCloy brushed aside most questions when he left Queuille's residence, but said his trip here was "definitely worthwhile." Asked if an agreement had been reached on devaluation, he replied, "I won't know until I get back to Germany and talk to my colleagues there."

Reliable reports said McCloy had asked France to agree to a 25 percent devaluation of the mark, thus lowering its value to 25.5 cents.

McCloy, accompanied by W. Averell Harriman, roving Marshall Plan Ambassador, United States Ambassador David K. Bruce and Minister Charles E. Bohlen, went to Queuille's residence after conferring with high French officials at the foreign office.

The French, still displeased about British devaluation of the pound sterling, were said to be trying to block plans to devalue the West German mark.

French Want Mark Devaluation of 20%

Frankfurt, Sept. 26 (NYHT)—Devaluation of the deutschemark, which the Allied High Commission had intended to be the first major act initiated and carried through by the new Western German government, instead today had turned into the first major political battle within the high commission itself.

One week ago the Allied High Commission, which held the power to devalue the mark, had passed on to the Germans responsibility for initiating devaluation action. They had expected only to review and approve the German decision. The Germans are said to have originally suggested a devaluation between 20 and 25 percent.

The Germans, Americans and British are now understood to be aligned in support of a 25 percent reduction; the French want devaluation held at 20 percent.

12, Possibly 14, Killed In Mid-Air Crash

London, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—Twelve and possibly 14 men were killed tonight when two four-engined RAF Lincoln bombers collided over Staythorpe, near Newark, 120 miles north of here.

A large bomber force was "attacking" the Staythorpe power station as a part of the combined air force maneuvers when the planes collided, bomber command headquarters said.

1200 U. S. Marines Set For Malta War Games

Valletta, Malta, Sept. 26 (U.P.)—A United States naval task force will land 1200 Marines here Tuesday as a part of maneuvers in which British Navy planes also will take part.

The United States force includes the aircraft carrier Leyte, and the cruisers Worcester and Des Moines.

Tonight is the night of the church festival. It's taken days of preparation, but things have gone smoothly because all the committee members have worked so well together.

I think that's the secret of success in any undertaking. Teamwork is just as important among friends and neighbors as it is in sports, in business and lots of other things. I know that's true of party-line telephone service.

Teamwork on a party line means allowing an interval between calls so that others may use the line . . . answering the telephone promptly . . . giving up the line quickly when it's needed in an emergency. When good party-line neighbors work together, they help themselves and everyone else on the line to better telephone service.

Questions on China Posed by Knowland

Nearing Canton

Chinese Hit Back at Red Push

By The Associated Press

Canton, Sept. 26 (AP).—China's Nationalist armies counterattacked twice today against a new Red drive which has advanced to within about 90 miles of this uneasy capital.

Canton faced its greatest peril of the civil war. Official dispatches said three Communist armies, possibly numbering 75,000 men, had penetrated Canton's Kwangtung Province on the northeast.

One Red force moved toward the key railway city of Kukong, 125 miles north of Canton. Military observers consider that if Kukong is attacked the battle for Canton itself has begun.

The counterattacks were aimed on a part of the front about 70 miles north of where the Communists made their closest approach to Canton.

The latter Communist push carried to the vicinity of Hsinfeng, which is 90 miles northeast of Canton.

(The Hongkong Standard published unconfirmed Chinese reports that Red Guerillas were operating near Poklo, 65 miles east of Canton.)

The broad front around Hengyang remained relatively quiet. The only action reported was 140 miles northwest of Hengyang. The ministry said a Communist division had been beaten back in that sector west of Supu.

The ministry declared that Amoy, the big southeast port now under heavy attack, still was in Nationalist hands. Press dispatches said several Communist attempts to land on Amoy Island were repulsed.

A reported rift between Generalissimo Chiang Kai-shek and Acting President Li Tsung-jen added to the troubles of the hard-pressed Nationalists.

The two met today for the first time since last Thursday, when Chiang returned from Chungking.

Li was portrayed as bitter because Chiang's troops in southeast China put up such poor resistance.

Senator Knowland (R., Calif.) asked yesterday whether this country would support a protest to the United Nations by Nationalist China against Soviet aid to China's Communists.

Knowland also demanded to know in a Senate speech whether the State Department intends to recognize—and trade with—the Communist regime in China.

He posed these questions in announcing that he intends to vote against Senate confirmation of W. Walton Butterworth to be Assistant Secretary of State for Far Eastern Affairs.

Butterworth's nomination has been opposed by Senators who blame him for having a part in what they call the failure of the Administration's policies in China. A vote is scheduled for today.

Knowland made public what he said was a hitherto undisclosed report by Lieut. Gen. Albert C. Wedemeyer to Chiang Kai-shek on November 10, 1945, in which Wedemeyer said President Truman "guarantees to continue to support you and the Nationalist Government."

He said this memorandum was published in China last April by Ching Nu-chi, "a Communist supporter," who acted as translator for General Wedemeyer's headquarters and for the mission to China headed by Gen. George C. Marshall.

The document proves, Knowland said, that a basic change in American policy toward the Nationalists took place in December, 1945, at the Moscow Conference of Foreign Ministers.

Knowland said he wants to know whether the Administration intends to give any further aid to the Nationalist forces in China.

"If the government of China brings the facts before the United Nations that Soviet Russia has been assisting a Communist revolutionary movement within China to overthrow the legal government of China, a fellow member of the United Nations and a permanent member of the Security Council, will she have our assistance or obstruction?" he asked.

Mason Is Named To New FTC Term

Lowell B. Mason, who once complained that Federal Trade Commission orders were written in "gobbledygook," was nominated yesterday for a new seven-year term on the commission.

President Truman sent the nomination of Mason, a Republican from Illinois, to the Senate for confirmation. Mason's new term would date from yesterday.

Mason won headlines last year when he wrote a dissenting opinion in a case and criticized his fellow commissioners for issuing "prissy" commands written in "gobbledygook."

The commission ordered a firm to stop using certain types of advertising. Mason didn't agree with the order and wrote that "when the merchants of America must all talk like Government lawyers, life will be most complicated."

Mexican Plane Carrying 23 Reported Lost

Mexico City, Sept. 26 (U.P.).—A Mexican Aviation Co. plane carrying 23 persons, possibly including two Americans, was reported missing tonight and was believed to have crashed into the 17,822-foot Popocatepetl volcano, 60 miles southeast of here.

The company said the passengers included Eugenia Goldsmith and George Graham, no home addresses immediately available, who were believed to be Americans.

The plane was en route here from Tapachula with 21 passengers and a crew of three.

The passenger list released by the company here also included the names of Gabriel Ramos Millan, head of the government's corn commission, and Rafael Munoz, jr., son of the director of protocol of the Mexican foreign ministry.

Boiler in School Overheats, Pupils Enjoy a Holiday

Approximately 1100 Gaithersburg (Md.) High School pupils yesterday enjoyed an unlooked-for holiday—thanks to an overheated boiler.

The boiler became so hot that Principal George Osterwise, fearful of an explosion, called the Gaithersburg Volunteer Fire Company as the students, responding the the fire drill bell, marched outside in good order at 9:40 a. m.

Intense heat prevented the firemen from removing the coal bed and they stood by until the boiler, its door opened, cooled off. The automatic stoker had gotten out of order, firemen said.

The children were dismissed for the day and no one was allowed back into the building until 4 p. m. The boiler will be replaced, officials said.

Israel Rejects U. N. Control Of Jerusalem

Flushing, N. Y., Sept. 26 (U.P.).—Israel tonight rejected the United Nations' demand for internationalization of Jerusalem and called upon the General Assembly to limit any moves for international control solely to the holy places of three faiths.

Aubrey S. Eban, chief Israeli representative, told the U. N.:

"My delegation will propose that the General Assembly should limit the commitment of the United Nations to the safeguarding of the holy places and initiate such formal agreements as may be necessary between the United Nations and the state of Israel for the implementation of those safeguards.

of 50 per cent of basic-longevity pay.

Physical disability retirements—Compensation to be based on degree of disability. It has been the practice to retire officers for physical reasons and give them 75 per cent of base-longevity pay.

The bill also would wipe out the war-time family allowance system for enlisted men which was based on the number of dependents and substitute a flat quarters allowance of $67.50 a month for those in higher grades. Under the old system a buck private with several children could draw more than an unmarried sergeant.

President Truman's appeal for Senate passage of the House-approved executive pay bill voiced surprise at some of the objections raised to it, particularly as they relate to key posts.

"As I have said many times," Mr. Truman wrote Barkley, "the efficient administration of the Executive branch of the Government requires well qualified people for important positions.

"Because of the inadequate salaries provided for these positions, it has become increasingly difficult for me to get and keep such people.

"The passage of the legislation . . . will help the situation materially. Unless it is passed, my difficulties will be greatly increased. The relatively small cost of this legislation will be repaid many times over in improved efficiency in the operation of the Government."

Noting that some have complained percentage increases are "too high," he said they appear so only because present official salaries are so low. He said 15 top executives in a single corporation are paid more than the aggregate salary now paid to some 250 Government officials affected by the bill.

Mr. Truman said men in the top posts have been repeatedly passed over when Congress adjusted other Government salaries, and noted: "Senators and Representatives have increased their own compensation by more than 100 percent since 1924, while the salary for many of the executive offices has not been increased at all."

He noted that his own and the Vice President's pay has been increased, that pay of some Federal judges has been raised by more than two-thirds, and that Federal employes have received increases up to 96 percent in the lower grades.

He said the House-approved increases for key posts, while lower than he recommended, provide a "reasonably adequate means for meeting this difficult problem."

"Together with the revisions of the Classification act proposed in other legislation now pending, it will provide a pattern in which the salaries for different Federal positions have a much more reasonable relationship to the relative responsibilities of those positions than under the present law," he said.

Bills Held Related

Mr. Truman stressed that all the pending pay bills are related and "substantial injustices are likely to be done unless the proper relationship between them is maintained."

Fearing recommittal of the measure to the Senate Expenditures Committee, leaders late yesterday discussed with Senate pay critics a compromise following these general rules of thumb:

No increases in excess of 50 percent of present pay.

Except for Cabinet officers, no increases to more than $15,000 a year.

No decreases in present pay.

One spokesman of the group said the compromise would reduce the estimated $1,250,000 cost of the House bill about 35 percent.

Hull Gets a Souvenir Pen . . .

WELL-DESERVED GIFT—Cordell Hull, former Secretary of State, is given the pen used by President Truman after the President signs a bill extending the Reciprocal Trade Agreements Act and giving the Chief Executive a free hand to work out tariff-cutting treaties. Yesterday's was the sixth extension of the law since its enactment in 1934 at Hull's urging walked slowly into the White House, but his face showed few signs of his long illness.

Truman Sees Tariff Cuts

Mr. Truman's statement was not only an appeal to the American people to buy more foreign goods, but also a reminder to foreign countries to get busy with dollar-earning sales drives here.

Promised to Drop Barriers

One of the promises made to British negotiators here earlier this month—a promise promptly extended to other Marshall Plan countries—was that the United States would, wherever possible, get rid of barriers blocking the entry of foreign goods.

Britain, the Netherlands and several other countries are already planning ambitious selling campaigns in the United States. They will have the help of:

(1) Recent currency devaluations which have sharply cut the dollar prices of their goods;

(2) Coming American legislation to simplify customs procedures and cut red tape at the ports; and

(3) American tariff reductions of the sort announced and foreshadowed by the President yesterday.

The President's statement recalled that for the next two years, at least, the Trade Agreements Act will be "free of the crippling restrictions imposed on it in 1948 by the Eightieth Congress.

"Through this wise and far-seeing legislation," he said, "the United States reaffirms its intention of pressing forward toward expanded world trade at a time when such action is most urgently needed."

The United States, he went on, cannot let trade barriers "stifle a progressive rise in standards of living throughout the world, which would provide our best insurance of a peaceful future."

U. S. Must Buy Abroad

"From the long-range standpoint," he said, "it is clear that only by a large expansion of our purchases of foreign goods will the needed readjustment in international economic relations be possible, on a basis consistent with a liberal world trading system and the richer world it offers."

When the new tariff agreements become effective, "33 countries carrying on approximately 80 per cent of the world's trade will be parties to a mutual undertaking to reduce trade barriers and expand international commerce," the President said. Twenty-three countries, he explained, negotiated agreements at Geneva last year, and 10 more in long-drawn-out negotiations at Annecy, France, this year.

"Beyond completing the Annecy negotiations," he said, "I intend to uss the authority given me by this legislation to proceed with negotiations under the general agreement to make it an even more effective dcoument." This was a cryptic way of saying that the Administration would start a third round of tariff-cutting negotiations next year.

The statement ended with a plea for prompt congressional approval of the International Trade Organization charter, which is expected to come before Congress early in the next session.

Altitude Record Believed Set by Woman Flier

Reading, Pa., Sept. 26 (U.P.).—Tiny Mrs. Mildred Zimmerman made a second attempt today to set a world's altitude record for a light plane and a National Aeronautics Association official said she apparently made it.

The 27-year-old, 98-pound mother soared her small Piper Cub to a height of 26,400 feet—200 feet higher than her previous climb, which was not accepted because of a technicality.

Charles Logsdon, NAA technician, said she appeared to have set a new record on today's flight

Meet Louis Karg— Another "Do-it-yourself" American

He's on his way up!

Louis A. Karg of Canton, Ohio, was a screw machine operator with ideas and ambitions, and the initiative to do something about them. He took courses in metallurgy on the side. He used his wits to invent a special gauging device for seamless tubing. Result? He won himself a job as machining service engineer at The Timken Roller Bearing Company. Today at 32, he's sales development engineer, a specialist in his field. He's on his way up... he did it on his own!

☆ It's the American Spirit!

YES, LOUIS KARG opened up a "new frontier" for himself : : : on his own Main Street! Like thousands of others, he has the traditional do-it-yourself spirit that finds opportunities in today's America—and makes the most of them.

In your own home town, you'll find another proof that most folks still believe in taking care of their own—on their own. It lies in the fact that 4 out of 5 American families are voluntary owners of life insurance. And through their life insurance they also help open up opportunities for other Americans. For every year many of their life insurance dollars are invested in industries, homes, farms. This means more jobs and better living for everyone. And more security at lower cost for America's 78 million policyowners.

Because more people look to life insurance service every year, life insurance has grown to meet their needs. Today more than 150,000 trained agents and 584 separate life insurance companies compete aggressively and constantly to help Americans help themselves!

It's a Fact...

It's a fact that the affairs of the life insurance business are an "open book," because:

- Every life insurance company has to file a report every year in every state in which it is licensed to do business.
- These reports to the state supervisory authorities completely cover each company's insurance and financial operations. They are open to the public at any time.
- The state authorities also have the right to inquire into any of the company's affairs at any time And in most states examinations of the company must be made at regular intervals. These examination reports, too, are open to public inspection.

The insurance commissioner at your state capital will welcome inquiries. Or an inquiry to your company or your agent will be gladly answered. See your life insurance agent. Getting information for you is one of the many ways he helps demonstrate that life insurance is a service!

Union Authorizes Electric Strike Vote

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—The CIO United Electrical Workers tonight authorized a strike vote if forthcoming negotiations fail between the union, the General Electric Co. and Westinghouse Corp.

About 100 representatives from nationwide GE locals and 65 Westinghouse locals were present.

A strike vote would involve an estimated 200,000 union members in the companies' plants.

The negotiating committees made the strike-vote recommendation September 14 because of the companies' refusal to grant a $500-a-year "package" of benefits for each worker. This would include pay increases, reduced hours with no cut in pay, and improved pension, health and insurance plans.

Longshoremen Ease Demands on East Coast

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—A Federal mediator had some success today in his efforts to prevent a threatened strike of East Coast longshoremen set for after Friday midnight. The union scaled down its demands.

Mediator Thomas R. Steutel met with union negotiators, headed by Joseph R. Ryan, president of the AFL International Longshoremen's Association.

After the session, Ryan said the union modified its last announced proposal of a 12-cent hourly wage increase plus other benefits. The ILA now will accept an over-all 12-cent increase, including pension and welfare improvements, Ryan said.

The threatened work stoppage would affect some 65,000 union members in ports from Portland, Me., to Hampton Roads, Va. The present contract expires Friday midnight.

Man-to-Man Steel Talks In Progress

Pittsburgh, Sept. 26 (AP).—Steel contract negotiations settled down to man-to-man talks today, with the CIO and the United States Steel Corp. reducing bargaining teams to top officials and pension experts.

"Big Steel" and the United Steelworkers Union each led six-man groups into a small hotel conference room for all-day sessions behind closed doors. Last week each side had 35 to 40 men apiece.

The only hint as to their progress came from President Philip Murray of the Steelworkers. He said:

"We are seriously considering our problems."

Pension Is Big Issue

John A. Stephens, vice president of U. S. Steel and the company's chief negotiator, commented: "I have nothing to add to that."

The big issue is union insistence on company financed pension and insurance programs. The industry wants workers to share the financial burden.

Negotiators are working against a strike deadline, thrice postponed and now set for 12:01 a. m. Saturday. Negotiations were resumed last Friday for the first time since July at the request of President Truman. He asked industry and union to give earnest consideration to recommendations of his steel fact finding board.

Other Negotiations Under Way

That board recommended workers give up wage demands and that the disputants settle for a 10-cent hourly package of company financed pension and insurance programs.

Elsewhere in Pittsburgh and in Cleveland, Chicago, Youngstown, New York and other cities, contract negotiations are under way between the million-member union and more than 50 other steel producing companies.

But since the United States Steel talks almost always fix the pattern for the entire industry, most attention centered on Stephens and Murray.

Zinc Company Struck

Superior officials sent telegrams to all workers declaring the companies will not hold any contract conferences with the union as long as the work stoppages continue.

Those walkouts are blamed by companies and union alike on the tense Nation-wide steel situation. A union source said workers are dissatisfied with the three extensions already made of the strike deadline.

The Steelworkers Union went on strike against the New Jersey Zinc Co. at Palmerton, Pa., in a work stoppage unconnected with the steel pension dispute.

About 2000 workers laid down their tools in support of demands for wage increases and insurance and pension benefits. The contract expired last midnight with no new bargaining session scheduled.

ployes of coal-hauling railroads.

Pittsburgh Coal Co. today stopped operations at its Smiths Ferry, Pa., docks on the Ohio River and shut down its coal washing plant at Negley, Ohio, because of lack of coal to process. Thirty workers were made jobless.

The Nation-wide walkout promises to be a long one. UMW Chief Lewis has no further contract talks scheduled with the coal industry until Thursday. Then he will resume negotiations with Northern and Western operators at White Sulphur Springs, W. Va.

The current mine walkout stems from suspension of the union's pension and welfare fund benefits. Lewis and other trustees of the fund cut off payments when some Southern operators stopped paying the 20-cents-a-ton royalty because they contended their contract had expired.

Lewis in No Hurry

Lewis is believed in no hurry to settle the coal dispute. For one thing he wants to see first what happens to his one-time friend, Philip Murray, in his battle for pensions with the steel industry. Steel talks resumed today with negotiators working against a five-day deadline to avert a Nation-wide strike.

Then too, a long walkout means depleted coal supplies which would strengthen Lewis' bargaining hand.

At present there is still a 50-day supply of coal on hand to keep industry humming. They only report of a shortage came from Wilkes-Barre, Pa. There the UMW gave permission to clean and prepare 65,000 tons of coal needed by the Nanticoke State Hospital and individual consumers. A breaker crew of 70 mines reported to handle the operation.

Eastern Pennsylvania's 80,000 anthracite diggers walked out in support of the bituminous strike. Representative Harry P. O'Neill (D., Pa.) said today he will ask Lewis to reopen the anthracite mines. He noted the hard coal diggers are losing an estimated one million dollars daily in wages and said he is acting to aid the region's economy.

come taxes from 1920 to 1923. He has paid the Government $3,670,784 in back taxes and penalties.

Blackmer left the country in 1924 to avoid testifying in the Teapot Dome congressional investigation. The indictments were returned by a Federal grand jury in Denver four years later.

Blackmer helped organize the Continental Trading Co. Profits of the company were converted into United States bonds, some of which were traced to Albert B. Fall, former Secretary of the Interior.

Fall was sentenced to prison for alleged acceptance of a $200,000 bribe for the sale of Government naval oil reserves to private interests for less than the market price.

After Blackmer entered his plea today, Judge Phillips set his bond at $5000 and told him it would be all right for him to return to Boston, where he has been taking medical treatments in a clinic.

Judge Phillips said it would be "not less than 30 days" before he is ready to pass sentence on the evasion charge and make his decision on the perjury indictments.

Go Slowly on Color Video, FCC Urged

By The Associated Press

Radio's top technical advisers yesterday advised the Federal Communications Commission to "make haste slowly" in authorizing regular color television.

Their idea, they said, is that the public is entitled to the best color system possible, that it should if possible be worked into the current operations to protect present set owners, and that for these purposes further extensive testing is required.

The technicians' views were presented at the FCC television hearings by Donald G. Fink, New York City, chairman of the Joint Technical Advisory Committee, which makes special studies for the broadcasting industry.

More Air Space Needed

The most important thing to be done now, Fink said, is to provide very much more space on the air for television. He testified that the present 12 channels and the 42 more which the commission is preparing to authorize are not enough to meet the public demand for local outlets.

Television, he said, is entitled to at least as many channels as the other broadcasting services—standard radio has 106 and FM 100.

Fink asserted it was imperative to get television settled into the channel assignments which will be its permanent future home, allocate the channels across the country—and then go into the color question.

President Raymond C. Cosgrove of the Radio Manufacturers' Association meanwhile said in a statement prepared for the hearings that his organization will insist that present-set owners be protected in any color authority. He advocated a requirement that color programs be broadcast in such a way as to be available for black-and-white viewing on existing receivers.

Three Million Sets Seen

Cosgrove asserted that by the end of this year some three million video sets will be in the hands of the public, representing an investment of about one billion dollars.

He added that "no system for broadcasting color has been proved by field tests to be ready for commercial use yet."

After Fink had testified that there are now nine possible color systems and that in the nature of the operations only one can be authorized, Commissioner Robert F. Jones pressed him for an estimate on how long he thought the FCC should wait for the best to show up. Fink declined ot estimate.

"Should we wait until all color systems are perfected?" Jones asked.

"I would not say," said the witness. "I would not want to prejudice those systems which are still on the drawing boards."

"Field Testing" Need Cited

What the technical committee wants to see, he said, is extensive "field testing," that is in the hands of ordinary citizens, and under all conditions of broadcasting.

Then, he said, if the FCC found it could not practically work color into the black-and-white channels, the commission should look for a new section of the spectrum to place color, by itself.

However, he added that this should be done "only if all else fails."

Cosgrove urged the commission to go forward as quick as possible with the addition of 42 proposed new channels to the present 12-channel system, and their assignment to local communities.

"We are anxious," he asserted, "that service be extended to small town and rural areas as soon as possible. They are entitled to the educational and entertainment programs that have become a part of our life in the areas now having service.'

An immediate lifting of the 10-month-old freeze on new television station grants should follow these allocations, Cosgrove testified.

Color Television Displayed Here

Color television was demonstrated here last night in the first of a series of tests by commercial television companies designed to prove it is ready for home consumption.

A half hour variety show was presented to a group of newsmen at the Statler Hotel by the Columbia Broadcasting System, one of the principals in the television hearing which opened yesterday before the Federal Communications Commission.

The showing was made at the hotel where special television sets had been installed to receive color transmissions from WOIC, local television station cooperating in the tests.

CBS officials explained that color telecasts cannot be received on present sets but they can be converted to color for about $75.

Truman Will Address Democratic Women

By the United Press

President Truman will make a 10-minute radio speech today in observance of Democratic Women's Day, the White House announced yesterday.

The program on which he will speak will be carried over the Mutual Broadcasting System from 3 to 3:15 p. m. EST and rebroadcast later by the Columbia Broadcasting System and American Broadcasting Company.

The President will be introduced by Mrs. India Edwards, director of the Women's division of the Democratic National Committee.

It also was disclosed that Mr. Truman will stop in St. Louis to install new officers of the Missouri Masonic Grand Lodge Thursday morning en route to Kansas City.

The Chief Executive is a 33d degree Mason and a member of the Mt. Ararat lodge of Kansas City.

Mr. Truman will take off by plane from Washington at 7:30 p. m. (EST) Wednesday, arriving at Lambert Field, St. Louis, at 10:20 p. m. He will spend the night at the Sheraton Hotel and go to the Masonic Temple in the morning for the installation.

He is due to leave St. Louis by plane at 2 p. m. for a one-hour flight to the Fairfax, Kans., air base, adjoining Kansas City.

Thursday night he will speak extemporaneously at 10:30 p. m. at a testimonial dinner for William M. Boyle, jr., new chairman of the Democratic National Committee. The dinner will be held in the Kansas City Municipal Auditorium.

The President will take off Friday afternoon at 3 p. m. for the return to Washington. He is due at the Capital at about 6:15 p. m.

On Saturday, Mr. Truman will attend a Navy show here marking the 150th anniversary of the naval gun factory.

Figures Show 37% Rise In Newspaper Reading

Atlanta, Sept. 26 (AP).—Thirty-seven percent more people in Florida, Georgia, Alabama, Mississippi, the Carolinas and Tennessee now are reading daily newspapers than before the war. The aggregate circulation per issue in 1947 was 7,251,309, a gain of almost 2,000,000 over 1939 figures.

Jury Indicts Man In Attack on Girl, 4

Hugh G. Mincey, 32-year-old ironworker, was indicted yesterday by the District grand jury on a charge of carnally knowing a 4-year-old girl.

Mincey, who resided at 518 H st. nw., where the attack on the girl took place, is now in District jail without bond pending District Court action.

Police said that he admitted the rape, stating that he had been drinking and was sorry. The girl found was torn and bleeding on September 13 in the H st. residence.

This was among 41 true bills returned here yesterday.

Fraud charges were leveled against the Greek Railway Express, Inc., James A. Booras, 4314 Argyle ter. nw., its organizer, and his nephew, Constantine A. Booras, of Brooklyn, N. Y.

According to the indictment, the trio made false and fraudulent statements to the Department of Commerce for export licenses and priority assistance in listing donors of gift packages sent here to Greece. Many thousands of pounds of rice and flour were involved.

Molly R. Chambliss, 44, of 735 New Jersey ave. nw., was indicted on a count of "torturing, cruelly beating, abusing and maltreating William Apple, jr.," an 8-month-old boy for whom she was hired by his mother, Mrs. William Apple, to act as baby sitter.

Police said that on September 9 the boy was dropped by the woman who had been drinking. The boy was found by neighbors on a hall step after Mrs. Chambliss had wandered off. Mr. and Mrs. Apple had gone on a short trip.

The Worthington Oil Refiners Corp., 22d and North Oak sts., Rosslyn, Va., was charged jointly with its manager, Vernald T. Worthington, 1739 N. Troy st., Arlington, with polluting the Potomac River, with waste products and oil.

Worthington told a reporter he had "gone to great expense" to prevent oil seepage into the river. He said that he could recall only one complaint, when several months ago an oil hose slipped and entered a compartment which may have drained into the water.

A first-degree murder indictment was filed against John Hudgens, 27, of 775 Harvard st. nw., in the fatal back stabbing of Bennie L. Gist, 39, of 1712 Lincoln rd. ne.

According to court papers, Gist was slain when Hudgens came to Gist's apartment on September 3. Police said Hudgens sought to take Gist's wife, Modest Gist, 36, away from him and that she refused to go.

Second-degree murder was charged to Nathaniel Nickens, 24, 21 Randolph pl. nw., for the fatal stabbing with a switchblade knife of Amos Wade, 21, of 20 Florida ave. ne. Also charged with second-degree murder by knifing was Mrs. Florence E. Holmes. She killed, according to the indictment, Tasco Holmes, 47, of 490 Casey ct. sw. He is described by police as her common-law husband.

Bernard F. Toomey, 38, a waiter, of 511 4th st. nw., was indicted for the holdup of O'Donnell's Sea Grill, Inc., on August 25, when $174.85 was taken from the cashier.

Burglars Raid Four Offices

Energetic, yet cautious, burglers invaded four offices in one building over the weekend, according to reports to police yesterday, but carefully avoided the headquarters of a burglar alarm and watchman company.

Location of the victims is the Beacon Building, 1757 K st. nw., which also houses the American District Telegraph Co. The victims, and their losses were:

Home Building Association of the National Capital Area, $9.50, taken from a pried-open cabinet safe.

United Paper Workers of America (CIO), $10 from a desk drawer.

American Public Power Association, a $100 camera and $41 cash, the latter in a box in a steel cabinet.

Symington Quiets Rumors of Senate Run

Air Force Secretary Symington doesn't plan to toss his hat into Missouri's Senate race in 1950.

Rumors have been current lately that Symington, who comes from St. Louis, was thinking of campaigning next year for the seat now held by Senator Forrest C. Donnell (R., Mo.) whose term ends January 3, 1951.

Asked if the rumors were true, Symington sent word out from his office that "he does not plan to run for the Senate in 1950."

British, Czech Trade Pact to Be Signed

London, Sept. 26 (AP).—Britain and Czechoslovakia are to sign a five-year trade pact involving at least £110,000,000 (280 million dollars) worth of business, within the next 48 hours, official sources reported tonight.

his wish that it prosper and remember him, and to his colleagues in the orchestra and National Symphony Association, his thanks and blessings.

In his will, dated March 15, 1947, Dr. Kindler writes:

"The making of a will should be a high point in a man's life, a moment where he disposes of his material acquisitions in order more fully to devote himself to matters of the spirit. Alas! today this is no longer possible as it once was. The way of life has changed too definitely and too radically to allow of material security as well as most mental and spiritual certitudes.

"We can but do the best under the circumstances. A few, a very few personal positives remain: The inherent values of understanding and unquestioning friendships, faith in the remains of the high and creative accomplishments of past generations, in the blessed belief of simple daily tasks, in the wonders of the soil, the seas, the skies, the rivers, and the stars.

"I thank the Creator also for allowing me to still believe in the eternal Trinity of Bach, Mozart and Beethoven, and for having enabled me to find relief from the cares and troubles and miseries of the world among friends, in nature—and in the lasting paradise of music. I hope and pray my children will in this same way be blessed as I have been.

"For my sins, and they are many, I ask forgiveness, and I humbly recommend my soul to the God of Music, in Whose realm I have labored and found my reward ever since I can remember."

He uged that those who survived him use "utmost simplicity" in disposing of his body.

"I would like, if possible, to have it put . . . preferably on a hilltop. If this be impossible, then either to be buried with a few heavy stones around it at the little graveyard of Iris Hill, or to be cremated.

"I definitely do not want my body to be handled by undertakers, nor to have it exposed after the second day. Just a few bandages will be, sufficient," he said.

He wanted the Musical Art String Quartet to play the slow movement of the Haydn Quartet in C major (the Gypsy), and also "any of the better chorales of Bach" and a movement from one of the better Mozart quartets, "not by any means a slow and sad one, but, for instance, a good, fast one."

(Editor's note: His funeral was private and was handled by an undertaker. The quartet mentioned is no longer extant, according to Dr. Kindler's secretary, Mrs. Willis Fisk, and the music was not played, she told a reporter.)

In his 1947 will, Dr. Kindler gave $20,000 to his former wife, Alice Riddle Kindler, now in France. Of her, he says, "who, although we have had many difficulties, in her own way was always of the best and noblest intentions."

But in his handwritten codicil of August 21, 1949, in New England Baptist Hospital, he revokes this and gives her only the securities they held jointly.

He divides the bulk of his estate into six equal parts to be distributed among his widow, Mrs. Persis Myers Kindler, his children and his grandchildren.

To Mrs. Mary Howe of 1821 H st. nw., "my constant helper, comrade and friend in matters musical and personal in general," his set of Maupassant and any personal remembrance she wishes.

To Walter Bruce Howe, 1821 H st. nw., "whom I loved," a set of Johnson's Dictionary. The Howes were active in the association.

To Mildred Fisk, his secretary, $5000 and a memento.

To the Arts Club, the picture of the late H. Inden, a painter and member of the club.

To Florence Reilly of California, "who for a number of years made me happy with her deep and understanding friendship," $3000.

He lists as part of his estate a Bach edition, which he values at $750; Brahms letters, $500; his musical library, $5000 to $8000, and two cellos, each worth between $1400 and $2500.

His reference to the concert to be given after his death is contained in these lines:

"Out of current business expenses, there shall be taken $2000 to be used in one public concert, preferably at the Library of Congress, and one at the Textile Museum and one at the Walter Bruce Howe's, of Tii Niemela. Also concert at Times Hall in New York, $800 to $1000, including publicity, advertising, etc."

Neely's Needle

It is no disparagement of Senator Neely to say that he has surprised many District residents by the energy and determination he has thrown into his assignment as chairman of the Senate District Committee. Our new senatorial "mayor" has not only given local citizens an extraordinary opportunity to make their wants known; he is now needling local citizen groups because of their apathy after being "shipwrecked on a voiceless, voteless island in the midst of the greatest ocean of democracy in the world." In addressing the District Democratic Club, he pointedly urged the shipwrecked victims to rescue themselves, even if it requires mass meetings on the steps of the Capitol.

Civic groups should take up the suggestion promptly, except that their first meeting will be held in front of the House rather than the Senate wing of the Capitol. It is the supposedly well disciplined and efficient House that has permitted the District home-rule bill to be sidetracked. It is the House in which most of the misinformation about the District is to be found. In some respects the House is the most democratic body in the world, but in its capacity as a legislature for Washington it has been singularly unenlightened and unresponsive to the elementary principles of American government. The leaders of that body who have urged a different course would doubtless welcome some semblance of revolutionary activity on the part of local citizens to wake up the House to a sense of its responsibilities.

As a reminder that the Senate has not yet done its full duty, Senator Neely will propose a constitutional amendment giving the District Representatives in Congress and a vote for presidential candidates. His announcement gives fresh emphasis to the fact that the home-rule bill is only half a loaf. But there ought to be a clear understanding that the new Neely resolution will not be permitted to get in the way of home rule. All the energy that friends of the District can muster in Congress, and all of the steam that the local community can build up, ought to be directed at getting the home-rule bill through the House. With an elected local government functioning, it should not take long to prove to Congress the equity of giving Washingtonians a full-fledged vote.

Cominform's End

Announcement of the dissolution of the Cominform by a member of the Yugoslav Politburo, Moshe Piyade, must be reckoned unofficial and perhaps a trifle premature. It is some time, of course, since Mr. Piyade or any other follower of the Titoist deviation has been a member of the Cominform in good standing. Nevertheless, he may be presumed to know, within limits, what he is talking about. And, according to an article he has written for the Communist Party (Yugoslav branch) newspaper, Borba, there has not been a meeting of the Cominform since June, 1948, when it expelled Marshal Tito's party on the ground of un-Marxist nationalism.

The Cominform, it will be remembered, is, or was, the geopolitical and propaganda agency of international communism established in 1947 to replace the old Comintern which Stalin so magnanimously dissolved during his wartime partnership with the decadent democracies. The idea, as we understood it from the official explanation, was that the several sovereign and independent governments of the recently communized countries, together with the great Soviet motherland of communism, would take common counsel and inform the world respecting their common policy in resistance to capitalist aggression.

It appears from Mr. Piyade's article, however, that, although it was supposed to convene every two months, the Cominform held only two meetings, the one in which it was organized and the one in which Yugoslavia was expelled. "The world has never been informed of any other Cominform meeting," he wrote. "In fact, it does not exist any more. The only thing surviving from it is its organ, the dirtiest journalistic rag that has ever soiled the international working-class movement. The Cominform today is only a name." Perhaps, if Mr. Piyade but realized it, the Cominform was only a name from the very beginning. That it has ceased to exist, simply because the Yugoslav Communist Party is not now consulted in the formulation of its policies, seems a somewhat naive assumption. The Yugoslav Communist Party was never supposed to be consulted. But no doubt the Cominform will continue accurately to reflect, when occasion makes it seem expedient, the propaganda and policies of its manipulators in the Kremlin.

Investment In Brains

Charles Evans Hughes used to say that a large part of the genius of our political system lay in its ability to harness strong men to the democratic chariot. The present Administration has been terribly handicapped in its efforts to keep such men harnessed to the public service because Congress has permitted the salaries for top executives to sag out of all reasonable relationship, either to other salaries or to the responsibilties these men carry. The result is a critical loss of talent. The exodus of underpaid executives from Government positions has again brought from President Truman an urgent appeal for enactment of the House-passed bill to increase their salaries.

"The 12 top executives of a single private corporation in this country," the President wrote to Vice President Barkley yesterday, "are paid more than the aggregate salary now paid to all the 250 or so Federal officers to whom this bill applies." Congress has increased the compensation of its own members by more than 100 percent since 1924, while some executive officials have received no increase since that time. In the lower grades of the Civil Service increases range up to 96 percent since 1945, with no increase whatever for Cabinet members, commission heads and other topflight administrators. The simplest considerations of justice require a sharp upward revision of these long-neglected salaries.

Even justice to the individual is less important than the public interest in securing first-class talent for these top assignments. "Because of the inadequate salaries provided for these positions," Mr. Truman wrote, "it has become increasingly difficult for me to get and keep such people. The relatively small cost of this legislation will be repaid many times over in improved efficiency in the operation of the Government." Brains in any big establishment are a paying investment. In the Government in this critical period the quality of our leadership will determine our security and survival. It is tragically shortsighted to drive out of the Government service men of exceptional ability or to leave them harassed by financial worries for want of reasonable salaries that the Nation can well afford to pay.

Some amendments to the Senate bill are desirable, notably to give members of the Atomic Energy Commission and the Federal Reserve Board commensurate increases. The events of recent days have given special emphasis to the need for recognition of the enormous responsibilty of the AEC. By the same token the whole governmental structure ought to be rebuttressed by adequate salaries at the higher levels where the tone of the entire Federal service is set.

Price Spreads

Senator Gillette declares that middlemen are keeping up food prices either because of inefficiency or profit grabbing, and he thinks that something should be done about it. As chairman of an Agricultural Subcommittee that is investigating food prices, the Senator will have opportunity to learn whether his preconceived idea of the causes of the spread between prices paid to farmers and the cost of food to consumers is justified.

Many of our large distributive agencies are highly efficient, and their profits per dollar of sales are extremely low. These facts suggest that the spread between prices paid to producers for foodstuffs and prices paid by the housewife for groceries is not due to either inefficiency or profit grabbing but to the piling-up of costs at various stages of the distributive process. No doubt, in some cases, the costs of distribution could be reduced by changes in marketing methods and elimination of waste. The Senate inquiry could profitably be directed toward a study of such problems. But even the slightest knowledge of our present-day system of distribution makes it plain that the consumer benefits from, and must pay for, the services of a great army of people engaged in processing, packaging, shipping, selling, and advertising products on their way to the consumer.

However, it is the widening of the spread between retail and other prices, brought about by the lagging pace of retail price declines, that creates the suspicion that middlemen are profiteers. The public wants to know why the July 15 consumers' food price index was only 7 percent below the peak level of last summer, when the prices paid farmers for all products were 19 percent below the peak figure of January, 1948. People also ask why the cost of living index (July 15) dropped only 3 percent during the year despite a concurrent decline of about 10 percent in the all-commodities wholesale price index.

Of course, there is no single explanation for these inequalities, but the comparatively slow rate of decline of the retail price level is no doubt due in large part to the fact that wages and salaries paid by middlemen have not declined, transportation costs have risen, and so have construction costs and rents. Retail prices have to be high enough to cover distributive costs of this kind at every stage of production, in addition to providing reasonable profits, if intermediate handlers and retailers are to remain in business. Moreover, for obvious reasons, retail prices normally rise later and decline later than other prices, since it takes time for changes in prices at producer levels to be reflected in prices charged the final consumer.

But whatever the reasons for the limited decline in retail prices, the result is that the pressure of high living costs has not been appreciably lightened, and is still being cited as an argument in favor of wage increases. Unfortunately, if such demands are granted, the results will be to raise production and distributive costs all along the line and increase the spread between retail and other prices.

Recognition

The withholding of recognition or ambassadorial relations from a country in peacetime is in general an acknowledgment of a paralysis of policy rather than a demonstration of policy. In this respect Senator Taft is, it seems to us, right in urging the restoration of ambassadorial relations with Franco's Spain. Unfortunately he spoils his argument by mixing up recognition with friendship and alliance. The act of recognition should have nothing to do with these considerations, but should be regarded as the means of doing business with another country, whether the regime is liked or disliked. Indeed, in the latter case the chances of influencing a change—in the case of Franco's Spain to representative government—are greater when there is a speaking terms relation than when there isn't.

U. N. action in 1946 in calling for the withdrawal of ambassadors from Spain was due to several circumstances. Many nations, with recent memories of their losses from Hitlerian aggression, resented Franco's wartime professions of friendship with Hitler, the man who made him boss of Spain. Others observed with disquiet a post-war Nazi flight to Madrid and Buenos Aires; on this continent, particularly, the evidence was accumulating of the establishment of a Spanish fascism. Dr. Padilla, former Mexican Foreign Minister, made a powerful impression upon the Chapultepec conference in 1945 with his declaration that without the United States the continent might take on what he called "a Falangist Hispanidad." It was in this atmosphere that Spain was barred from the United Nations and later found itself under ambassadorial boycott.

Times have changed, and a more correct view of diplomatic relations is now in order. Indeed, it was rather absurd of the Assembly to exclude Spain while its Argentine cohort was within the family. But what we have against this attitude is that it is worse than futile. In the case of Spain, Franco has probably gained in popular support as a result of the Assembly's action. Moreover, the arms-length relation has deprived this country of information as well as influence. However, in pleading for a return to diplomatic correctness, let us not talk of friendship or a military alliance. As for the former, it cannot be ignored that the persecution of Protestants in Spain is reported to be just as bad as the persecution of Catholics behind the iron curtain. As for the alliance talk, there are other countries to think of, and they are not as ready to eat their scruples as Senator Taft would have this country do. In this latter respect it is our opinion that it was highly unbecoming of the American Navy to conduct its recent quasi-diplomatic and ceremonial exchanges with the Caudillo. The State Department, surely, is still in charge of this country's foreign relations.

Spies And The Bomb

Representative Harold H. Velde no doubt speaks for a segment of legislative opinion in regarding the Russian explosion as testimony to loose security in America. The Russians have gained from three to five years in making the bomb, Mr. Velde says, "solely because the American Government . . . has had the official attitude . . . of being highly tolerant of, and at times even sympathetic to, the views of Communists and fellow travelers," with the result that it is infiltrated with spies.

Mr. Velde and those who feel with him assume (1) that there is or was such a thing as a "secret" which could be stolen, and (2) that Communist spies were completely successful in spiriting away the "formula." Neither assumption holds water. Indeed, as (we believe), Dr. Urey put it, had our "formula" been in Russian possession, it might have put the Russians off the track of their own researches. That the Russians have tried to obtain atomic information through espionage is attested by, among other evidence, the Canadian spy trials. It is also possible that, despite elaborate precautions, they pilfered some information of value. Every country wants to know what a potential enemy is doing. However, fundamentally, the manufacture of an atomic bomb is a problem in technology in which paper knowledge alone means little. From the beginning scientists have insisted that the Russian success was merely a matter of time and application of data known everywhere.

There is, of course, every reason to maintain a rigorous security in those limited areas of classified information that might help the Russians speed up their program. But if recriminations are allowed to divert attention from the main objective of production, the Russians will be helped. No one can tell, for instance, how much time and energy and enthusiasm were wasted this summer by the Hickenlooper inquiry—aimed, as is the Velde outbreak, to ferret out scapegoats rather than to help in the formulation of policy.

Trade With Russia

Russia's atomic blast upsets considerably the usual American view of that country. We have held, and rather strenuously, that only a nation with resources and people industrialized as ours could build complexes to compare with Hanford and Oak Ridge. It's now apparent that Russia's industrial development is far more advanced than we thought.

We should have remembered 1929 when the first five-year plan was announced. It was discounted as fanciful, but the plan was completed with little or no American industrial participation. In fact, not till 1933-34 did our industry accept orders on a wide scale which joined in fulfilling the second five-year plan and incidentally helped pull us out of depression.

Here are two lessons in a generation (1929-49)—both significant in that we maintained embargoes on all capital goods to Russia at a time we thought critical to her. This time we went further and the export licensing curbs include eastern Europe and China—using the "war potential yardstick" ban until our foreign trade in these areas has dwindled to practically zero.

We must, in view of past experiences and present facts, consider an attitude that will help American policy at home and abroad, because exports are falling rapidly everywhere, dollar areas vanish, and at our doorstep lowered production and unemployment loom as growing difficulties.

If we wait for a 1933-34-35 to reappear before we recognize facts, the hardships may add up to more severe results, because history has moved 20 years further. The time is now, in my opinion, to explore the markets which have been called iron curtain areas on a basis of free, equal and sovereign trade or mutual national interest. The atom blast indicates that we have more to gain by building bonds of trade which will insure understanding, friendship and peace.

Child Care Centers

It seems to me that if your paper had fought as strongly and conscientiously for the continuance of the child day care centers as you did for the Sesquicentennial, we might not have had the tragic, unreasoning act by the Senate Appropriations Committee of September 20. I wonder if they realize what harm they have done by refusing to restore the cut in the child day care centers bill which had been made by the totally blind House?

Not only did they refuse to restore the cut but offered no plan in place of the child day care centers. They did, of course, appropriate three million dollars for the Sesquicentennial which is sure to benefit all the little children let loose on the streets because of lack of adequate care while their mothers work. Not career mothers, mind you, but mothers who must work because they are the sole support of their families.

Child day care centers are not as exciting and world-shaking as celebrations for a 150th anniversary of a city, but they are infinitely more useful and practical. Twenty years from today, no one will give a hang about whether or not the city celebrated a birthday, but they will wonder what is happening to the younger generation. The hundreds of children now using the centers and the hundreds more who could be using them, but can't because there aren't enough centers, will not benefit by this senseless display.

On the other hand, they will be seriously harmed. The mothers simply cannot afford private care and I would love to know how the Public Welfare Department will take care of those families who turn to them for help when it has not enough money to care for those already getting assistance.

Editor's note: The Senate yesterday restored the sum cut by the Appropriation Committee.

Interracial Committee

I have been particularly disturbed about proposals to give "official" status to the recently formed Citizens Interracial Committee, in keeping with the idea by Senator Matthew M. Neely, chairman of the Senate District Committee. For the most part, the 17 Negro and 17 white citizens chosen for the Citizens Interracial Committee are competent, and can well represent community needs and interests. But, in following the record of the one chosen to head such a fine group of people, I question the committee's ability to successfully function as envisioned by Senator Neely and the majority of the citizens of the District of Columbia.

Mr. Clifford H. Newell, past president of the Federation of Citizens' Associations, was recently chosen to head 17 Negro and 17 white citizens known as the Citizens Interracial Committee. This committee was organized in the midst of the controversy around the use of the swimming pools here. It is a well-known fact that Mr. Newell is a leader of the majority group that advocates segregation in our Nation's Capital.

It is obvious that Mr. Newell was given this appointment, at this time, so that he may have some responsibility in these racial decisions. But I strongly feel that the majority of the citizens of the District of Columbia would not trust the fate of "official" racial decisions in the hands of Mr. Newell.

High School Cadets

It is important for people to face facts and see that the present Cadet Corps is worthless in preparation for modern defense, as it is mostly drill.

Modern war is an all-out, highly technical matter. It is most urgent that all defense training be put on a realistic basis. One important phase of it would be the forming of a Junior ROTC in schools making it compulsory, or at least a matter of honor, integrating into the school curriculum, teaching riflery, military science, first aid, etc., and dispensing with uniforms, as many cannot afford them.

It would be a serious mistake to have cadet training take the place of any physical training. The complete manpower of over five million men was lost during World War II, and partial loss of many more, through physical disability. Calisthenics, especially, should be required in every year of school life, as they are the only exercises that build up all the muscles of all the children. In competitive games many of the children sit on the sidelines during much of the period.

If this defense training were spread over a period of years, it would cause no hardship, but would save much, as no country would attack us if it knew we were strongly prepared.

Washington. I. M.

Outlawing The Bomb

Now that the Russians apparently have the know-how of the atom bomb, there will probably be considerable agitation for outlawing the bomb in case of war. In other words, the implication is that war is an honorable pursuit as long as the rules of the "game" are observed.

It seems utterly ridiculous to outlaw any weapon in time of war. A human being is just as dead regardless of whether the killing is the result of an A-bomb, a flame-thrower, or a shot from a rifle. And the attempt to give some legal sanction to warfare by making rules for its conduct is indeed silly.

The only rule that should be made in connection with warfare is that war itself should be outlawed.

As long as national militarism persists, world security is jeopardized. The "big stick" thesis is fraught with danger.

In order to eliminate war, world disarmament should be our first objective. Then, all nations must relinquish their power to wage war and place it in the hands of the United Nations or a world community of nations. National militarism has clouded the history of the past. It must be supplanted by an international police force if the world is to have peace.

Arlington Reburials

I was surprised and pained to read the September 13 letter signed by O. P. Anderson, complaining of the manner in which the reburial of the late war dead is conducted at the Arlington National Cemetery. I unhappily participated a short time ago in the ceremony of the reburial of my son in that beautiful cemetery; and there certainly was no justification for such complaints as Mr. Anderson makes.

My son's widow, my daughter and myself were received with the most becoming sympathetic courtesy; and a young man of the same rank as that of my late son (staff sergeant) was appointed to accompany us to the place of burial. The ceremony was simple and most impressive; and the thoughtful gesture of presenting to my daughter-in-law the flag that had draped my son's coffin touched me deeply.

When I read Colonel Cole's letter of September 21 I felt it my duty to offer this simple testimonial to the manner in which he and his staff perform their melancholy duties.

Displaced Employes

Despite the money and effort being made to take care of DP's in Europe, and I am entirely in sympathy with our action, it seems incredible that little, if anything, has been done to take care of our own displaced persons—the career employes in Government who were discharged in reduction of forces, some two years ago.

Yet, on the other hand, preparation is being made to blanket in thousands—or is it only hundreds—of war service and temporary employes, simply because they've held their jobs since 1942. The displaced career employes were in Government, some of them, many years before that.

I am not a displaced career employe, but it hardly seems fair to confer status on the war service people until the displaced persons can again be placed in jobs that they can fill properly.

Shattered Illusion

AT A conference of civilians in the Pentagon, top military men gave details of Russia's military might. In planes and tanks, both in numbers produced annually and in being, in the number of troops in divisions at full strength or nearly full strength, and in almost every other category, Soviet totals vastly exceed those of the United States and the North Atlantic nations combined.

When this graphic recital was ended, one of the civilians asked a question. He wanted to know why Russia was outstripping this country.

The military men had a simple answer for that one. It was because for a year after the war ended the Soviet Union continued military production at the peak wartime level, turning out great reserves of planes, tanks and guns. Since then, at least 15 percent of all Russian production has been for military purposes.

When the military men spoke, they knew what their civilian audience did not know—that Russia conclusively and beyond any doubt had the atomic bomb. Now the Soviet government has stated flatly that ever since Molotov's announcement in November, 1947, that atomic fission was no longer a secret, they have had the means to make the weapon.

All this serves to illuminate the dangerous illusion that has dominated much of American thinking and therefore, to a certain degree, American policy. In the flash of that Russian explosion we should look honestly at our position.

IRVING LANGMUIR, distinguished American chemist who won the Nobel Prize in 1932, visited Moscow in 1945 for the 100th anniversary of the Russian Academy of Science. Not long after his return he contributed an essay to One World or None, a volume on the signficance of atomic fission.

Langmuir, director of research for General Electric, pointed out the advantages he believed the Russians would have in an atomic weapons race. What he said then has great relevance at this moment. He gave the following reasons:

"1. They have a large population. It can be regimented and is willing to sacrifice living standards for a long-range defense program.

"2. They have a remarkable system of incentives, which is rapidly increasing the efficiency of their industrial production.

"3. They have no unemployment.

"4. They have no strikes.

"5. They have a deep appreciation of pure and applied science, and have placed a high priority on it.

"6. They have planned a far more extensive program in science than is contemplated by any other nation."

You may disagree with some of the terms in the above—for example, the word "willing." But for whatever reason, the Russian people are sacrificing their living standard to construct and maintain a military machine far greater in numbers and in arms than was Hitler's in 1939. To this has now been added the atomic weapon.

IN VIEW of these facts, there can no longer be the slightest excuse for talking about winning a war with an atomic blitz aimed at strategic Russian centers. That dangerous talk has come in the recent past from supposedly responsible members of Congress. Nor is it enough to talk about "keeping ahead" in the race for bigger and more destructive atomic weapons.

Two choices seem to me open to this country. Since the overall approach for international control of all atomic energy will not work, the time has come to try a limited approach to get agreement to restrict not merely weapons of mass destruction, but mass armies. In the Sunday statement by Tass, the Soviet government said for the first time that "control will be essential in order to check up on fulfillment of a decision of the prohibition of production of the atomic weapon." This is a significant concession.

The other choice is to begin to arm on a realistic scale in every department and not just in atomic weapons. To do this would mean major sacrifices by the American people. It could well mean drastic changes in our way of life. Responsible military men have always known that the atomic bomb could not win a war, and certainly not win a peace.

A limited agreement on mass weapons and mass armies would not mean an end to the American policy of containing Soviet aggression and preserving the western democracies. As we are too apt to forget, the real weapon there is economic rather than military. But it would mean an end to the dangerous delusion that we in America can enjoy the fruits of a boom-time peace and then, if and when the time comes, polish off Russia with a few atom bombs in a few high-flying bombers.

Today And Tomorrow

By Walter Lippmann

End Of The Atomic Monopoly

THE PRESIDENT'S decision to break the news of the Soviet success in atomic weapons has done much to calm men's nerves and to clear their minds. Had he waited to let the Soviet government announce the news, or to let it leak out, there might well have been a panicky agitation. Many would have refused to believe it now, as they refused to believe M. Molotov when he predicted it two years ago. They would have argued excitedly with those who did believe it but were frightened because our own intelligence services had not detected the big news.

Lippmann

Short of a public demonstration by the Russians themselves, like our own at Bikini, the fact that our atomic monopoly has ended could not have been established more conclusively. Certainty about the facts even when they are disagreeable makes for clearer thinking.

IT IS NOT so easy, however, to follow the President's declaration which Cecretary Acheson emphasized in his town comment, that "this event makes no change in our policy." It would have been truer and wiser to say that there will be no change in our own policy until we have had time to think out how this event compels us to change our policy. For it cannot be true that an event which changes the balance of strategic military power in the world leaves unchanged the policies which were related to the old balance of power. While it was known and predicted that some day, say in 1952, the American monopoly would be broken, the fact is that it is now broken in 1949. That must have consequences which policies, based on the 1952 timetable, did not anticipate. Moreover, even if the 1952 timetable had proved to be correct, our policies in 1952 would certainly have had to be readjusted in 1952. They now have to be readjusted in 1949.

Even if we assume, as probably we may, that the Soviet government has not yet a stockpile of bombs comparable with our own, much less the planes which could deliver them into the United States, the military position in Europe is radically altered. The countries which are nearest to the Soviet Union, including Germany, were already vulnerable to the Red army. They must now take into account the atomic bomb as well. The strategical idea that defenses on the ground could gradually be built up behind the shield of the American atomic monopoly will have to be modified even if the Russians can acquire only a few atomic bombs during the period of European rearmament.

AN IMPORTANT consequence of the event may well be to harden the military stalemate. For when both possess atomic weapons, these weapons are no longer strategically decisive. They are now weapons of retaliation and not of decision. No one can now contemplate being the first to use the atomic bomb. If the United States used the bombs against Russia, the Russians would retaliate against Europe. If the Russians used them against Europe, the United States would retaliate against the Soviet Union. Neither could expect to win a decision and both would suffer frightful injuries—the Russians in their own country, we in the countries we have promised to guarantee and to protect.

While the American monopoly existed, the balance of power rested on the fact that the United States was itself invulnerable and yet could strike devastating blows,—whereas the Russians had an army which could overrun Europe but could not surely protect the Soviet Union against atomic devastation. The United States is still essentially invulnerable. It can still strike devastating blows. The Russian army is still a mighty force. But now the Russian homeland is less vulnerable to the American blows. It is now more secure because the Russians have acquired the power to take reprisals in Europe.

THIS ALTERATION in the balance of power will change the attitude of the nations, including that of the Soviet Union and of the United States. There is no reason to think that the Soviet government is more likely now than it was before to precipitate a world war. But there is every reason to think that the disposition of the Western world to negotiate in order to settle the more dangerous conflicts will become greater. For the nations which have become more vulnerable, foremost among them Germany because it is at the center of the conflict, are almost certain to insist on, and to adopt on their own initiative, an attitude which is less irreconcilable.

We may well find ourselves regretting that during the short time when our diplomatic bargaining power was stronger than it is likely to be now, we did not use it to strike bargains which, though unsatisfactory, might well have been better than can now be traded for in the diplomatic market. In any event the phantom policy, under which the Soviet regime was supposed to break down by containment all around the periphery, is now blown away—first by its total collapse in the Far East, and then by the Soviet achievement of the bomb. There is no alternative to the negotiation of a modus vivendi based on the balance of power and of reciprocal advantages.

THE NEWS has been followed by many statements which seem to say that we must proceed with the American plan which is more or less the United Nations plan, for the control of atomic weapons. That idea needs to be reexamined. For the American plan, the original Acheson - Lilienthal proposals, with or without the Baruch addition to them, had as their major premise an American monopoly of the bomb and of the technological knowledge and measures to make the bomb. It was a plan for the regulated sharing of the monopoly. All the conditions we asked for assumed that the Russians must pay a price—in the form of inspection and control—to get their share of our monopoly.

Now that the Russians have broken the monopoly, the basic premise of the American policy has disappeared. A totally different policy, based on the radically new condition, will have to be formulated. It would be a good idea to find new men, who do not have too much to unlearn, whose personal prestige is not involved in proving how right they have always been, to make a fresh study of the whole problem.

25 Million Voted by Senate To Patch Up 'Mothball Fleet'

The Senate yesterday voted 25 million dollars to patch up the Government's "mothball fleet" of merchant ships.

It also approved $25,250,000 in cash and lending authority to help farmers get better telephone service.

Both items were contained in a $104,222,000 supplemental appropriation for various agencies for the current fiscal year.

The bill goes back to the House for approval. The Senate added $31,376,000 to the amount originally voted in the lower chamber.

Before passage, Senator Carl Hayden (D., Ariz.), tried but failed to add a rider requiring the National Labor Relations Board to consider certain workers as "non-agricultural." The workers are those in packing sheds who crate fruit at railroad sidings.

The NLRB recently classified them as agricultural workers, who are not entitled to the board's services. Hayden's move was defeated by Senator Spessard L. Holland (D., Fla.), who objected that it was legislation in an appropriation.

Gen. Omar N. Bradley, chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff, asked for the reserve fleet repair program, which would be handled by commercial shipyards on the Atlantic, Pacific and Gulf coasts.

He said it would be "highly desirable from a military point of view" to repair all 134 ships in the Maritime Commission's "mothball fleet."

Congress has not yet completed action on the rural telephone bill, but the Senate voted the money for it in advance. It approved $250,000 for the Rural Electrification Administration, and authorized the REA to borrow up to 25 million dollars from the Treasury for loans.

$600 Million Loss Seen for U. S. On 1948-'49 Food Price Props

The Government estimated yesterday that it lost 600 million dollars supporting the prices of farm food and fiber products during the year ending last June 30.

That amounts to about $4 for every man, woman and child in the United States.

Commodity Credit Corporation published the estimate in its annual financial report. The agency supplies funds for the price support program which is administered by the Agriculture Department.

The report showed that the big losses during the 1949 fiscal year wiped out all of the huge postwar price support fund and put it 170 million dollars in the red. The fund originally totaled 500 million dollars and only 71 million dollars had been spent up to the start of the 1949 fiscal year.

Congress will be asked later to make up the difference.

The report disclosed that the Government during fiscal 1949 lost 254 million dollars in actual cash in carrying out price supports. The rest was an "inventory loss" representing the amount that will be lost when the Agriculture Department disposes of the huge stocks of commodities held under loan programs or in warehouses.

As far as actual losses were concerned potatoes topped the list with a $203,886,000 expenditure. Another 23 million dollars was lost on peanut supports.

In inventory losses, the corporation estimated that 30 cents a bushel on corn and $8.33 a bale on cotton would be lost during fiscal 1949. That would amount to 99 million dollars on corn, and 36 million dollars on cotton on the basis of stocks held on June 30.

In addition, the Government wrote off as lost 56 million dollars of its 529 million dollars invested in wheat, 75 million dollars on 191 million dollars it has invested in flaxseed and linseed oil. It figured as "lost" 38 million dollars of its 81 million dollars inventory of eggs.

The report also showed inventory losses on wool, peas, beans, barley, wool, rosin, turpentine, prunes, raisins, grain, sorghums and tobacco.

The report showed the Government had taken an actual loss on two dozen commodities. They ranged from the huge potato outlay to only 495 dollars required to support the price of turkeys.

Group Offers Virginia Span Bond Issues

By S. Oliver Goodman

An underwriting syndicate headed by Lehman Bros. and Blyth & Co. yesterday offered 19 million dollars of Virginia State toll revenue bonds.

Included in the syndicate was Folger, Nolan, Inc. of Washington.

The issue was awarded yesterday by the Virginia State Highway Commission on a bid of par for a combination of 5, 2¼, 2½ and 2.70 percent coupons. The net interest cost was estimated at at 2.6553.

The syndicate priced 13 million dollars of term bonds maturing September 1, 1973, to yield 2.65 per cent. The remaining six million dollars of serial bonds was reoffered at prices to yield from 1.25 percent for those due September 1, 1953, to 2.60 percent for 1968 maturities.

Proceeds will be used to pay for three bridge and ferry projects in the Tidewater area. The State commission immediately awarded contracts for construction of a bridge across the York River, between Yorktown and Gloucester Point.

Proceeds also will help the State to buy the present James River Bridge System and the Chesapeake ferries across Hampton Roads.

Massman Construction Co. and the Kansas City Bridge Co. of Kansas City, Mo., on September 1 submitted a low bid of $4,690,232 for the substructure of the Yorktown Bridge. A bid by the Virginia Bridge Co. of Roanoke of $2,424,711 was low for constructing the superstructure of the proposed double-leaf swing span.

LOBBY DISPLAY: On display today and tomorrow in the lobby of the main office of the American Security & Trust Co. will be an exhibit showing in miniature the Washington Naval Gun Factory as it looked in 1799 and as it appears today. The display was arranged in cooperation with the factory which is celebrating its 150th anniversary this week.

NOTEWORTHY: "A departure from old practices." That's how the Exchange, publication of the New York Stock Exchange, describes the recently issued "legal list" for the District of Columbia. The list contains about 150 common stocks eligible for investment of trust funds, as well as broadening the field to include preferred stocks. The Exchange comments: This is "the first printed selection of common stocks issued under the jurisdiction of a court from which trustees may make their choice . . ."

TELEPHONES: Eighty-two percent of Washington families had telephones as of the first of this year, against a 63 percent proportion nationally. Of the 447,283 telephones in service here at the start of the year, 243,099 were residential. Despite the high ratio of telephones per family here, there were many cities which ranked higher. For instance, 99 percent in Evanston, Ill.; 94 percent in Newton, Mass.; 91 percent in Kalamazoo, Mich.; 90 percent in Tulsa, Okla., and Madison, Wis. The figures are contained in the current issue of the Bell Telephone Magazine.

ODD LOTS: Steel output this week is estimated at 84.6 percent of rated capacity, against 86.3 percent last week . . . Directors of Travelers Insurance Co. voted to recommend to stockholders a 100 percent increase in company's capital and that of two subsidiaries. This would be done by transferring 20 million dollars from surplus . . . The world's largest single-unit coal conveyor system will be installed soon at the new Weirton mine of the National Steel Corp., near Morgantown, W. Va. . . . A leading custom smelter yesterday cut the price of lead to 14¾ cents a pound at New York. The ⅜ cent cut was the first since lead recovered early in the summer, rising to 15⅛ cents after its drop in the spring to 12 cents.

OFFERING: Five Washington investment houses are included in a nationwide syndicate underwriting 856,895 additional shares of West Penn Electric Co. common stocks. Of the offering, 468,621 are being offered to common stockholders at a price of $23.62½ a share on the basis of one additional share for each five now held. The remaining 388,274 shares are being offered for present 6 percent cumulative preferred, 7 percent cumulative preferred and Class A stocks of the company.

EARNINGS: Baltimore & Ohio Railroad reported net income of $570,816 for August, compared with $2,507,919 in the same 1948 month. Net for the first eight months totaled $7,473,180, against $14,400,586 in the like period last year.

Chicago Grain

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—A little buying by Southwestern mills and local traders was enough to send wheat higher today. March and May contracts made new seasonal highs, while December ended only ½ cent under its seasonal peak.

The strength of wheat helped corn and oats, but had no influence on soybeans. After getting off to a wobbly start on a minor increase in cash grain arrivals, corn came ahead strongly toward the close. Oats made fractional gains.

Wheat closed ⅜ to 1½ higher, corn was ¾ to 1¾ higher, oats were unchanged to ⅜ higher, rye was unchanged to 1½ higher, soybeans were ½ to 1 cent lower and lard was 5 to 15 cents a hundred pounds lower.

Citizens Unit to Fete Alexandria Officials

New officials of Alexandria will be guests of honor at a reception beginning at 8:15 p. m., Wednesday, to be given by the North Ridge Citizens Association, at No. 3 Fire House on Cameron Mill rd.

They will be W. Guy Ancell, new city manager, and Franklin P. Backus, newly-elected mayor. Members of the City Council also are expected to attend. Citizens of the neighborhood are invited, association officials said.

Rosa Ponselle to Speak At Music Club Today

Rosa Ponselle, retired opera singer, will speak at the Friday Morning Music Club luncheon at 12:30 p.m. today at the Carleton Hotel.

The Club's special series of concerts to benefit its Scholarship Foundation will be discussed. The concerts will be presented by the Club in cooperation with the Hayes Concert Bureau.

ASTHMA MUCUS Loosened WHILE YOU SLEEP
Don't let coughing, sneezing, choking, recurring attacks of Bronchial Asthma ruin your sleep and energy another day or night without trying MENDACO. This great medicine is not a smoke, injection or spray, but works through the blood, thus reaching the lungs and bronchial tubes. Usually the first dose starts helping nature immediately 3 ways: 1. Helps loosen and remove thick strangling mucus. 2. Thus promotes freer breathing and sounder, more refreshing sleep. 3. Helps alleviate coughing, wheezing, sneezing. Quick satisfaction or money back guaranteed. Get Mendaco from druggist.

Your Dream House
It takes a lot of bricks and lumber,
Paint and plaster, too,
To Build that home you've always wanted
For your family and you.
But even these and labor costs,
All the nailing and shaving,
Will be quite easy to pay for
After you start your saving.
So if you open a five dollar account,
And each week add a few . . .
Liberty Building Association dividends
Will make your dreams come true.

People Enjoy Ritual Work, Meeting Told

The majority of people are gregarious and "like to take part in or witness ritualistic work if it is streamlined to be in tune with modern times," a delegate to the National Fraternal Congress said yesterday.

The speaker, Mrs. Ulma Moss, supreme junior director and assistant to the president of the Maccabees, Detroit, also expressed the belief that the highest expression of mutual helpfulness can be found in the fraternal insurance system.

More than 1000 delegates, representing the 114 fraternal benefit societies in the congress, gathered at the Statler Hotel yesterday for the opening of the congress' 63rd annual convention.

Two of the congress' nine sections, the Fraternal Field Managers Association and the Fraternal Investment Association, met yesterday. The other seven sections will meet today.

Joseph E. Reault of the Maccabees, Detroit, was elected president of the Fraternal Investment Association for the coming year. Serving with him will be John C. Faulkner of the Royal Neighbors of Rock Island, Ill., as vice president. Howard Lundgren of the Woodmen of the World, Omaha, as secretary; and William H. Zuelke, jr., of the Aid Association for Lutherans, Appleton, Wis., as treasurer.

The Fraternal Field Managers' Association elected J. R. Sims of the Woodmen of the World as president.

Bought Beer, Boys Claim

Four boys, ranging from 14 to 16 years old, testified yesterday before the Alcoholic Beverage Control Board that they were served beer in the Royal Grill, 1912 Pennsylvania ave. nw., on July 29.

The boys said they had three rounds of beer, and one a fourth round, and that a waitress who served them asked on the second round if they were sure they were 18 years old. They testified they told her they were.

The testimony was given at a hearing on an order to William F. Galvin, proprietor of the place, to show cause why the license should not be suspended or revoked.

Galvin testified he was out at the time and knew nothing of the sales.

SAVES.. SAVES.. SAVES

My Laundromat is wonderful . . . I can clean, go out or do whatever else I wish while my clothes are washing . . . A Laundromat really cuts down on the money one spends for soap as a little goes a long way.
MRS. EDYTHE P. BARNETT
4415 West Virginia Avenue
Bethesda, Maryland

I think my Laundromat is simply grand. My clothes come out so nice and clean. The water saver is very economical, and easy to operate. I used to spend a whole day washing each week, now my Laundromat does all the work, and leaves me free for my other household duties.
MRS. JOSEPH BOOHER,
Booher's Carpentry Shop
1323 Wisconsin Ave., N.W.

Both my husband and myself are thoroughly pleased with our "Laundromat." Being a printer his clothes are covered with ink and bad, but when washed by our Laundromat they come out like new. Laundromat keeps baby's things, from the most delicate handmade dress to the dirtiest diaper, fresh, spotless and entirely free from skin-irritating soap film. We could not be more pleased for such a work saver.

D. C. Traffic Load Called 'Impossible'

In Bethesda

Student Gets $10 Lesson On Traffic

A 27-year-old Persian student in international relations yesterday got an impromptu $10 lesson in American jurisprudence.

He is Cyrus H. Khibiri, a University of Southern California student whose father is a former diplomat and official of the Persian government. The lesson began when Khibiri was arrested September 2 for passing a red light in Montgomery County.

It continued yesterday when he was found guilty of this offense by Judge James R. Miller in Bethesda Police Court.

Khibiri contended on a stack of Supreme Court decisions that he was entitled to a jury trial on any charge.

Juddge Miller pointed out that in traffic cases the right of jury trial exists only after appeal. He told Khibiri he got "courtesy not usual" when he was allowed to go get the registration card he lacked when he offended traffic regulations.

Right now, it's $10 and costs for Khibiri. Judge Miller then offered to write him an appeal.

Commissioner of Public Roads Thomas H. MacDonald yesterday told 400 traffic engineers that Washington's traffic safety achievement had been recorded despite "absolutely impossible" traffic loads.

He told the twentieth annual meeting of the Institute of Traffic Engineers at the Wardman Park Hotel that more persons enter Washington across the Potomac than enter New York across the Hudson. "The Pentagon system" alone, handles 140,000 cars a day, he said.

MacDonald said the basic traffic problem confronting engineers today was to make roads to fit drivers, for he said it had proved impossible to make drivers fit roads.

Today, two Washington traffic engineers will address the convention, David R. Levin of the Bureau of Public Roads, and John H. Milton of the D. C. Department of Vehicles and Traffic. Both men will discuss parking problems.

Evangelistic Program to Begin Sunday

Plans for a 15-month united evangelistic advance program that will be "the greatest thing religiously that ever hit this Capital City" were revealed yesterday.

Sponsored locally by the evangelism committee of the Washington Federation of Churches, the program is part of a Nationwide Protestant evangelistic effort under the auspices of the Federal Council of Churches of Christ in America.

The Rev. George E. Schnabel, pastor of Albright Memorial Evangelical United Brethren Church, 4th and Rittenhouse sts. nw., yesterday told members of the Washington Ministerial Union about the plans for the Washington program at an all-day retreat at Holiday House near Alexandria.

Beginning this Sunday, World Communion Sunday, the program will continue through December 31, 1950, Mr. Schnabel said. He urged the ministers to use World Communion Sunday as "a springboard" to let church members know about the united Protestant effort to "make an impact on Washington and the world."

Among the highlights of the program will be the annual "Festival of Faith" on Reformation Sunday, October 30, in Constitution Hall, and a city-wide religious census early in 1950, followed by a program of visitation evangelism carried on by the churches of the city.

CTC Drivers Criticized by Judge Miller

Judge James R. Miller dismissed a speeding charge against a Capital Transit Co. bus driver in Bethesda Court yesterday, but criticized practices of the company's operators in Montgomery County.

The driver, Leo B. Dove, 33, of Gaithersburg, Md., was accused of exceeding 60 miles an hour on Rockville Pike between Garrett Park and Bethesda September 4. Judge Miller, in dismissing the charge, said the evidence did not point clearly to Dove's guilt or innocence, therefore he must rule for the defendant.

After announcing his verdict, the jurist requested Richard W. Turner, Capital Transit attorney, to look into the possibility of having closer inspection made of buses using Rockville pike.

"I have personal knowledge of bus traffic along the pike," he said, "and I know that drivers do not pull far enough off the pavement when stopping to pick up or discharge passengers. Also the buses often stop too abruptly without adequate signals to following vehicles."

Judge Miller declared these practices could lead to a serious accident.

Turner promised to take up the matter with the company.

D. C. Attorney To Head Cathedral Fund Campaign

E. R. Finkenstaedt, member of the investment firm of Auchincloss, Parker and Redpath, will head the men's special gifts committee in the 1949 annual sustaining and building continuation fund campaign for Washington Cathedral, it was announced yesterday.

The appointment was announced by A. Lloyd Symington, general chairman of the volunteer organization which will conduct the Cathedral's annual Greater Washington fund drive October 10 to November 10.

Of the $50,000 Greater Washington goal, $35,000 is earmarked for annual operating expenses of the Cathedral, while $15,000 is intended for current construction needs. The Nationwide fund drive, to be conducted simultaneously here and in other cities and States where National Cathedral Association committees are active, has $375,000 as its goal.

Russians to Free 2 American Youths

Frankfurt, Germany, Sept. 26 (AP).—Two American youths, Warren Oelsner, 21, of Oyster Bay, N.Y., and Peter Sellers, 19, of Philadelphia, who have been held by the Russians since August 10, will be released to U. S. authorities next Wednesday, the United States High Commissioner's office announced today.

TOURING TRIO—Teddy Marie Kinsey, Patricia Darragh and Carol Anthony of the University Players, graduates of Catholic University's speech and drama department, who this week begin a five-month tour that will take them through the East and Midwest. One on the Aisle—

Great Adventure For C. U. Players

By Richard L. Coe

SOME GRADUATES OF Catholic University's speech and drama department are about to set out on a great adventure.

They've formed the University Players, and in Baltimore on Thursday they will begin a five-month tour that will take them through the Northeast and Midwest. They've fitted out a handsome production of "Much Ado About Nothing," will travel by truck, station wagon and car and, by golly, they'll be actors earning their way at their chosen craft.

This is quite a trick these days. You don't have to be told how many actors aren't acting and you don't have to be told how many youngsters are knocking at the garden gates of Thespis, already crowded with suppliants for notice.

By forming their own company, mapping out a tour and having a go at it, these 15 young men and women are launching a brilliant, if difficult, adventure. They're all equal shareholders in the venture, will receive equal income from the $300 the group will get from each performance. They start off with 82 scheduled performances between now and February 11. Most of their performances will be held in schools. They'll put up mostly at hotels, though some schools have offered hospitality as well.

From Baltimore and Wilmington to Pittsburgh and Greensburg, Pa., end of the journey, they'll be offering a production of "Much Ado" that would do any producer proud. Washington saw the seeds of this production in the '46-'47 season at Catholic University. The adaptation is by busy Walter Kerr, settings and lighting by James Waring, costumes designed by Tom Bohen and executed by Ann Tacik. Charles Ford is the stage carpenter and Huldah McVinch did the set decorations.

Coached by the peerless Dr. Josephine Callan, the players will be showing countless young folk the joys of hearing Shakespeare's shimmering lines. Because I always relish the speech of the Catholic University production, I am especially happy Dr. Callan has been able to give the University Players the benefit of her impeccable teaching.

Bill Callahan, President

Trustees of the University Players are Father Gilbert V. Hartke, Walter Kerr and Adah May Brady, all of the university staff. Bill Callahan is president of the firm, Teddy Marie Kinsey, vice president; Nick Wanamaker, secretary, and Miss Brady, treasurer. Headquarters of the incorporated group is 813 Monroe st. ne., Washington 17.

President Callahan, who'll be playing Benedick, needs no introduction to C. U. audiences, for he's been mighty active in numberless plays. He's studying for his master's and teaches freshmen English courses. Leading Lady Kinsey, the Beatrice, also studies and teaches and has played in many recent C. U. productions.

Others going on this little traveled route of "the road" include John Marzocco, Arthur Conescu, Patricia Darragh, J. K. Emmet, Bill McGuire, Joseph Lewis, Frank Dolan, Helen Brewer, Carol Anthony, Nick Wanamaker, Harry J. Farrell, Robert Kirby and Jim Brennan, stage manager.

Promising Future

Followers of C. U. plays will have little difficulty identifying those names. "Wanamaker" is not a misspelling of Wandmacher; Nick got tired of spelling it out for people, and when a summer theater program spelled it "Wanamaker" this summer, he decided to let it go at that.

Making their guarantee figure as low as $300 a performance is, as one of them says, "'close to suicidal," but it does insure expenses and audiences. Because their production of "Much Ado" is so frolicking, they're pretty certain to be asked to return to all their stops and more next year. In short, if things go well between now and February, the future is assured.

Long in the planning stage, this step can mark a milestone in Catholic U.'s drama group. To all 15 of the University Players, a safe, enthusiastic and successful tour.

AL JOLSON in town—his hometown today . . . He'll be brunching this morning elevenish at the Carlton and telling everyone how excited he is about "Jolson Sings Again," the widely touted sequel to "The Jolson Story," which opens a run at the Metropolitan October 13 . . . Welcome home, Al.

TOMORROW brings two more W. C. Fields revivals to the Little: "Million Dollar Legs" and "Poppy," the first of 1932, the latter of '39.

African Doctor Here Seeking Medical Books

The dean of a Kampala, Uganda, medical school is negotiating informal deals in Washington, offering to swap giraffe liver tissues and monkey brains for a medical library.

Dr. Alexander Galloway supervises the education of 30 East Africans enrolled in the Makerere College of Medicine. One of his problems there is how to build a medical library and keep up with periodical literature on a budget of 300 pounds a year.

Yesterday he added Dr. Warren Andrew, professor of anatomy at George Washington University Medical School, to the list of persons who will send him medical journals and books in return for specimens of African animal anatomy.

Dr. Galloway came to this country to do research in medical education during the first term at the University of Chicago. He is particularly anxious to see the university because he has learned that its yearly budget exceeds that of all Uganda.

A Johns Hopkins University medical professor looking for monkeys in his research in primate anatomy has also been contacted by Dr. Galloway, as has Dr. Montague Cobb of the Howard University staff.

Dr. McCormack Given New Research Post

Dr. James E. McCormack, of York, has been named executive director of the Research and Development board's committee on medical science.

McCormack, on leave from his post as assistant dean of the New York University School of Medicine, has been deputy executive director since July.

In his new assignment he succeeds Dr. Joseph F. Sadusk, jr., who is joining the faculty of the Hanford University School of Medicine in San Francisco.

This Morning

—With Shirley Povich

YANKEE STADIUM, New York, Sept. 26.—Those World Series checks and the mink coats for the distaff side were not the only motives the Yankees took into today's battling with the Red Sox. Tempering the high note of commercialism was a genuine desire to rub the nose of Boston Manager Joe McCarthy in the dirt.

On the train down from Boston, the Yankees were steaming not only from the effects of those two defeats in Fenway Park, but were in a pet, too, about McCarthy and what he had said. An eavesdropping Yankee infielder brought the story back to 'em.

POVICH

When Bobby Doerr collapsed with a twisted ankle behind second base after completing a fifth inning double play yesterday, solicitous teammates gathered about. McCarthy finally reached the scene, with Doerr still on the ground, and then delivered the high insult.

"Okay, Bobby, better get up," he said. "If you stay down too long, they might think you're a Yankee."

The Red Sox were riding high at the time. "He'll wish he had some Yankees on his ball club before the season is through," said Yogi Berra, among others.

THE YANKEES' front office refused to be depressed over the first-inning proceedings in which the Red Sox took a 3-0 lead. Midway in the inning, the club announced: "The management of the Yankees is confident that the team will carry on to win the 1949 pennant. It has been decided, therefore, in the interest of the fans, to accept World Series ticket orders."

Well, that clears everything up nicely. There's nothing crass about the Yankees' front office. "In the interest of the fans," it was simultaneously announced that a box seat for four World Series games would be handed them for $32, or a mere reserved seat for $24, plus 50-cent mailing charges.

Joe McCarthy came dashing from the dugout in the first inning to demand that Ted Williams be given his base because a Tommy Byrne pitch had struck him on the hand. Umpire Bill Grieve had ruled that Williams fouled the pitch off. McCarthy got no support from his man, Williams, who doesn't like to be done out of a turn at bat.

Williams was the same fellow who last season at St. Louis turned around to Umpire Red Jones while the Browns were in the process of walking him intentionally for the fourth time that day, and said: "Hell, Red, I'm not having any fun, I think I'll go back to the hotel."

THE FIRST MAN out in the first inning, didn't even get a chance to wrap his hands around a bat. He was Yankee Pitcher Tommy Byrne, who got nobody out except himself, after the first four Red Sox he faced reached base. Whereupon he was invited out by Manager Stengel.

Whatever he cost the Red Sox, and the price was reported as $150,000 when they bought him from the Browns in May, Al Zarilla paid the Boston club off in full in the second inning. Two were on, the Yankees trailing, 3-0, and Johnny Lindell apparently was tying the score with a home run into the right field seats when Zarilla zoomed up to drag the ball down.

Joe Page moved into the contest ahead of his usual schedule when the Yanks called on him to relieve Fred Sanford in the fifth inning. It was the closest Page has come to being a starting pitcher in two seasons.

There was some amazement, anyway, when Stengel decided to remove Sanford at that point, with two out, men on first and second, and Boston Pitcher Jack Kramer at bat. Kramer, a renowned nonhitting pitcher, was being honored with a new high tribute to his batting skill.

BIRDIE TEBBETS is rightly rated as the smartest catcher in the league, but when he does pull a rock, it's a veritable boulder. He gave the Yankees the tying run in the fourth inning with a throw to second base that was beautiful except in one respect—nobody at all was covering the bag.

The game provided what must have been television's show of the year in the eighth when the Red Sox came up with those four winning runs. The last one, scored on Bobby Doerr's squeeze bunt, produced a rhubarb that without benefit of script, made hellzappopin seem tame.

Umpire Bill Grieve said Johnny Pesky beat First Baseman Henrich's throw to the plate. Yankee Catcher Clyde Houck said he didn't. So did Casey Stengel, Joe Page, Yogi Berra, Jim Turner, Henrich and other assorted Yankees. Houck was wild-eyed and made as if to swat Grieve with his mask. Stengel cussed, begged, then berated Grieve all over again. As usual, the umpire won.

When Al Zarilla made that second-inning catch with his back to the wall that robbed Lindell of a three-run homer, it developed later that he was merely warming up for an even more zestful effort in the ninth when he took what might have been a game-tying homer away from Tommy Henrich.

If things turned out all cock-eyed for the Yankees, as they did, no wonder. This was a game in which Casey Stengel found himself forced to call on Allie Reynolds to relieve Joe Page, which is tantamount to putting your best foot backward.

Ump Burns At Mapes' 'Bet' Taunt, Files Report

New York, Sept. 26 (AP).—Umpire Bill Grieve will file a report with American League President Will Harridge because of a remark made to the official by New York Outfielder Cliff Mapes during today's Yankee 7-6 loss to Boston.

"How much did you have bet on the game?" Mapes said to Grieve in a runway after the game. Grieve said Mapes made the same remark from the bench during the game.

"I'm including that in my report to Harridge," said Grieve, "I'm explaining about Mapes and also how I was pushed by Houk (Yank catcher) and the manager (Casey Stengel). I left Houk in because he was the only catcher they had. Ordinarily both would have been out of there."

Grieve Tells His Side

Grieve called Johnny Pesky, Red Sox third baseman, safe at home on a squeeze play in the eighth inning. Pesky represented the winning run.

"The runner slid under Houk and that's all there was to it," said Grieve. "Houk had the first-base side of the plate blocked, but this was a tag play. He didn't have the third-base side blocked."

Houk "blew his top" when Grieve called Pesky safe on Bobby Doerr's squeeze bunt after the throw from Tommy Henrich appeared to have the play beaten. Houk and all the Yankees, including Stengel, stormed around Grieve for several minutes.

"I was safe," said Pesky. "He tagged me up here on my side. The ball beat me but Houk seemed to freeze."

Associated Press photos show clearly Houk caught the ball before Pesky reached the plate. Whether or not the tag was made is open to discussion.

The United Press reported Mapes and Grieve nearly came to blows after the game.

As the umpires left the field after the game the Yankees streamed around them up the ramp into their adjacent dressing rooms and Mapes stormed after Grieve and yelled in Grieve's face, adding pointed remarks as to the umpire's antecedents.

Umpire Charley Berry separated them. Cal Hubbard, another umpire, scored the Yankee charges:

"They gave up two walks, commit an error and don't cover first base on another play—and then they blame the umpires."

But the angry Yankees, in their dressing room, were outspoken even an hour later as to Grieve's "incompetence."

"Anybody in the league will tell you he is the worst umpire in the game," growled Tommy Henrich.

"One time he calls a strike on a ball a foot outside and the next time he calls a ball on one over the middle," charged Relief Pitcher Joe Page.

Bosox Win, Take League Lead

Tommy Henrich's throw to the plate.

Then, with world series plums dancing merrily before their eyes, the Red Sox wheeled in 35-year-old Ellis Kinder, shut-out conqueror of the Yankees two days before, to protect their lead in the last two innings. He did, pitching hitless ball.

But at the finish it wasn't Kinder who was caught up in the gleeful rush of the happy Red Sox. They were waiting for Al Zarilla to trot in from right field, where twice he saved the game with incredible one-hand catches that denied home runs to the Yankees.

They bear-hugged Zarilla all the way to the dressing-room steps in tribute to his last effort—a one-hand leaping stab of Tommy Henrich's bid for a home run that would tie the game with one out in the ninth. Zarilla sped toward the foul line to intercept the drive that was threatening to enter the seats and held the ball after falling on his face.

But Zarilla, with that play, was merely compounding his heroics for the Red Sox. Back in the second inning his heroicscmfwypm ond inning with two on base, he had made an even more spectacular catch to deprive Johnny Lindell of a three-run homer. For that one he left his feet, chancing injury against the fence, and speared it on the border line of home run territory.

Thus it is with five contests left for each team the Red Sox took what may be a strangle-hold on first place. They finish up, however, on the road with three games in Washington starting tomorrow, and two here with the Yankees. The Yanks will be taking on the Athletics in three gomes here before their last crucial battles with the Sox.

The play that invited the Red Sox to apply the crusher in the eighth inning, was a misplay by George Stirnweiss, reserve second baseman, whose fumble of Pesky's grounder permitted the tying run to trickle home and put the winning run on base.

Stirnweiss's fluff, however, was only one of a pair of Yankee infield mistakes in that inning, both costly.

Birdie Tebbets, who might well have been the Red Sox goat of the contest, if they had not won it—he was guilty of two boner plays—launched that Boston eighth with a single to right off Page who had moved into the game three innings before as successor to Fred Sanford.

Manager Joe McCarthy sent Lou Stringer up to bat for Pitcher Jack Kramer, and Page was in trouble when Stringer drew a walk to bring up the top of the Boston batting order. He was in deeper trouble when Dom DiMaggio lashed a fiery single over the head of little Phil Rizzuto who managed to get part of his upstretched glove on the drive but couldn't hold it. The Red Sox had a run, with none out, and men now on second and third.

A break came Boston's way on Page's next pitch. Stirnweiss, who had replaced Gerry Coleman as the Yank second baseman a couple of innings before, slipped as he fielded the ball and bobbled it for an error. That moved Stringer home with the run that cut the Yanks' lead to 6-5, with none as yet out.

Vern Stephens, who had contributed a valuable two-run single in the first inning, got the tying run home for the Sox on a long fly to right field, and it was a new ball game with the Red Sox having a decided advantage with men on first and second with one out.

Then Ted Williams got his only hit of the day, a cheap one that was the gift of Tommy Henrich who had been called in from the outfield to play first base. Henrich dived for Williams smash, missed it, fell on his face, and when Stirnweiss came up with the ball, thanks to the special defense shift, first base was uncovered and he had no play. It filled the bases with Red Sox.

Five of the six men who had faced Page in the inning had reached base, but Stengel wasn't taking Page out. Then it was that the Red Sox, resorted to the bunt to win the year's most important ball game. Bobby Doerr laid one down toward first base.

Henrich fielded the ball smoothly and cut loose a throw to Catcher Clyde Houck with Pesky speeding toward the plate, and Umpire Grieve called it "safe" on a close play. The Yankees stormed loudly, appeared as if to manhandle the umpire, rushed him and delayed the game for five minutes with their protests. Houck ranted like a madman, and big Cal Hubbard rushed to the scene to step between his fellow umpire and the Yankee catcher.

Eventually, Page was forced to pitch to 10 men in that eighth inning before retiring the side.

There was a gasp when the new

Pat Harder, Trippi Star; Baugh Hurls Touchdown

By Bill Burnett
Post Reporter

Chicago, Sept. 26.—The Washington Redskins were taken apart in a most workmanlike manner here tonight, the Chicago Cardinals running up a 38-7 victory as both teams opened their National Football Leaague season at Comiskey Park.

While 24,136 Chicagoans howled, one of the greatest "name" backfields of all time spoiled the debut of Redskin Head Coach Billick Whelchel and proved why they have won the western division title the past two years.

It was a contest for the first half. With Sammy Baugh hurling, Whelchel's lads came from behind for a 7-7 tie and trailed only 14-7 at intermission.

Paul Christman started the rout with a 34-yard pass to Charley Trippi with the game less than five minutes old. Pat Harder Converted.

An exchange of punts dropped the Redskins back to their own 14, from which point Baugh opened a vicious drive to tie it up. Sammy's passes marked up first downs at the Redskins' 26 and 44 and the old passmaster kept going with first down tosses to Eddie Saenz and Hal Crisler at the Cardinal 41 and 25.

Tom Cochran's smash at guard put the Redskins nine yards from a touchdown. It took Washington eight plays to score from there early in the second period, a Baugh pass to Sandifer covering the last five yards. Dick Poillon's conversion made it 7-7.

Trippi Cuts Loose

Before the half-time intermission the Cards were out in front again, Trippi cutting loose with a run of a punt return to the Redskin 28. Trippi then went 22 more off right tackle. Three plays later the Cards still needed three more yards. Trippi got them on a slant into the right hand corner of the end zone. Harder converted making it 14-7.

Get Going in Second Half

The Cardinals, who whipped Washington 24-10 in an exhibition, romped over for their third touchdown and to clinch it they pushed over two touchdowns and a field goal in the last period.

In just 3½ minutes of the third period the Cardinals boosted their lead to 21-7. Harder took a pitchout and went 26 yards to the Redskin 45. Angsman added 15 around end. Trippi went 13 yards on a lateral to the 14. Harder bulled through left tackle for the score. Harder's extra point was automatic.

Cards Start All Over

Stout's fumble gave the Cardinals the ball shortly afterward, and the red-shirted horde moved to the Redskin 31 before Ravensburg took a Christman pass, was hit hard by Dowda and fumbled. Gilmer went in to lead the Redskins in a 43-yard march that fizzled at the Cardinal 44. Poillon kicked over the goal and Trippi pulled his second quick opening play for 55 yards to the Redskin 19. As the third period ended Angsman plowed to within a yard of a touchdown. One Angsman smash was stopped on the opening play of the fourth quarter before Harter hit through tackle for his second touchdown. He added his fourth placement.

Poillon kicked out of bounds on the Cardinal 48 and Chicago soon led, 31-7. Hardy quarterbacked the Cards to the six, where Washington braced and Harder moved back to the 13 for a perfect field goal. It was Poillon's 18-yard punt, out on the Redskin 37, that launched Cardinal touchdown No. 5. Hardy passed for a first down to Cochrane, and the latter picked

College Player of the Week

BOB ZASTROW
U. S. Naval Academy

NAVY'S AIR ARM from Algoma, Wis., is The Washington Post's selection as the area's football Player-of-the-Week.

The 210-pound, 6-foot-2 sophomore quarterback, was so brilliant in Navy's 42-20 loss to Southern California that even the Los Angeles sports writers tabbed him the best performer in Memorial Coliseum.

That's praise indeed inasmuch as the California press invariably showers its adjectives on home grown products, regardless of the ability of the invaders.

HERE'S WHAT Zastrow did: He passed for two touchdowns, scored one on a short plunge and picked up 274 yards by completing 17 of the 39 passes he pitched.

Said Braven Dyer, in the Los Angeles Times: "In Zastrow, the Navy introduced a young player who gave one of the finest throwing exhibitions ever seen in this or any other town . . . Given some more help in the next two years, the Wisconsin whiz can be an All-American quarterback for sure . . ."

The leading testimonial to Zastrow came from his coach, George Sauer, who told Johnny Cox, the Navy publicity man:

"Go all out on him. He's simply great."

Scarborough Faces Bosox

Ray Scarborough, who knocked the Boston Red Sox out of the pennant on the next to the last day of the season last year, gets another shot at the new American League leaders at Griffith Stadium tonight.

Moving in for a three-game series with the Nats following their 7-6 conquest of the Yankees yesterday, the Bostonians will send their old reliable, Righthander Joe Dobson, against Washington's cellar-dwellers.

Scorborough, whom the Nats selected to pitch against contending teams the last two weeks of the season, wrecked Boston last year.

He beat 'em 5-4 and forced them into the playoff for the title with Cleveland, which the Indians won.

Oriole Cops 2d Place, Itsabet 3d

By Walter Haight
Post Reporter

Laurel, Md., Sept. 26.—Shamrock Stable's Little Harp whose breeding is a bit in doubt, the gelding being by either Tetrarchal or King's Blue, left little doubt of his superiority in today's feature here.

Carrying 121 pounds, the 5-year-old, owned by Art (Pittsburgh Steelers) Rooney ankled home by a length under the handling of Jockey Ira Hanford.

Operating as the $5.20 favorite, Little Harp led R. E. Carter's Oriole into the wire with the latter two lengths in advance of Brookfield Farm's Itsabet in the test named the Columbia and carrying a $3500 purse.

Little Harp broke from No. 1 post position, assumed command early and was clocked in 1:12 for the 6 furlongs over a fast racing strip and under skies that couldn't have been brighter had they been ordered from the Weather Bureau a week in advance.

Halter Wins by Neck

Cedar Farm's Halter won the Fort Myer, the day's secondary feature. Jockey Benny Civitello booted the black colt home a neck in front of A. J. Crevolin's Tingling, a long shot. Third money in the field of eight went to S. W. Labrot, jr.'s Arcave.

Like Little Harp, Halter was the favorite and paid a mere $3.40 mutuel after running the six furlongs in 1:13 1-5, fair 2-year-old time for this track.

A pair of lukewarm betting propositions teamed to produce a pay-off of $53.40 on the daily double tickets bearing the numbers 8 and 11. Mrs. James O'Brey's Belle Equipe came from far back to win going away in the first race under Apprentice Joseph Snyder. The mare paid $10.20 in her own right.

Mrs. J. Y. Christmas, of Marlboro, Md., saw her Bay Orders last in front of a stretch-charge by Flamingo Farm's Big Elm in the second race. The Washington-owned 4-year-old just missed getting up in time. Bay Orders, ridden by Jockey John Mattison, returned a $7.80 mutuel.

Williamson Rates Maryland Over Hoyas by 4 Points

MARYLAND, which plays Georgetown at College Park Friday evening, outrates the Hoyas by 4 percentage points, according to the Williamson Rating System.

The pigskin professor accords the Terps an 88.5 rating and gives Georgetown an 84.5 mark.

Princeton, which meets Navy in Baltimore, is listed as 90.5, with the Middies at 87.5.

The "system" turned in 246 victories of 373 games reported Saturday, including Villanova's upset of Penn State.

Terps-Hoyas Head Area's Grid Slate

By Morris Siegel
Post Reporter

Off to impressive starts on foreign fields, three area teams strut their stuff before the home folks this weekend.

Heading the card, unheralded (and unbeaten) Georgetown collides with heralded (and also unbeaten) Maryland at College Park Friday night.

More Evenly Matched

On Saturday, Navy once again tries to crash the winner's circle and this time the dauntless Middies have a chance. They hook up with Princeton, more in Navy's class than the mighty men of Southern California. Baltimore's Babe Ruth Stadium is the site.

George Washington, victimized by a furious fourth quarter Virginia rush, drops down a peg and takes V.M.I., which also lost its opener, at Lexington.

Down the road a piece—as far down as Charlottesville, Va., Coach Art Guepe's Cavaliers will be trying to follow up their 27-13 conquest of the Colonials with a victory over Miami of Ohio.

Terps Hear About Hoyas

The Terp-Hoya, Middie-Princeton engagements shape up as humdingers, especially the former game.

Until Saturday, the Maryland high command figured the Hoyas wouldn't be too difficult. But last night they were singing a different tune after listening to Scout Jack Hennemier's report on the Hilltoppers' stunning 20-12 success over two-touchdown favored Holy Cross.

Truth to tell, the Terps were no world-beaters against Virginia Tech, although they won 34-7 with a 20-point escapade in the fourth quarter.

Shemonski, Brasher Ready

Halfback Bob Shemonski, a soph speedster kept out of Saturday's fray by injuries, will be back as will Jim Brasher, bruising defensive center who also missed the game.

On the Hilltop, Coach Bob Margarita started preparations for the Terps on a sad note. He learned that Fran Desmond, regular right end and cocaptain, won't be available because of a shoulder separation incurred against Holy Cross.

George Washington isn't expecting and won't be meeting a pushover in the spirited Keydets of V. M. I. The Virginians showed their mettle Saturday by holding a much more potent Quantico Marine team to a 14-7 success.

Where to Buy Tickets for Games

Tickets for Friday night's Maryland-Georgetown game are on sale at Fairway Sports Shop, 1328 G st., nw, and Ritchie Coliseum, College Park.

Tickets for the Navy-Princeton game at Baltimore are on sale at the Keystone Automobile Club at 1643 Connecticut ave., nw.

Bosox Edge Yanks, 7-6; Take Lead

Boston pitcher was identified as Kinder, who was facing the Yanks again after one day's rest, but Joe McCarthy was levelling now, with his best. A walk to Stirnweiss, and a sacrifice put the tying run in scoring position for the Yanks in the eighth, but Kinder disposed of pinch-hitter Jim Delsing on a fly to Zarilla and, after wild-pitching Stirnweiss to third, he got rid of Rizzuto on a fly to DiMaggio.

And Al Zarilla took care of things for Kinder and the Red Sox in the ninth with that catch of Henrich.

At the finish they had played a 3-hour-and-18-minute ball game, longest of the season. The first half of Boston's three-run first inning consumed 31 minutes.

Maurice McDermott, Jack Kramer and Kinder limited the Yankees actually to five hits, but they were getting vast mileage out of them, wasting no blows in the six runs they scored. There were 20 walks in the ball game, 11 of them handed out by the Yankee pitcers.

Stengel was risking Left-hander Tommy Byrne as his starting pitcher despite his reputation for wildness, and Byrne didn't last out the first inning. He walked DiMaggio, pitched a single to Pesky when Coleman and Bauer misplayed a pop fly and walked Williams to fill the bases with none out. Whereupon Vern Stephens unloaded a two-run single to left, and Sanford moved in to pitch. With two out, Sanford walked Tebbetts to force a third run across.

The Red Sox tossed away a run in the fourth after Tebbets opened up with a single. Dashing for second on what he thought was the fourth ball to McDermott, Tebbetts slowed down as he neared the bag, and was thrown out. As matters eventuated, he would have scored.

After hurling three scoreless innings, McDermott filled the bases with Yankees on a walk, a hit batsman and a single by Bill Johnson, and then was excused in favor of Kramer with none out in the fourth. Johnny Lindell immediately got two runs home with a single to left on Kramer's first pitch.

Without getting another hit, the Yanks scored two more. Kramer wild-pitched Hank Bauer from third, and Tebbetts, after retrieving the ball, threw to second for no reason. The bag was uncovered, and Johnson made it all the way from first to third on the error. He scored on pinch-hitter Gene Woodling's fly to Williams.

From there, the Yankees took their lead to 5-3 in the sixth on a run compounded from a walk to Bauer, Stirnweiss' single and Woodling's long fly. They made it 6-3 in the next inning when Brown doubled to right and scored on Houck's single to center.

And with Page, well-thumbed from the bullpen this season, making his 58th appearance of the year, now in command of the Yankee pitching, the 66,156 saw little fear of a Red Sox rally. How wrong they were was posted on the scoreboard a bit later.

Fire Marshal Selection Seen Today

The Montgomery County Council is expected to approve appointment of the county's first fire marshal today at a meeting in the courthouse in Rockville.

County Manager Irving G. McNayr said yesterday he has made selection of the marshal from one of two candidates recommended by a committee of five county volunteer fire department chiefs named for that purpose. The committee screened the recommended pair from a field of nine applicants.

The fire marshal's post is a full-time job and pays $4800 annually. The marshal will coordinate all county fire activities. He is charged with administration of the new county fire code, expected to be approved soon, and inspection of public buildings.

Trade Show Opening Set At Bethesda

Senator Herbert R. O'Connor (D., Md.) will open the Bethesda Trade Show at 2 p. m. Thursday, Chairman John F. Ligon announced yesterday.

Senator O'Connor will cut a ribbon across the entrance to the exhibition building, Bethesda ave. and Ligon lane. He also will be the speaker at the brief ceremonies.

The show, sponsored by the businessmen's division of the Bethesda Chamber of Commerce, will be open from Thursday through Saturday night. A parade is scheduled for 7:30 p. m. Wednesday, before the official opening.

Included among the exhibits will be displays by the Naval Health Center, and the National Institute of Health.

A feature of the closing night will be the selection of "Miss Bethesda." Contestants will appear nightly during the show.

Lane to Address Bar Association Dinner Tonight

Gov. William Preston Lane, jr., of Maryland will be the principal speaker at the Montgomery County Bar Association dinner tonight at the Congressional Country Club, Brarley blvd. and River rd. Miss Vivian V. Simpson will be installed at the session as the first woman president of any mixed bar association in the State.

A reception in the Governor's room will be held at 7 p.m. The dinner is scheduled for 8:15 p.m.

Frank Ober, Baltimore, president of the Maryland State Bar Association, will install the officers, elected last week. Judge Stedman Prescott of the Montgomery County Circuit Court, as toastmaster, will be introduced by David Betts, Rockville attorney, chairman.

End of Gas Rate Hearings Sighted by PUC Chairman

Public Utilities Commission Chairman James H. Flanagan hopes to hear summarizing briefs today on the Washington Gas Light Co. petition for a 7 percent rate increase.

Flanagan raised the possibility of a windup last night as the District Building public hearings went into the eleventh all-day session.

Yesterday's testimony was primarily reiteration of arguments over company bookkeeping methods between company officials and the two intervenors in the case—the Bureau of Federal Supply and the District Gas Consumers and Independent Appliance Dealers.

Flanagan said he had not yet decided when he would ask the gas company to submit a specific consumer rate schedule showing how it would absorb the $900,000 it is seeking in additional operating revenue.

9684 Students Start Classes At Maryland U.

Classes for the school year of 1940-50 began yesterday at the University of Maryland with a total of 9684 students registered. Additional registration today is expected to bring the student load to 10,000.

First day registration, officials said, was about the same as last year. Of the total, approximately 4500 are veterans, including 15 girls.

The figures compiled for the opening day include extension classes conducted by the University at the Pentagon and at Bolling Air Force Base, but not those in Baltimore.

Tucker Trial Date Extension Refused

Chicago, Sept. 26 (AP).—A Federal judge today refused to extend the trial date of Preston Tucker and co-defendants beyond October 4 as requested because of an article recently published in a national magazine.

Tucker, promoter of a rear-engine automobile that never got into mass production, is awaiting trial with seven others on charges of mail fraud, violation of Security and Exchange Commission rulings, and conspiracy.

VA Steps to Close Offices, Cut Force Confirmed by Gray

VA: The Veterans Administration is moving ahead with plans to close some of its administrative offices and to make another reduction in force.

Shake-down plans have been confirmed by Administrator Carl Gray in a letter to the American Legion. The Legion had asked Gray to provide contact representatives in all areas where they are needed. In reply, Gray wrote in part:

"I am faced with the necessity of adjusting the operations of this agency to come within current appropriations . . . The appropriation we have for the current fiscal year does not permit the continuation of VA operations as they are at present . . . Rather than reduce the service given veterans, it is planned to reduce the number of places at which service will be available."

Unless VA is given additional funds, it must abolish about 7500 administrative jobs. The reduction already has started in personnel and other divisions. Some jobs to be abolished have been vacated by employe turnover. The reduction won't affect the hospital or insurance dividend programs.

RETIREMENT: Chairman Murray of the House Civil Service Committee, yesterday filed a conference report on a bill which would have the effect of boosting the pensions of married persons who retire. Quick approval by the House is anticipated. The report has the okay of the Senate.

A male employe who retires now must have his annuity reduced by 10 percent if he exercises his option to provide a survivorship pension for his wife. A working wife can't provide a similar benefit for her husband.

The conference report, however, would reduce the cost to 5 percent on the first $1500 in annuity, and it would be 10 percent on that part over $1500. In addition, it would allow a working wife to name her husband for a survivorship pension at the same cost.

In all cases, the annuity would be further reduced by three-fourths of 1 percent for each year the person retiring is under 60. But the total reduction in no case could be more than 25 percent. The bill isn't retroactive. It will go into effect the day it is signed into law by the President.

PREFERENCE CHANGE? Chairman Johnston of the Senate Civil Service Committee has come up with a compromise bill to amend the Veterans Preference Act. He proposes that veterans with 10 or more years of service retain their super job rights over nonveterans during layoffs, but he would place on an equal basis those veterans with less than 10 years of service and nonveterans with 15 or more years of service. Meantime the Federal Career Employes Association is holding a mass meeting Wednesday in New York City to urge approval of the Langer-Klein bill to place nonveterans with 12 or more years of service on an equal footing with veterans during layoffs.

NOTES: John Gange has resigned from Economic Cooperation to become director of the foreign affairs school at the University of Virginia . . . Harold McAvoy is the new president of AFL's Post Office and Railway Service Mail Handlers. Max Hirsh is treasurer, and Harry E. Lennox is secretary . . . Fred J. Lawton, assistant director of the Budget Bureau, will speak on management improvement at a dinner meeting Wednesday night of the Society for Personnel Administration to be held in the South Agriculture cafeteria at 6 p. m. . . . Senator William Langer and former House member Ramspeck will talk on what Congress expects of personnel directors at a SPA sectional meeting at 7:30 p. m. tonight in the Archives Auditorium.

JOB NEWS: Federal employment here in the executive branch slumped 2100 in August to 215,500. The overall reduction for the entire Nation was 7900. The Navy here accounted for 1600 of the reduction. The Army, General Services, and Federal Security also reported decreases. VA had the largest increase. It is hiring temporaries to get out GI insurance dividends . . . The written Civil Service test for patent examiners will be given the 350 applicants on October 4 . . . Only 124 persons passed the recent Civil Service exam for occupational therapists.

Wage Raise Withheld, Arnold Line Faces Tieup

Union to Meet Today After Company Asks Employes to Await Fare Boost Decision

Drivers, mechanics and shop employes of the Arnold Bus line will meet today for what may turn out to be a continuous session, or work stoppage, because the company has failed to pay them a wage increase awarded September 9.

The meeting today was called by union officials last night to decide whether to strike officially, or go along with the company's plea to await a decision on a requested fare increase now pending before Virginia and Interstate Commerce Commissions.

Frederick Fitzgerald, international vice president of the AFL Motor Coach and Railway Employes, said it was decided to call the meeting after a conference with the management yesterday during which company officials told the union that the wage increase simply could not be paid from present revenues.

Awarded by Arbitration

An arbitration board awarded a total increase of 17 cents an hour to employes of the Arnold Lines (Washington, Virginia and Maryland Coach Co.) on September 9 after 17 days' of negotiations.

The award was retroactive to May 18, when the old contract expired. It affected 215 drivers and 65 maintenance men.

The increase was to spread over three five-month periods beginning at 10 cents per hour and rising to to 17 cents per hour.

During the sessions yesterday at the Arlington office of the bus company, Bernard Wahle, executive director and general manager of the company, told union officials: "Our revenues will simply not meet the increased payroll. We have filed applications with the State and Interstate Commerce Commission for an increase in fares. When the increases are granted we will start paying the increased hourly wage immediately."

5-Cent Increases Asked

The company petitioned Friday for an increase of 5 cents per zone in fares and for raising the cost of tokens from eight to six for $1. Two years ago the line was authorized fare boosts ranging from 5 to 10 cents. As a result cash fares now range by a 5 cent progression from 15 cents in the first zone to 35 cents in the sixth zone.

If the present request is granted fares would begin at 20 cents and range to 40 cents, effective October 24, 30 days after the application was filed. A hearing on the fare increase is set for October 19.

Union members will begin their meetings at 10 a. m. today in the Ballston Fire Department Hall.

Presentation Held Needed For Housing

Money for redevelopment of Marshall Heights probably would be appropriated if the plan were presented so that "both houses of Congress could understand it."

This assertion was made last night by Senator John J. Sparkman (D., Ala.) at the annual meeting of the Washington Housing Association, a Red Feather agency. It was attended by about 75 persons at the home of C. Carroll Glover, jr., 4200 Massachusetts ave. nw.

Senator Sparkman, a member of the Banking and Currency Committee and a leading supporter of housing legislation, offered a word of advice to proponents of slum-clearance in the District.

"One of the great troubles," he said, with reference to the redevelopment plan for Marshall Heights, a 180-acre section in the eastern tip of the District "is a lack of understanding by the Appropriations Committee and member of Congress generally about the project."

It could be remedied, he said, by having the committee look at charts, diagrams and specific plans drawn up by District officials. When the Redevelopment Land Agency request for $2,180,000 for 1950 was rejected, this was not done, he added.

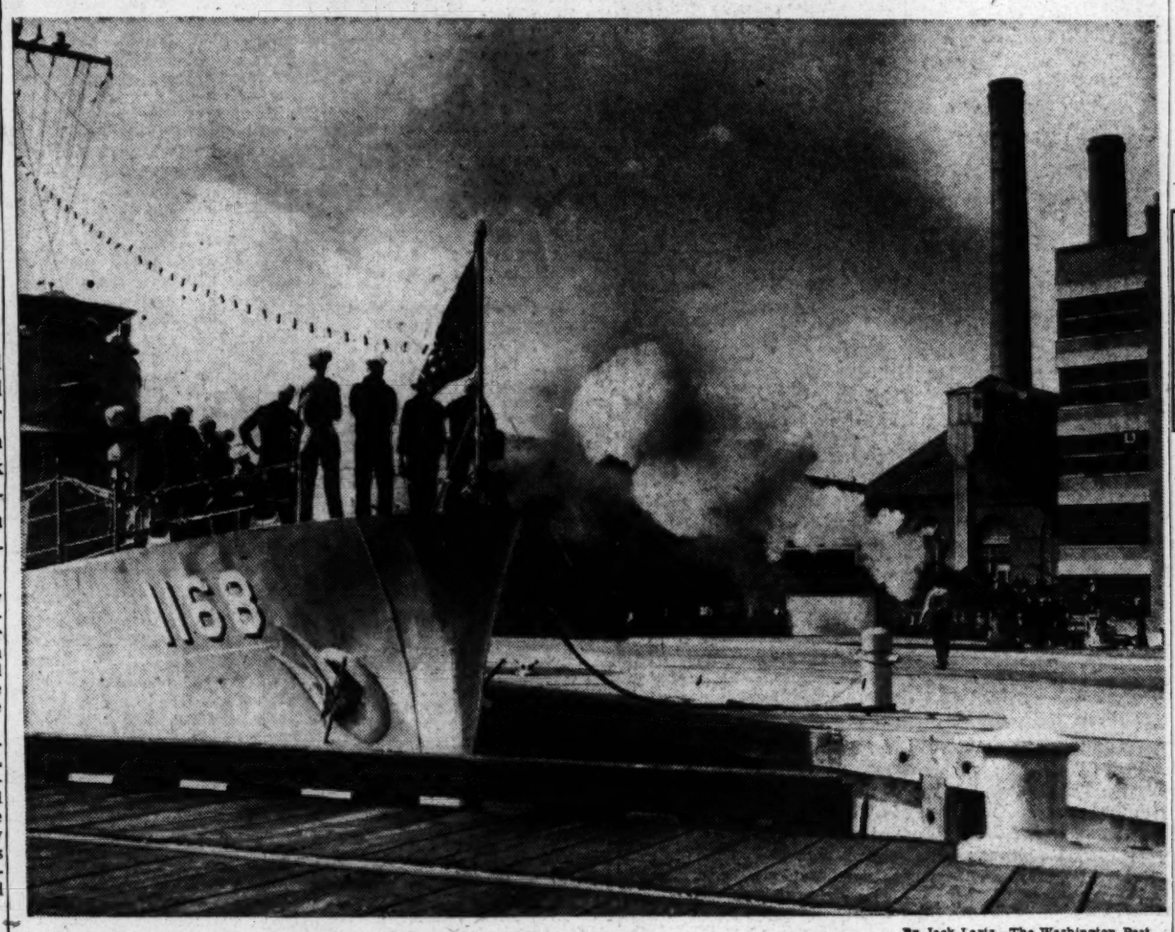
Mark Lansburgh, chairman of the Redevelopment Land Agency here, said it is the only agency "for which a substantial amount has been authorized by the Congress, and for which not a penny has been appropriated for expenses or work."

Nevertheless, there is "a ray of light," Lansburgh said, in the inclusion of the District in the Housing Act of 1949. For this, he cited the efforts of "Senators Sparkman, McCarran, Flanders, Ferguson, Douglas and members of the House who have vision and love of our city."

Mrs. Hilda Cloud, executive director of the Housing Association, said there is actually "no organized opposition to the Marshall Heights plan, with the exception of small groups."

On the other hand, she added, "the organized support was neither great enough nor active enough to win Congressional approval."

As Navy Gun Factory Opens Sesqui Celebration



By Jack Lartz—The Washington Post

SALUTE TO SNIPE—A salute is fired by a Navy Gun Factory battery as the British corvette, HMS Snipe, comes up the channel. The Snipe will serve as flagship for Vice Admiral R. V. Symonds-Taylor, R. N., who will arrive Thursday for the duration of the celebration, which lasts through Sunday. At left is U. S. Navy Patrol Craft 1168

Gun Factory Is Host Today At Luncheon

Leading Washington citizens will join today in observance of "District Day" at the Naval Gun Factory, observing tis 150th anniversary this week.

Members of Congress, District Commissioners, other public officials and private citizens will attend a 12:30 p. m. luncheon in the Officers' Club at the Naval Gun Factory, M at 8th st. se.

Frederick P. H. Siddons, president of the Washington Board of Trade and head of a D. C. citizens' committee named to aid in the sesquicentennial, will present an illuminated scroll to Rear Admiral Frank G. Fahrion, factory superintendent.

The scroll will pay tribute to the plant's contribution to the fleet, the Nation and to the growth of Washington. The 2 p. m. ceremony will be held at the waterfront bandstand in the grounds.

Truman Visit on Saturday

As the factory—formerly the Washington Navy Yard—opened its week-long celebration yesterday, the White House announced President Truman has accepted Admiral Fahrion's invitation to visit the factory Saturday. There will be a water pageant, a special display of new Navy aircraft, and a demonstration by Underwater Demolition Team 4 from the Atlantic Fleet that afternoon.

Nearly 1000 persons, including most of the factory personnel, heard Rear Admiral A. G. Noble, ordnance chief, open the fete yesterday noon with an address tracing "the yard's" history and describing its present importance as the world's largest naval ordnance plant.

The 125-acre yard was also host to hundreds of visitors inspecting the shops and laboratories, the two-man Nazi submarine and other trophies, and watching the sailing demonstrations of the miniature model of the Wasp, launched at the yard in 1806.

HMS Snipe Arrives

A British corvette, HMS Snipe, arrived yesterday afternoon. Upon arrival Thursday of British Vice Adm. R. V. Symonds-Taylor, commander in chief of the America and West Indies Station, the 300-foot corvette will serve as his flagship for the duration of the celebration, concluding Sunday.

Superintendent of Police Robert Barrett instructed police to show courtesy to the seven officers and 156 members of the Snipe's crew.

The shops and laboratories of the factory will be open to visitors from 1 to 6 p. m. today. Among other attractions are: Navy Band concert, 1 and 2 p. m.; combat movies, 1 to 4 p. m., in Building 218; underwater demolition demonstration, All Service invitational tennis tournament, both at 2 p. m.; 2:30 to 3:30 p. m.; formal guard mount, U. S. Marines, 3:45 p. m.; searchlight display, 8:30 to 9 p. m.

INSEPECTION—Able Seaman Allen Niyes, whose guard station is the gangplank of the Snipe, suffers the inspection of Scott Anderson, 4, and Thomas Pray, 4, both of whom live on the station. They are sons of Lieut. Comdr. Scott Anderson, Supply Corps, and Comdr. R. M. Pray, Planning Department

Search, Seizure Question Splits Court by 2 to 1

Warrant Held Not Required to Seek Stolen Goods in Home of Arrested

By Howard L. Dutkin
Post Reporter

The thorny problem of legal search and seizure yesterday split the United States Court of Appeals 2 to 1.

The majority held that a search warrant is not required for the recovery of stolen goods from the domicile of a suspect when the search is coincident with the legal arrest of the suspect in his home.

Dissenting was Chief Judge Harold M. Stephens, who cited Supreme Court rulings that absence of search warrants can only be justified by exceptional circumstances such as the imminence of harm or the destruction of the property.

Majority Supports Search

But the majority opinion expressed by Circuit Judges Wilbur K. Miller and James M. Proctor also cited Supreme Court findings to the effect that when a person is lawfully arrested, "the search incident to arrest may, under appropriate circumstances, extend beyond the person of the one arrested to include the premises under his immediate control."

The case stemmed from the housebreaking, larceny and grand larceny convictions of Lorenzo McCoy Cradle, 20, and Ange Biggs, 21, both of 1815 Corcoran st. nw., last year.

Both were convicted of entering the home of Pat J. Fiordelise, 1850 Wyoming ave. nw., last February 16 and removing furniture and wearing apparel.

Police, who had been looking for Cradle in connection with the crime, found him on March 6 at the Corcoran street address.

Had No Warrant

The officers had no warrant of any kind but they had a photograph of Cradle and knew he was wanted for the housebreaking.

The officers surrounded the house and when they knocked on the door, Cradle answered and admitted his identity. He was then arrested as he came out of the door.

According to the opinion, Cradle admitted his guilt and pointed out to the policemen, a combination radio, in plain view in the living room, as stolen from Fiordelise.

The opinion was that other articles which one of the arresting officers testified were recovered at the apartment were not searched out by the officers but were gathered up by Cradle and exhibited by him to police as stolen property.

Cradle appealed his conviction on the grounds that:

1. The District Court erred in denying a motion to suppress for use as evidence the seized articles on the ground they were obtained through illegal search and seizure.
2. The court erred in allowing the introduction of evidence obtained by an illegal seizure followed by an unlawful search.

The majority appellate opinion held that there was actually no search made since the radio was in plain view and the other evidence was gathered up by the appellant himself.

In addition, the majority declared, even if there were a search it would be legal since it was incidental to a legal arrest.

Prior Case Cited

In dissenting, Stephens cited McDonald vs. United States, in which gaming material was seized by police without a warrant after they had spotted the material through a transom.

Stephens noted that the high court held that the search and seizure in that case was illegal.

The jurist also held that the action of Cradle in gathering up the evidence was done under "implied coercion."

In addition, he wrote, "there was no justification for lack of a search warrant . . . Cradle was not fleeing or seeking to escape, and the property seized was not . . . likely to be destroyed."

Ben Noble, Cradle's attorney, said yesterday he would carry the case to the Supreme Court.

Taxi Limit In D. C. Gets Green Light

A Senate District Subcommittee has agreed to back legislation to limit the number of taxicabs in the District, Senator J. Allen Frear, jr., announced yesterday.

Frear (D., Del.) chairman of the District Public Utilities Subcommittee, said his group had agreed to support the taxi limitation plan, provided it would preserve a ratio between the number of company cabs and the number of privately owned cabs.

What the ratio might be, he said, should be left up to the District Public Utilities Commission, along with the decision on the over-all taxicab limitation figure.

The idea of a ratio between the number of corporation and privately owned cabs was a new feature in the limitation plan, designed to forestall the fears expressed by some opponents of limitation that it would lead to monopoly in the cab business.

With the ratio plan added, Frear said he will recommend to the District Committee that it approve the limitation plan. Under the program the limiting figure would be set at a level adequate for public convenience and necessity. Once the figure had been fixed by PUC, it would be reached gradually by (1) voluntary surrender of licenses, (2) failure to renew licenses or (3) by legal forfeiture of licenses.

The Senate District Committee is to meet at 3:30 p. m., Wednesday, in the first session since Senator Matthew M. Neely (D., W. Va.) took over as chairman.

A number of other District measures are slated for discussion, including bills to revise the District laws for group life, and industrial life insurance, for adding three judges to the present 10-judge Municipal Court, and to place District executive jobs under the Classification Act.

Air Crash Award Upheld For $25,000

An award of $25,000 damages to a former Washington woman, who was injured in a 1945 Virginia plane crash which also won her a Carnegie Medal for heroism was upheld yesterday by the United States Court of Appeals.

The woman, Mrs. Violet Howard Ulen, wife of Navy Capt. Francis G. Ulen, had suffered a fractured collarbone, fractured ankle and other injuries in the crash of an American Airlines plane at Glade Mountain near Rural Retreat, Va., February 23, 1945. Seventeen persons were killed.

Despite her injuries she dragged herself through the wild country seeking help for other injured. The Ulens now live in Honolulu. Their former address was 4000 Cathedral ave. nw.

In upholding the District Court judgment of $25,000 to Mrs. Ulen and $2500 to her husband, the appellate court ruled that the provision of the Warsaw Convention which limits damage payment to $8291 is inoperable where "wilful misconduct" is shown to have been the cause of the crash.

Questioning had brought out that the plane, at the time of the crash, was being flown at 3910 feet. Air regulations forbid scheduled carriers from flying at an altitude of "less than 1000 feet above the highest obstacle located within a horizontal distance of 5 miles from the center of the course . . ."

Man Charged With 'Mystery' Murder Here

Police yesterday charged Ed Nelson, 23, a trucker, of 1307 9th st. nw., with the murder early Sunday of Edward H. Gaines, 30, of 456 M st. nw.

After arraignment before U. S. Commissioner C. S. Lawrence, he was ordered held without bail for a coroner's inquest at 11:30 a. m. Tuesday.

Gaines was found unconscious on a sidewalk at 8th and O sts. nw. and at Emergency Hospital, where he died three hours later, he was found to have a deep gash on his head and a bullet wound in his abdomen.

Detective Sergts. W. L. Sparshott, James Roche, Millard Dixon, and Shirley O'Neill canvassed the neighborhood where Gaines was found until they uncovered tips of an altercation between Gaines and Nelson.

At his home, Nelson admitted, the officers said, that there had been a fight between the two when he found Gaines asleep in his truck and tried to eject him. Nelson claimed self-defense, the officers said.

Girl, 22, Hangs Self With Sheet in Home Here; Second Young Woman to End Life in 2 Days

The second suicide in two days of attractive young District girls was reported yesterday when a brother coming home from classes found his reddish-haired sister hanging from a second-floor rafter.

The girl was Jeanne J. April, 22, of 109 Rittenhouse st. nw., who had studied to be a trained nurse until she was asked to resign from Emergency Hospital School of Nursing last February.

Meanwhile, Deputy Coroner Richard Rosenberg issued a temporary certificate of suicide in the case of Myla Hubbard, 23, of 3026 Wisconsin ave. nw., who died early Sunday after swallowing a poisonous powder.

Police said Miss April, who was pronounced dead at 2:17 p. m. yesterday, was found by her brother, Reuben, 24, shortly after noon. Coroner A. Magruder MacDonald certified the case as suicide.

Reuben came home from school, police reported, and noticed the "disappearing ladder" to the second floor had been pulled down to the first floor.

When he went upstairs to investigate, he found his sister, police said. She had fashioned a noose from a bedsheet, which had been draped over one rafter and fastened to another.

She wore a print house dress, but was barefooted.

The brother, a sophomore at the University of Maryland, took his sister down and called police. They applied artificial respiration until members of Rescue Squad No. 2 arrived. Squad members estimated the hanging had taken place less than an hour before. Mechanical resuscitation was attempted for five minutes, but to no avail.

Police quoted Jeanne's mother, Mrs. Helen April, with whom she and Reuben lived, as saying the girl had been despondent and in bad health for some time.

Authorities at Emergency Hospital said Jeanne had left the Nursing School because she was behind in her studies in February. She would have graduated this month had she continued, they said.

Worked at Doctor's Office

Police said she had recently been employed at a physician's office.

Miss April was the daughter of David April of 9050 Baltimore blvd., Berwyn, Md., who has remarried since being divorced from the girl's mother.

Besides her parents and brother, Miss April leaves four uncles, Ben April, 2822 27th st. nw.; Dr. Ellis April, 1336 Missouri ave. nw.; Israel April, 1604 Roxanna rd. nw., and Sam April, 2000 Klingle rd. nw.; and two aunts, Mrs. Annie Stewart, 1144 N. Stuart st., Arlington, and Mrs. Ethel Symonds, Camden, N. J.

Miss April attended school at McFarland Junior High and Roosevelt High School before enrolling at Burdick Vocational School, where she was graduated in practical nursing in 1946.

She worked for a doctor for a while before enrolling at Emergency, school officials said. They described her as an "average" student whose ambition was to become a registered nurse.

In the case of Miss Hubbard, the coroner said he had not learned of any motive for her suicide.

The temporary certificate was based on an autopsy that showed death was caused by poison.

When police arrived at the home of the brunette employe at the Navy Department's Bureau of Aeronautics, she told them:

"You've come too late. I've already taken it."

She had telephoned police earlier to say she was going to take her life.

Three hours after police arrived at her apartment, where she lived with her mother, Miss Hubbard died at Emergency Hospital.

Dr. Rosenberg said the certificate will be made final after chemical analyses are completed.

Wolfsons Talk With Transit Executives

Officials of Capital Transit Co. and five members of the Wolfson group got together yesterday afternoon for the first time since the Florida businessmen bought controlling stock interest for $2,189,160.

Current labor and service problems were discussed informally at the meeting in Capital Transit executive offices at 36th and M sts. nw. The talks, said to be "of a general nature," were mainly exploratory, with the Wolfson group repeating that management in the past has been excellent and that it desires the company to operate as usual.

Both sides agreed to another meeting today at 12:30 p. m. in the Metropolitan Club with newsmen present.

Attending yesterday's meeting were Edward D. Merrill, Capital Transit president; J. Edward Heberle, vice president and comptroller; William B. Bennett, vice president and secretary, and E. Cleveland Giddings, vice president in charge of public relations. Accompanying Louis E. Wolfson, head of the Florida group, were J. A. B. Broadwater, Jack Surasky, E. B. Gerbert and Cecil Wolfson.

Dr. Mittelman, Union Official, Dies

Dr. Edward B. Mittelman, 59, economist for the International Association of Machinists here, died early yesterday in a hotel room in New York.

Mr. Mittelman

He lived with his wife at 2032 Belmont rd. nw., and had been a Washington resident for a number of years, serving with the staffs of various Government departments since 1936.

Born in Poland, he came to the United States with his parents when he was 9 years old, and was educated in the public schools of Milwaukee. He graduated from the University of Wisconsin in 1914, and received a doctor of philosophy degree at the University of Chicago in 1920.

Mr. Mittelman specialized in economics of labor and social questions. He taught at Oregon State College and the University of Oregon for several years before coming to Washington. He was associated here successively with the WPA, wage and hour division of the Department of Labor, and the War Production Board. In 1946, he joined the International Association of Machinists.

He was an associate of John R. Commons in authorship of "The History of Labor in the United States," and had written extensively in professional publications, including the American Economic Review, Journal of Political Economy, and the Political Science Quarterly.

He is survived by his wife, Mrs. Bess Mittelman; two brothers, Charles and Paul Mittelman, both of Milwaukee, and a sister, Miss Anne Mittelman, of Israel, whom he had not seen in 30 years until she arrived here a week ago on a visit.

Funeral services will take place at 1:30 p. m. Wednesday at the Danzansky Chapel, 3501 14th st. nw. Cremation will follow.

Kerr Lauds Evangelistic Plan Here

Senator Robert S. Kerr (D., Okla.) yesterday praised the city-wide simultaneous evangelistic campaign now under way in 27 Greater Washington Baptist churches.

In a letter to the Rev. Dr. C. E. Matthews, director of the campaign, Senator Kerr pointed out that it comes at a time when "all Americans yearn and struggle to achieve security and peace."

At Fountain Memorial Church, 2214 Naylor rd. se., the Rev. Frank B. Burress, pastor of the church, told participating ministers yesterday that more than 10,000 persons attended morning services on Sunday, the first day of the two-week campaign.

Dr. Matthews spoke to nearly 300 persons at a noonday service at New York Avenue Presbyterian Church on Practical Christianity for World Needs Today." He will speak at similar services at the church at 12:10 each day this week.

Arthur C. Clarke

Brentwood, N. Y., Sept. 26 (AP).—Arthur C. Clarke, 79, former Sunday news editor of the New York Herald Tribune, died today.

He joined the staff of the old New York World in 1892, for a while worked with the New York Times and joined the New York Herald as news editor in 1921.

When the paper was absorbed by the New York Tribune in 1924 Clarke became an editor of the Herald Tribune. He retired in 1947.

Mike Has Day on His Own . . .

The Washington Post

"MISSING" EIGHT HOURS—Michael Britt, 2, spent yesterday at the Police Women's Bureau, frustrating efforts to find out who he was and where he lived. Picked up by Ninth Precinct police about 7:30 a. m. as he wandered in the 300 block of 9th st. ne., Michael stuck around until claimed at 4 p. m. by his father, George Britt, 412 10th st. ne. His father, who said he was separated from his wife, said he left Michael in a friend's care and didn't discover he was missing until he returned from work

Youthful Tippling Charged In Falls Church Teen Canteen

A charge that "you can get a wheelbarrow full of beer cans every morning from the premises of the Teen Canteen" in Falls Church was made last night to the Falls Church City Council by Donald Frady, chairman of the city recreation commission.

His statement came in a preliminary report on affairs of the canteen, financial and otherwise, asked by the council. He made no recommendations and promised a full report later.

Frady said he doesn't think the city is getting its money's worth on the $300 a month salary for Miss Frances Mayze, director of the canteen. He said the canteen costs the city $425 a month and the city is "getting nothing for it but telephone bills." He did not explain that statement.

"No Activity"

He said members of the recreation board have consulted with teen-age leaders in the canteen group and were told that there is "no activity going on in the canteen which really interested them."

The city council voted unanimously to fight a proposed bus fare increase now sought before the Interstate Commerce Commission by the Arnold Lines, which serves routes between Falls Church and Washington. The bus company has asked an increase of 5 cents per zone.

The council instructed LaRue Van Meter, Falls Church city attorney, to enter into an arrangement with Denman T. Rucker, Arlington commonwealth's attorney, to oppose the increase jointly.

Other Actions

In other actions, the council awarded a bid for the construction of a prefabricated steel storage building to United Steel Fabricated, Inc., a Worcester, Ohio, firm. The firm bid $5250 for the job. The building will be used to house city-owned equipment at the municipal property yard.

City Treasurer James E. Ferguson reported that $5164 in delinquent taxes and penalties had been collected this year although budget estimates called for only $3000.

Rear Admiral Kilpatrick Dies on Coast

Oakland, Calif., Sept. 26 (U.P.).—Rear Admiral Walter K. Kilpatrick, (ret.) 62, wartime chief of staff to the commander of the Atlantic Fleet, died at Oakland Naval Hospital today of a heart ailment.

Admiral Kilpatrick, a graduate under Admiral Jonas H. Ingram with the Atlantic Fleet and also was chief of staff to Vice Admiral John Greenslade, commandant of the Western Sea Frontier, in World War II.

Kilpatrick leaves his wife, Ethel, of Hillsborough, Calif.

Funeral services will be held Thursday at noon in San Francisco.

Run-Off Election In Greenbelt to Take Place Today

A runoff election for two of five places on the Greenbelt City Council will take place today with four candidates competing for the two seats.

Polls will be open from 7 a.m. to 7 p.m. at the city firehouse.

The four candidates are Walter J. Bierwagen, Steve L. Comings, Mike H. Salsman, and James N. Wolfe. They failed to receive a majority of votes cast in the first council election last Tuesday.

Three other candidates, the only ones out of 11 running, got a majority, and were elected.

The council will meet Monday night, with the members to be chosen today, to elect a mayor from its membership.

A. F. Harlan Rites to Be Wednesday

Funeral services for Ashlan Fleetwood Harlan, 75, secretary of the Northern Market Co., who died Saturday, will be held at noon Wednesday in the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church. Burial will be in Riverview Cemetery, Richmond, Va.

Mr. Harlan

Mr. Harlan, who lived at 1342 Montague st. nw., suffered a heart attack at the home of his son, Ashlan F. Harlan, jr., whom he was visiting.

A past grand master of the I. O. O. F. of the District, he strongly believed that groups like the Odd Fellows, which stress fraternity, are vital factors in keeping the democratic system intact.

Came to District in 1900

Mr. Harlan, a native of Esmont in Albemarle County, Va., lived with his family in Buchanan, Va., before coming to Washington in 1900.

For the last 24 years he had been secretary of the Northern Market Co., 7th and O sts. nw. Before that he worked 17 years for the Smoot Sand & Gravel Co., and for seven years was president of Harlan-Adams Co., building materials concern.

Mr. Harlan was a member of Harmony Lodge, No. 9, of Magenenu Encampment No. 4, and Ruth Rebekah Lodge, No. 2. He also belonged to Mithras Sanctorum, No. 100, Ancient Mystic Order of Samaritans.

Active As Churchman

Active in the Mount Vernon Place Methodist Church since 1900, he served there in various capacities, as trustee member of the official board, finance, music and pastor's visiting committees, and secretary of the church school.

He is survived by his wife, the former Ethel Coe Burgess, daughter of the late Rev. Oscar B. Burgess of the Baltimore Conference; two children, Ashlan F. Harlan, jr., of Niagara Falls, and Mrs. E. Franklin Odor, of Washington; two sisters, Mrs. John H. Manning and Mrs. Lilia V. Harlan, both of Highland Springs, Va., and two grandchildren, Ashlan F. Harlan 3d, and Garrett Harlan.

Mrs. Reaney Rites Set Today; Marked 100th Birthday in July

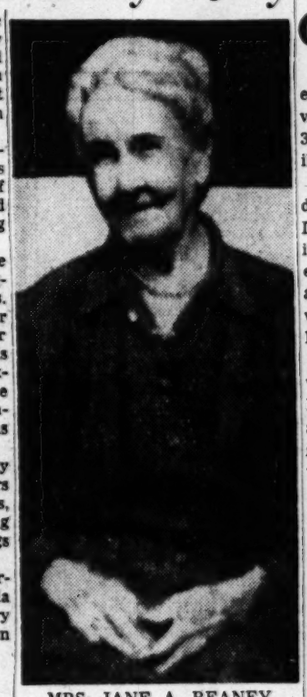
Funeral services for Mrs. Jane Olivia Reaney, who died Saturday two months after she celebrated her 100th birthday, will be held in Christ Church, Alexandria, Va., at 2 p. m. today. Burial will be in Rock Creek Cemetery.

On July 26, reflecting on a century of living, she told reporters how sad she had been to hear of Lincoln's death, how frail she had been as a child, and how amazing it was that she lived so long.

The widow of a rector of the Church of Ascension in Washington, who died 41 years ago, Mrs. Reaney lived with her son Arthur F. Reaney, assistant post engineer at Fort McNair. She died in his home at 1215 Powhatan st., Alexandria, only a few hours after she had been "chipper and spry at dinner" according to her son. She was a native of Baltimore, Md.

She made her own bed every day until she died, read newspapers with the aid of a magnifying glass, and made a hobby out of following with particular interest the doings of the British royal family.

In addition to her son, she is survived by a daughter, Mrs. Olivia Reaney Murphy, 75 Observatory cir. nw., and eight grandchildren and 12 great grandchildren.



MRS. JANE A. REANEY

Mrs. Callie R. Triplett

Ashburn, Va., Sept. 26 (Spl.).—Mrs. Callie Rose Triplett, 71, wife of the Rev. O. M. Triplett, retired Baptist minister, died unexpectedly Sunday at her home in Ashburn of a heart attack.

Born in Troutman, N. C., Mrs. Triplett was the daughter of the late Mr. and Mrs. C. C. Clark. She came to Loudoun County in 1932 from Seneca, S. C. Her husband was pastor of Calvary Baptist Church in Ashburn for 12 years. Had she lived until next month, the couple would have celebrated their fiftieth wedding anniversary.

Besides her husband, she is survived by four sons, Gary M., of Boston, Mass.; Clyde W., of Silver Spring, Md.; Olney C., of Arlington, Va., and Leonard Triplett, of Ashburn; also two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Milkey and Miss Merrill R. Triplett of Arlington.

Funeral services will be held Wednesday at 11 a. m. from the Calvary Baptist Church.

Sergt. Lawrence Dunlap

Funeral services for Sergt. Lawrence Dunlap, 31, who died at Andrews Air Force Base Friday, will be held at 1:30 p. m. today in the Andrews Base chapel. Burial will be in Arlington.

Born in Dravosburg, Pa., and educated at McKeesport, Pa., Sergt. Dunlap has been stationed at Andrews for three years. He lived at 8345 Leona st., Forrestville, Md.

He enlisted in the Army at the age of 17, then did a three-year hitch in the Navy at the age of 21. He went back into the Army in World War II, serving 21 months in the South Pacific with the Air Corps.

He leaves his widow, Mrs. Ruth Pauline Dunlap, a brother, Alvin W. Dunlap, and three sisters, Mrs. Irene Williams, Mrs. Betty Keene and Mrs. Olive Davis.

NW Council Urges School Space Study

The Northwest Council of Citizens Associations last night urged the Senate District Committee to appoint a citizens committee to cooperate with school authorities in studying school space problems and to plan for a junior college for whites "in line with the one now in operation for colored."

The council also voted commendation of School Board Member Adelbert Lee for his plan to utilize empty school space by transporting pupils to it by bus.

The group decided to send a representative to the Zoning Board of Appeals hearing Wednesday to oppose a change in the use variance of land at the southeast corner of Massachusetts and Wisconsin aves. nw. The land is now leased to a filling station.

The meeting, attended by 19, was held in Palisades Field House.

Shipley Terrace

The Shipley Terrace Citizens Association last night asked the District Commissioners to make a comprehensive survey of traffic cnoditions in the vicinity of 23rd st. and Alabama ave. se., giving special attention to stop signs and traffic policing.

The 40 members preesnt at the meeting at 2603 Southern ave. se. also urged residents in the area to report chronic speeders and traffic violators to authorities and cooperate with the association's program of safety at schools, playgrounds and crosswalks.

Georgetown Group

The Georgetown Citizens Association, meeting last night at St. John's Parish hall, Potomac and O sts. nw., resolved to seek a delay in the proposed widening of the four corners at Q st. and Wisconsin ave. nw.

The project is designed to alleviate traffic conditions at that busy intersection but the association took the stand that it would prefer to wait six months to see whether opening of the Whitehurst Freeway and the Dupont Circle underpass would correct the condition.

The group also voted 14-5 against music in Capital Transit buses. A survey of real estate taxes over the past 10 years was also voted.

'Fish Dogs' on Way

Boston, Sept. 26 (AP).—The American hot dog is going to sea.

A Gloucester firm said today a fish-filled version of the hot dog will soon be on the market. Tuna fish will be the basic ingredient.

Mrs. Tappan Dies; Mother of Store Official

Mrs. Alice W. Tappan, 84, widow of Admiral Benjamin Tappan, and mother of Col. John Tyssowski, chairman of the board of Woodward & Lothrop, died yesterday morning at the Washington Sanitarium.

The head of a family which included three granchildren, six great-grandchildren and a three-year-old great-great-grand child, Mrs. Tappan made her home with Colonel and Mrs. Tyssowski in Delaplane, Va.

Her first husband was Thaddeus Tyssowski, a pioneer businessman and life insurance agent in Washington. Her second husband, Admiral Tappan died in 1920.

In addition to her son, Mrs. Tappan is survived by a grandson, Berkley F. Jones, Pasadena, Calif., and two daughters, Mrs. Virginia Lee Roberts, wife of Capt. R. T. Roberts, USN, Chevy Chase, Md., and Mrs. S. W. DuBois, wife of Capt. S. W. DuBois, USN, 4832 Drummond ave., Chevy Chase, Md.

Funeral services and burial will be held privately Wednesday. Friends have been requested not to send flowers.

Frank M. Drew

St. Petersburg, Fla., Sept. 26 (AP).—Frank Marchael Drew, one of America's oldest showmen, died here Saturday. He was 97. Drew was with circuses and engaged in the theater business most of his life. He originated the Dime Museum in Cleveland, Ohio.

W. A. Shepherd Dies; Federal Claims Aide

William A. Shepherd, 60, Government engineer and claims reviewer, died Sunday at his home, 3803 Van Ness st. nw., after a short illness.

Mr. Shepherd has been a resident of Washington for 14 years. During that time he worked as an industrial engineer in various Government agencies until three years ago when he became a claims reviewer in the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

A native of Williamson, N. Y., he was educated at the University of Rochester and at the Massachusetts Institute of Technology. Before entering the Government, he was an industrial engineer for 16 years with the B. F. Goodrich Rubber Co.

He was a member of the Edbrooke Methodist Church, 4100 River rd., nw.

Gala First Night Audience

Trumans, Capital Society See Sarah Churchill Star In Benefit at Olney

By Elizabeth Maguire

A CAPACITY AUDIENCE of Washington's top-drawer dignitaries—headed by the President and Mrs. Truman—filled the country theater at Olney, Md., last night for Sarah Churchill's American debut.

Miss Churchill, a slender brunette beauty who has a striking likeness to her father, Britain's wartime Prime Minister, took the stellar role in "The Philadelphia Story." As Tracy Lord in the light satire, she was costarred with Jeffery Lynn.

This performance, the opening of a week's engagement, benefited the Washington Hospital Committee of the American Theater Wing.

Satins and Furs

It was the first evening of the season calling for a glamorous collection of furs and jewels. I saw several off-the-shoulder satin gowns, and dinner dresses of velvet and brocade.

Mrs. Truman wore a black dinner dress with a fur cape and band of black flowers in her hair. Vice President Barkley came with his son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Max Truitt. Mrs. Truitt's unusual gown was of pale green metal cloth with large wine-red stripes circling the bouffant skirt.

The British Ambassador, Sir Oliver Franks, was there, and Supreme Court Justice and Mrs. Tom Clark.

Mme. Bonnet, gowned in black with a mink cape, came with the Second Secretary of the French Embassy and Mme. Winckler and Paul Siraud. Others glimpsed here and there were Mme. Koo, wife of the Chinese Ambassador; Mrs. Howard McGrath, Mr. and Mrs. Morris Cafritz, and Miss Drucie Snyder and Miss Jane Lingo with several of their young friends. Also, Dr. and Mrs. Leo Brison Norris, Mr. and Mrs. Henry Fields, Miss Elaine Le Fevre, Mr. and Mrs. Fred Preu and Eric Biddle of Philadelphia.

In the Audience

Also in the audience was the British photographer, Anthony Beauchamp, whose picture of Miss Churchill was seen recently on the cover of Life magazine.

As the curtain came down on the first act the audience kept their seats while Mr. Truman went backstage to meet Miss Churchill.

The President was accompanied by Miss May Redmond Smith, director of the Washington Hospital Committee of the American Theater Wing. The committee sponsors entertainment for servicemen and veterans at Walter Reed Hospital and Bethesda Naval Hospital.

Following the final curtain, Mr. Truman and his party crossed the driveway over to the Olney House—where the actors live—for a cup of coffee with Miss Churchill. The Trumans slipped out a side door before the after-theater reception at Olney House for the entire audience and cast.

LITTLE Elizabeth Virginia Schofield extends a welcoming handwave to guests at her first birthday party yesterday, Mrs. Louis Denfeld (center), wife of the Chief of Naval Operations, and Lady Dalrymple-Hamilton. Admiral and Mrs. Brian Schofield entertained at a tea at their home for their 1-year-old daughter

Her First Birthday Party

WASHINGTON'S youngest hostess yesterday was Elizabeth Virginia Schofield. In celebration of her first birthday, she stood in her play pen to greet some 40 friends of her father and mother, Admiral and Mrs. Brian Schofield. The play pen and the young hostess, all in pink, were placed in a sunny spot on the lawn, and a sign "Welcome to My Birthday" eliminated conversation.

Tea and cocktails were served in the drawing room from 4:30 to 6:30. Navy wives came early, and their admirals followed later in the afternoon after 5. In the gathering were Admiral Sir Frederick and Lady Dalrymple-Hamilton, Mrs. Louis E. Denfeld, Miss Christian Dalrymple-Hamilton, Vice Admiral and Mrs. Arthur Dewey Struble, Vice Admiral and Mrs. Robert B. Carney, Rear Admiral and Mrs. Albert G. Noble, Rear Admiral and Mrs. John W. Roper, and Capt. and Mrs. Arleigh Albert Burke.

Also, Capt. and Mrs. Floyd Ferris, Miss Alwilda J. Ferris, Mrs. George F. Becker, Mme. Basset, Mlle. Basset, Walter Tuckerman, Miss Laura Tuckerman, Comdr. and Mrs. David Malim, and Comdr. and Mrs. Ian Hogg.

Luncheon Chatter

LUNCHING at the Mayflower Lounge yesterday were Princess Tawhida Halim and her fiance, Frank Rediker. The Princess wore a charming gray wool frock and high-crowned grey felt hat with shaded gray plumes. Her marriage will take place Thursday followed by a reception in the East Room of the Mayflower.

Others in the Mayflower Lounge yesterday were Mrs. Edward M. Treglown and Mrs. Duke Shoop. Also, Mrs. Landsale Sasscer from Prince George County, and Mrs. Harold Sasscer of Washington, both chatting about Lord Fairfax's visit.

Brooks

MRS. JOHN JOSEPH FLANNERY, JR., before her marriage September 20 at the Church of the Annunciation, was Miss Mary Patricia Saunders, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. John J. Saunders of Washington. Mr. Flannery is the son of Mr. and Mrs. J. J. Flannery, also of this city. Given in marriage by her father, the bride wore ivory satin trimmed with lace. The newlyweds will spend their honeymoon in New York

To Become Bride

Mr. and Mrs. John G. Sutton announce the engagement of their daughter, Phyllis Ada, to John Martin Morris, son of Mr. and Mrs. Robert E. Morris of Ferndale, Mich.

Miss Sutton is a student at the University of Michigan. Her fiance, who received his bachelor's degree from that school, plans to return there for graduate study.

OAS to Honor Ambassador Corominas

THE retiring Ambassador of the Argentine to the OAS, Enrique Corominas, will be honored Friday at a luncheon to be given by the members of the Council of the OAS. The event will be held in the Hall of Flags at the Pan American Union at 1 o'clock. On this occasion the Vice Chairman of the Council, Ambassador Joseph D. Charles of Haiti, will act as host, as Ambassador Corominas has been serving as Chairman of the Council.

Visits in Arlington

Mrs. Joseph M. Tully arrived here over the week end for a two weeks visit with her son and daughter-in-law, Lieut. Comdr. and Mrs. J. M. Tully, jr., of Arlington, Va.

Mrs. Tully, sr., is the wife of Colonal Tully, Chief of Staff of the Second Infantry Division at Fort Lewis, Wash.

Return From Honeymoon

Mr. and Mrs. Donald Charles Lint will be at home in Takoma Park, Md., following their honeymoon in New York. They were married September 11 at the North Carolina Avenue Methodist Church. The bride is the former Hazel Naoma Beeman.

Husband-Tested
ORANGE CUP CAKES

INGREDIENTS
1¼ cups sifted, all-purpose flour
2 teaspoons baking powder
¼ teaspoon salt
¾ cup sugar
1 unbeaten egg
¼ cup soft shortening
¼ cup Pet Milk
¼ cup orange juice

DIRECTIONS
Turn on oven; set at moderately slow (350° F.). Grease 16 two-in. muffin cups, then dust with flour. Sift together flour, baking powder, salt and sugar. Add, all at once, rest of ingredients. Beat vigorously 2 min. Fill muffin cups only ⅔ full. Bake 15 min., or until cakes shrink from sides of cups. Cool, then spread tops with Orange Frosting; garnish with nuts if desired.

ORANGE FROSTING: Put into bowl 2 tablesp. Pet Milk, ¾ teasp. grated orange rind and few grains salt. Stir in slowly 1¼ cups powdered sugar. Beat until smooth and creamy.

YOUR HUSBAND WILL WELCOME PET MILK'S SAVINGS!

Pet Milk is so rich it can be used in place of expensive cream. Yet it costs less than half as much as cream; less generally than ordinary bottled milk.

Born in Boston

New Symphony President Collects Chinese Paintings, Likes Zinnias, Choral Music

By Mary Van Rensselaer Thayer

RAYMOND EDWIN COX, the new president of the National Symphony Orchestra, is a born Bostonian who spent most of his life in New York before joining our Foreign Service. He's served in South America, New Zealand, Norway, done a long stint in London, and about two years ago resigned from the Foreign Service. He plays the piano strictly for his own pleasure, encourages young artists, both musicians and painters, materially, practically; has amassed an exquisite collection of Chinese paintings, likes zinnias immensely and has, as chief hobby, a very fine son at Yale.

In addition to the National Symphony Orchestra, which he has plugged valiantly since his return to Washington, Ray Cox takes great interest in the Washington Cathedral's choral music. He reminds that the choral singers will perform Bach's D Minor Mass October 31.

"The orchestra is one of Washington's greatest assets," says the new president earnestly. "It's a great orchestra, started on a shoestring and built up through 18 years of painstaking effort. The people of Washington should get behind it now—and give it a good boost. We've got a wonderful conductor, Howard Mitchell—whom I'm sick of calling 'young,' and from now on will call 'not-so-young'—and this winter we'll have as guest conductors—six of the world's most notable musicians—Szell, Metropoulous, Sir Thomas Beecham, and Oscar Levant among them.

Besides, Margaret Truman will sing on November 27, and on February 22 Paul Callaway, the Cathedral organist, will conduct the Cathedral Choral Society in Verdi's "Requiem Mass."

Mrs. Cox, the former Margaret Berwind of Philadelphia, works as hard as her husband in promoting the orchestra. She's one of the most smartly dressed, unusually chic women in Washington—her tailor-made suits are a marvel; she wears her hair tied back tight, then puffed into a high Ubangi-shaped chignon, manages to combine a jeweled pin with flowers without looking cluttered.

TIDBITS FROM EVERYWHERE*

PARIS: Have you heard the fascinating French translation of the title to Winston Churchill's second volume of memoirs, "Their Finest Hour?" It's simply, "L'Heure Tragique!" A neatly subtle twist of, perhaps, Gallic wit!

NEW YORK: Those who can afford to eat at the Colony Restaurant are being treated to the newest of gastronomical luxuries—a game bird called folaghe. The beast, flown direct from the swamps near Lake Garde, is half grouse, half duck. It has a birdlike bill, web feet and was evolved during the war when the local peasantry evidently had little better to do than monkey around with nature!

ANYWHERE: How about snapping up a miniature British car for the little woman? They come to $800 less than they did predevaluation! DITTO: The vitamin craze is definitely on the downbeat. Those bored with continued pilling have found complicated substitute in a brew of beef juice, dry port wine flavored with a dash of chicken broth!

RIGHT HERE: Latest and most scientific dieter is Carmel Offey, wartime United States Political Advisor in Italy, later impresario in Frankfurt, now poohbah in one of our Government's more estoeric agencies. Mr. O., though reasonably shapely to the naked eye, suddenly decided to up his allure and go on a high protein diet.

Since he dines out professionally and continually, he first takes the precaution of telephoning host or hostess, inquiring about the proposed menu. Since thick, individual steaks are seldom served at even the Capital's fancier prandial events, Mr. Offey brings his own tidily wrapped hunk of meat. Imagine the feelings of a hostess pinching a few pennies with a casserole or a fish dish when a guest arrives bearing a three- or four dollar steak!

The Offey claim is 20 pounds shed approximately in a week—however, this miracle, as far as we are concerned, has to be substantiated with scale and tape measure!

Miss Janice Lawton, Lieut. Nairn to Wed

Lieut. Col. and Mrs. Cyril C. Lawton announce the engagement of their daughter, Janice Mae, to Lieut. William Wallace Nairn 3d, son of Col. and Mrs. William W. Nairn, jr., of Wheaton, Silver Spring, Md.

Miss Lawton, who is living with her parents in Kobe, Honshu, Japan, studied music at the Mozarteum in Salzburg, Austria. Her fiance is stationed with the Twenty-fifth Infantry Division at Osaka Honshu. He attended the University of Maryland, Amherst College and was graduated from the United States Military Academy.

For tops in early morning listening, hear Mark Evans, Claude Mahoney and Eddie Gallaher on WTOP, Washington Post station.

Mary Haworth's Mail

Girl's Fiance, 21, Incensed by Her Parents' Refusal to Let Her Attend His College, Keeps Her Out Late Deliberately; She Asks Guidance

DEAR MARY HAWORTH: I am 19 years of age and engaged to Hugh, who is 21. We have gone together for five years, and our present problem is that we want to attend the same college this year but my parents object.

For the past two years Hugh and I have been going to different colleges, and my parents refuse to let me change because they say it would ruin my reputation if I did so. Last fall when Hugh was begging my parents to give their consent to our going to the same college they became angry, and my mother has just barely spoken to him since, although my father has been nice.

All of this hurts Hugh, and he has kept me out late on several occasions since th. disagreement, and as my parents object to late hours, this adds to their unfriendliness. They have done exceptionally nice things for me, and of course I love them and don't want to break their hearts by disobedience, but I also want to make Hugh happy.

Boy's Parents Favor His Idea

HUGH'S PARENTS agree with us that going to the same college would be an economy, in that we could be saving money for our future home that we now spend on transportation back and forth to see each other every weekend.

Thus far my parents have paid for my schooling and also have given me a modest allowance, which they are well able to do; but I am willing to work my way through college from this point if necessary, and Hugh has even offered to help. I hope you will advise me very soon, for it is time my plans were made for the coming year. C. J.

Lad's Behavior Isn't First-Rate

DEAR C. J.: Taking into account the general outline of Hugh's behavior that you've given, I agree with your parents that it would seem imprudent for you to become a camp follower of his at this time.

As I get the picture, it is his idea primarily that you ought to attend his college and thus eliminate the expense and inconvenience of cross-country weekend court,—for I notice you speak of wishing to "please" him, while concurrently worrying about hurting your parents if you side with him in the conflict of opinions.

Hugh's bad behavior, his show-off gesture of throwing his weight around, in deliberately keeping you out late this past year, as a thrust at your mother for offending or snubbing him, is my chief reason for voting against the proposition of changing colleges to tag after him.

A Spoiled Child, Bossy and Jealous

YOU MAY BE fairly certain that it isn't devout love, but rather an imperious streak of jealous selfishness, which animates Hugh's aggressively anxious demanding suit since you've entered college. His parents' disposition to humor all his desires, reading "sense" into whatever he wants done, instead of pointing out that others' ideas have validity, too, doubtless affords the clue to his "problem" character, as it now stands revealed in relation to your parents and you.

Very likely Hugh is a spoiled child and, like most spoiled children, a bad loser as well as inordinately bossy and possessive in intimate relationship,—thus in this instance strenuously opposed to your having a college life apart from his, lest it dilute your interest in him or possibly divert your attention to "rivals" in his absence.

His offer to help you work your way through school is mere childish sounding-off, in my opinion; yet even if he could help financially, you couldn't leave home to be his shadow, and thereafter draw on his purse as his "sweetie," without cheapening yourself in the public estimate and ruining your rating with him, eventually. So forget the nonsense and heed your parents' devoted counsel. M. H.

Proper Diet Improves Health, Study Shows

'You Are What You Eat,' Editors Told

By Lucia Brown

CHICAGO, Ill., Sept. 26.—"You are what you eat," some 112 food editors from all over the Nation were told yesterday. Not that you're likely to turn into an apple pie or a filet mignon, but the way you feel is a direct reflection of your diet, according to Mrs. Julia Kiene, director of the Westinghouse Home Economics Institute.

Mrs. Kiene reported to the annual Newspaper Food Editors' Conference a recent study made by her company and Pennsylvania State College. The nutrition of 64 families was closely studied for a year to see whether they could raise their level of physical well-being by following a recommended nutrition program. Members of the families ranged in age from 15 days to 74 years.

A check at the start showed most of the families gave little thought to food values and ways of storing and cooking food to retain maximum nutritional qualities. Though their food selection was better than average, Mrs. Kiene found, most were not getting sufficient quantities of any of the major nutrients — protein, minerals, or vitamins.

MISS BROWN

During the year's study, the families were given recommended diets and regular training in good meal planning, food storing, and cooking. Their consumption of milk and cheese increased 24 per cent, green and yellow vegetables 24 percent, potatoes 9 percent, fruits and other vegetables 9 percent, cereals and related products 21 percent, and fats 30 percent.

By the end of the study, the average medical rating of these families had been stepped up substantially, Mrs. Kiene reported, with individual ratings rising as much as 14 points.

"Besides their general over-all advancement," Mrs. Keine said, "marked improvement was made in such things as weight, condition of skin, gums, tongue, skeletal growth and maturity (in children), mineral density of bones and condition of the body generally. Reflexes were improved, fatigue lessened, and nervous habits reduced."

To prove all this, Penn State College gave them more than 230 different tests, measurements, and observations, at three different periods. It was clearly shown, Mrs. Kiene said, that failure of the families to eat well had been a serious barrier to improving their physical well-being. The added cost of their improved diet was low, due to care in food selection.

"Nations, as well as families, could improve their general health standards by adopting better methods of food selection, storage, and preparation," she told the editors at the conference.

FOOD EDITORS ARE TALKING ABOUT:

The tricky refreshments at the Sunday afternoon reception at the Chicago Tribune's test kitchens. One hors d'oeuvre platter was centered with a bright green fish made with a highly polished cucumber. He had olives for eyes, slivers of cuke for fins and tail.

A new home here in Chicago that combines the quaintness of a Norman farmhouse kitchen with the latest in labor saving devices. The Dutch door has leaded glass panes, and long black metal hinges decorate the natural birch cabinets, but rubber tiling covers the floor and there's an automatic dishwasher in the silk.

Bridal Placecards

AS AN IDEA for bridal dinner placecards, how about using little round mirrors which romantically reflect the gleam of candlelight and flowers on the table? The names may be written on a narrow white strip at the mirror base. Atmosphere for a song.

Cooking Cues . . .

Serve snap beans with a cheese sauce if you want to give your family extra nutrients. To make it a party dish turn the beans and sauce into a casserole, top with buttered crumbs and brown under the broiler or in the oven.

When using chili sauce wipe the top of the bottle and the inside of the cover with a damp cloth before putting away.

You will need two to three tablespoons of melted butter or margarine to mix with about half a cup of fine soft bread crumbs if you want to use the buttered crumbs for a casserole topping.

Television Decor

The influence of television on home decoration is dramatized in the presentation of fall Model Rooms which opened yesterday at Woodward & Lothrop's in conjunction with National Home Fashions' week.

One of eight model decorating units, the television room proved to be a popular attraction at the opening and drew throngs of visitors. Planned as a warm, living center, rather than a home theater, it links the latest trends in design and color to the newest entertainment medium.

Most noteworthy article of furnishings in the room is a huge sectional, serpentine sofa, designed by Mrs. Lois Wannan, Home Furnishings Coordinator for hte store. Ten feet in length, it is is covered in a carnation pink textured fabric, a color that is combined with avocado green to form the basic color scheme of the room.

About Removing Wax Stains

I wore an artificial flower on a blue chambray dress on a very hot day. The green wax on the stems and leaves of the flower came off on the dress. I have not touched it as I wanted to ask you what to do in order to remove the wax and stains J. B.

Remove the wax part of the stain by placing between white blotters or absorbent paper and pressing with a warm iron; have it only hot enough to melt the wax. When the wax is removed sponge the spot with carbon tetrachloride to remove the remaining oil from the stain. Some of the color will be removed with the oil, but probably not all of it. You may be able to remove the remaining color by wetting the spot, pouring on liquid shampoo and rubbing between the hands. Continue adding liquid shampoo and rubbing until no more color is removed. Rinse thoroughly.

If this doesn't completely remove the color, then you will have to use a bleach such as powdered sodium perborate. Sprinkle it onto the damp stain, rub the stain, allow it to stand for 20 minutes and rinse out. Of course, test the bleach on an inconspicuous spot to see what it does to the dress color before applying to the stain.

I have just read the request of P. C. B. in this morning's Post as to how to get rid of the small hard-shelled brown weevils in her kitchen cabinet. I imagine she has already gone over all cereal products. I had a similar experience and was completely discouraged at the persistence of these pests when I discovered their breeding place to be in a can of paprika, of all things. They were also in a can of red pepper. As this is the last place one would ordinarily expect to find them I am taking the time to write you this information. H. R. T.

Thank you, H. R. T., for this tip. F. L. C. also writes that she has found weevils were breeding in a piece of tobacco, so it seems a thorough search through all containers is sometimes necessary to find the source

Can you suggest a place to buy parchment paper to cover lamp shades? A. B. S.

A paint store on 13th st. which carries artists' supplies has lamp shade parchment. Call National 6386 and ask for the art department.

A sheep wool vest was dry-cleaned in solvent with gasoline base. It came out with the leather back quite stiff and parchment-like. It cracks and can't be worn. Please suggest some softening treatment. We have already tried washing in warm water and rubbing in a mixture of vaseline and saddle soap. This softened it a little, but not enough for wearing. A. B. S.

Dry-cleaning solutions remove the natural oils from fur and sometimes it isn't possible to restore enough oil to the skin to make it pliable again. However, since you were able to soften it to some extent, I would suggest you try another application. If possible, tack the pelt to a board and rub a thick application of just saddle soap and water into the skin. Do not use enough moisture to soak to the fur side. As you apply it work it with the hands. Wipe off excess soap but do not rinse, and let dry slowly away from sun and heat, occasionally working the skin with the hands as it dries. It may take several similar applications to make the skin entirely pliable.

Are there any free courses in shorthand available to adults in this city? I would like to know where one may register for such a course, the hours the course is given and the location of classes available. A. J.

The adult education department of the Washington public schools is teaching courses in shorthand this fall. To get information as to which classes are available to you, I suggest you call the adult education office direct at Columbia 2683.

Salad Suggestions . . .

To make an economical salad dressing mix a half teaspoon of dry mustard with a half teaspoon of salt and two teaspoons of sugar; add a dash of freshly ground pepper and a sprinkling of paprika. Mix these seasonings with a cup of undiluted evaporated milk; then add a tablespoon of vinegar gradually, stirring until thickened. Store in refrigerator.

To pep up an egg salad filling for sandwiches or stuffed tomatoes add a little vinegar and prepared mustard along with the mayonnaise.

For a Million-Dollar Figure

Try Waist-Whittlers During Slimming Diet

By Ida Jean Kain

This is the eighth of 12 articles on teen-age slimming.

JUST A MINUTE, teen-agers, while I brew a pot of tea to tell your fortune. Ah-h, it's right there in the tea leaves. You go ahead and get a neat, sweet figure and a posture that lets you stand out from the crowd . . . and there's a tall, dark and handsome man in your future!

IDA JEAN KAIN

If a gypsy with golden earrings were to foretell this, you'd hurry right home and start your shaper-uppers, with no stopping at the soda fountain.

Now frankly, I don't believe in fortune tellers, or fate for that matter. It's the will-to-do that counts. It's your decisions that influence the future. Decide right now to exercise and look alive, and you'll have a rosy future. With good food habits you can be healthy, normal weight and have a clear skin. With special exercise you can have a million-dollar figure. So on with precision exercise, waist whittlers first . . .

Movement: Bend slowly and smoothly to the left side, centering the pull through the middle of the figure, increasing the bend by pulling strongly with left hand. Now bend to the right . . . and to the left again . . . 12 counts, more when you're limber. All slimming bets are off unless you pull up snugly with the middle muscles and contract hip muscles as you bend.

Position: Pull yourself s-l-i-m through the midsection. Clasp hands behind head, elbows in straight line, head up, not pushed forward.

Movement: Twist gently at the waist toward the left and bend side-back. Return to starting position, twist gently toward the right and bend again. Keep the twist centered smack at the waistline to make those muscles give. At your age, chances are your back is normally strong—but if not, avoid the twisters.

Hips are never hopeless—swing . . .

Position: Lying on side on floor, head pillowed on one arm, the other arm out on floor in front of chest as a brace. Legs should be straight down, one on top of the other.

Movement: Swing top leg up in front and away back. Swing for 12 counts, change sides and swing 12 times with other leg. Gradually increase the count. Hold the under leg still as you swing top leg. To reach the thigh muscles, start from the same position, lying on side. Raise top leg and make wide circles, knee straight. Circle to the right, circle to the left. Relax.

Roll to a smooth finish . . . Rolling plump across the hip spread for 25 counts.

Europe's Youth, Israel's Thanks Group Topics

By Genevieve Reynolds and Nicha Soure

WHAT IS THE trend of youth's thinking in Europe? Are the young folk optimistic or pessmistic over world events?

Answers to these questions will be given by Countess Christine de Hemptinne, president, International Federation of Catholic Youth of Belgium, and Dr. Hilda V. Borsinger of Switzerland. Both will be guests speaker at an open meeting sponsored by the Catholic Daughters of America, Wednesday, 8:15 p. m., at the CDA clubhouse, No. 2 Scott Circle.

Countess de Hemptinne's ancestors included governors of Belgium and the Congo, ambassadors to various countries as well as dignitaries in ecclesiastical and papal circles. She has traveled in 31 countries since the war.

Dr. Borsinger, a former director of Caritas in Luzerne, is accompanying Countess de Hemptinne on a tour throughout the United States. The Swiss leader, before coming to Washington, was chief, Social Service Section of Swiss Relief for Europe. During World War II, she served as special Catholic Liaison Officer for the National Military Corps of Swiss Women.

Mrs. Elath to Be Honored

GETTING BACK into the swing of another fall season is Mrs. Eliahu Elath, wife of the Ambassador from Israel.

On Wednesday she will be guest of honor at the opening meeting and luncheon of the B'nai B'rith Women, Argo at the Jewish Community Center at noon.

On Thursday Mrs. John Safer will be "at home" to the Phi Sigma Sigma sorority of George Washington University from 4 to 6 p. m. Mrs. Elath and the wives of the diplomatic staff of the Israeli Embassy will be guests of honor.

At the meeting of the B'nai B'rith Women, Mrs. Elath will present a plaque from the B'nai B'rith Women of Israel to the local chapter in appreciation of the work of Argo.

Wins Scholarship

VERSATILE Miss Madeline Smith has copped the District's first logopedics scholarships. It was given by the Washington Alumnae Chapter of Kappa Alpha Theta for a year's study at the Institute of Logopedics, Wichita, Kan.

Miss Smith was graduated from George Washington University with a B.A. degree. Later she received an M.A. degree from the University of Southern California. During the war she served here as a WAVE. In addition to being a speech teacher, she is a licensed pilot.

Mrs. Roger E. Johnson, president of the local Kappa Alpha Theta Chapter, points out that the logopedics field is uncrowded, with unlimited opportunities for research as well as teaching.

Last April Mrs. Paul Shorb, then chapter president, appointed a Logopedic Committe composed of Mrs. John B. Schravesande, chairman; Mrs. Glen M. Vickery and Mrs. G. W. Ault. The committee, which has been reappointed, made a survey to determine Washington's speech correction facilities. According to committee findings the Nation's Capital is short of adequate speech centers stafled with trained speech technicians. Hence the annual gift scholarship to the Logopedics Institute in Witchia was established. Future plans call for the establishment of a Logopedic Institute branch in the District.

To Mark Anniversary

Newspaper and radio women will take time out today to celebrate the 30th anniversary of the Women's National Press Club. It will be a party for members only, 5 to 7 p. m. at the United Nation's Club, 1701 19th st. nw. At the same time, a new headquarters program will be formally launched.

Mrs. Maxwell Indicted, Calls For Dismissal

Dismissal of a murder indictment against Mrs. Ruth Maxwell was asked in Alexandria Corporation Court yesterday on grounds a Virginia law excluding women from grand juries is unconstitutional.

A special grand jury returned the indictment against the 28-year-old Mrs. Maxwell in the slaying of her Army husband only a short time before the dismissal motion was filed by her attorney, Walter I. Young.

Young, addressing his plea orally to Judge William P. Woolls, said he believes the Virginia law conflicts with both the Fourteenth and nineteenth amendments.

In his written motion, Young declared "a large number of female persons of good moral character" in Alexandria could comply with jury requirements, except for the State law. Their exclusion from the grand jury, he said, "denied to this defendant the equal protection of the laws."

Contingent on the outcome of the argument on Young's motion, Judge Woolis set Mrs. Maxwell's trial for 10 a. m. Friday. She has demanded a trial by jury.

Mrs. Maxwell is accused of killing Corpl. Gardner Maxwell of Fort Belvoir with a milk bottle during an altercation in front of their rooming house at 732 N. Washington st., Alexandria.

Separate Rule For Suburbs Is Suggested

A regional administrative district for the suburban area of Prince Georges County was suggested last night so that urban dwellers can be taxed for urban improvements without incurring rural area opposition.

Herbert Wells, member of the Maryland National Capital Park and Planning Commission, made the suggestion before the Prince Georges Chamber of Commerce at the Prince Georges Golf and Country Club in Landover, Md. He spoke in place of T. Howard Duckett, banker-lawyer, who was called away by Governor Lane for a conference on the Chesapeake Bay bridge.

Wells said the county needs better roads and schools and more housing, including apartment units, to attract Washingtonians. He said a network of lateral roads is needed to facilitate intra-county traffic.

Col. E. Brooke Lee, vice chairman of MNCPPC, urged development of adequate park and recreational land for youngsters in both Prince Georges and Montgomery Counties.

Lee said the shopper of today is auto-bound, that merchants can only sell their wares if they provide adequate parking facilities. He pointed out as an example the situation in Silver Spring, where a parking lot has been provided in virtually every block of the shopping centers, offering accomodation for some 5000 cars.

The Lyons Den

By Leonard Lyons

NEW YORK.—Before President Truman announced the elevation of Judge Sherman Minton to the United States Supreme Court bench, a White House aide unofficially asked a group of publicists to name their preferences for the court vacancy. All those polled, except Herbert Bayard Swope, named eminent lawyers they felt were deserving of the post . . . Swope, mindful of the fact that the Constitution does not require that a Supreme Court appointee be a lawyer, advised the White House aide that he would choose a humanitarian — that elemental law should not be composed of legalisms or casuistic exercises, but be based on a broad, human understanding.

Frank Morgan, the late screen star, made his radio debut with John Barrymore. "This is my first experience," he told Barrymore. "How do you feel about it?" Barrymore replied: "It's like kissing a woman: The first time, you like it. Then you go MAD about it" . . . Because of the United States failure to pass tax-exemption legislation for U. N. officers and employes, some of them may have to pay triple taxation—to their own countries, to the United States and to the U. N. . . . A Life cameraman who was at Mickey Cohen's side when the West Coast mobster was arrested for using foul language to a police officer was asked by Cohen's lawyers to testify by deposition. He testified that Cohen merely had questioned the cop's birth-legitimacy.

Before James Bruce retired as American Ambassador to the Argentine, he received a message that President Juan Peron wanted to see him, about a matter involving Communists. Ambassador Bruce went to the President's home, where Peron began: "I've decided on how to deal with the Communists here. I've found the way" . . . "How?" Bruce asked . . . "I'll start a revolution," said Peron, "blame it on the Communists, and then, as a protective measure, kill them all" . . . "That's not such a good idea," Bruce suggested. "Sometimes these things get out of hand, and there are excesses—it's not a good idea." And Peron reluctantly agreed.

Winston Churchill is giving painting lessons to Merle Oberon . . . Tyrone Power will finish his work in "The Black Rose" next week and then, for the first time since their marriage, he and his wife will return to New York . . . Sir Thomas Beecham, the British conductor, was at the Metropolitan Opera when he heard a director propose that Novotna be featured there. "It will be profitable," said the director, "because she brings in all the men." Beecham turned to the director and said: "She brings in all the men! Sir, I always understood that the Metropolitan was an opera house."

The Tag-Along

"He's always underfoot." "I never have a minute to myself."

These and similar remarks often characterize the feelings of mothers whose two, three or four-year-olds constantly follow them around the house.

Should young children be expected to show this kind of dependence? There is no simple "yes" or "no" answer to such a question.

It is true that the child's mother during the first years is likely to be the center of his universe. To that extent, the tag-along behavior is to be expected. On the other hand, if a child has suitable play equipment, if he has been encouraged to spend time by himself and it he has had opportunities of being with other children of his own age this behavior should begin to taper off.

In some instances, the close clinging to mother may come out of felt insecurities. He may be trying to stay close physically because he's not sure he's loved as much as he needs to be. More time given to a brother or sister or lack of attention of any very interested or warm sort may help build these feelings of insecurity.

If tag-along behavior doesn't begin to taper off some by the time the child is past his third birthday, it would be well to explore the situation and see whether some of the possible causes mentioned above may be operating.

Pedestrian In Hospital, Faces Charge

After colliding with an automobile yesterday, a pedestrian wound up in Casualty Hospital, and also wound up with police charging that he violated the Pedestrian Control Act.

The victim-defendant is Willie P. Murphy, 24, of 409 8th st. sw. Police said that he walked into the side of an auto driven by George A. Bryant, 21, of 652 Morse st. ne., near Massachusetts ave. and 7th st. nw. He suffered head injuries, cuts and bruises, but was not in serious condition.

Police who filed the charge pointed out that several of the six traffic fatality victims in Washington in the past nine days have been pedestrians.

Thalmia Brown, 37, of 1136 New Jersey ave. nw., was injured yesterday when, police said, an auto went through two barricades and struck him near an excavation on which he was working. The accident occurred on Benning rd. near Oklahoma ave. ne. Murphy was taken to Casualty Hospital where it was said he suffered head injuries.

Driver of the auto, police said, was Alex Taylor, 66, of 230 14th st. se. No charges were filed against Taylor.

Police Dispatcher Hurt When Car Overturns

A radio dispatcher for the Virginia State Police at Richmond was painfully injured in a traffic accident in Maryland yesterday when his car went off the road and overturned in a gully.

Maryland State Police said Raymond Morris, 20, of Richmond, was driving on Crane hwy. near Defense hwy.

He managed to crawl out of the car and reach a nearby filling station, police said. A rescue squad took him to Prince Georges General Hospital at Cheverly. There, he was found to have more than a score of cuts on his face and a fractured nose.

Oliver L. Hawkins, 27, of 4609 Meade st. ne., was sentenced yesterday in Municipal Court to 30 days in jail for driving on a suspended permit and failing to yield the right-of-way to another automobile.

The case resulted from a traffic accident at 58th and Fields sts. ne., where Hawkins collided with a bus.

Police quoted Hawkins as saying he had lost his permit, before they learned it had been suspended for traffic infractions. He failed to go to traffic school as he had been ordered at the time of the suspension, according to police.

Atom News Boosts Manpower Needs, Hershey Reports

Helena, Mont., Sept. 26 (AP).—The news that Russia has an atom bomb may make "some changes in available military manpower" in the United States, Maj. Gen. Lewis B. Hershey said today.

"We must think from the standpoint of defense. American possession of the atomic bomb, after all, is not going to save an individual from having to watch out for his own skin," the National Selective Service director said.

Hershey said military ground forces would be highly essential "even during an air war," to staff bases, guard against sabotage and consolidate gains.

A reserve of trained men could be mobilized in four months less time than raw recruits, he said, adding: "That might mean the difference between annihilation and survival."

When inductions were stopped last February, United States ground forces were 25,000 men over strength. Now they are 25,000 below, Hershey said.

Bromwell Held Without Bond in Cattle Rustling

Edward W. Bromwell, alleged cattle rustler of Waterloo, Md., was held without bond for grand jury action yesterday when he was arraigned before Trial Magistrate Alan Bowie in Hyattsville Police Court, in Prince Georges County.

Failure to set bond came because Montgomery County has placed detainers against him on similar charges, authorities said.

Bromwell was specifically charged with theft of a cow from Nedill S. Torbert of Greenbelt on September 8. He was arrested Sunday after a farmer and his wife who had purchased the animal recognized it from a description as the one stolen from Torbert. It had passed through other hands in the meantime. Tracing of similar cattle deals by Bromwell, officers said, brought the Montgomery County charges.

Beltsville Fire Cause Is Still Undetermined

Investigation of the cause of a fire which caused $150,000 damage early Sunday at the granary of the Federal Governments agricultural research center at Beltsville, Md., continued yesterday with no results apparent yet.

Charles A. Logan, general superintendent of the center, said the investigation is in charge of Hale Seborn, chief of the fire safety board of the center, and George W. Beers, fire safety officer and chief of the Beltsville Volunteer Fire Department.

Though firement at the scene expressed the opinion an incendiarist may have been responsible, Beers and Seborn refused yesterday to support that theory. They said no positive evidence of the cause has yet been formulated.

Straus, Boke to Answer Downey Charge Oct. 11

Reclamation Commissioner Michael W. Straus will be called before the Senate Interior Committee October 11 to answer charges of incompetence and "politics" filed against him by Senator Sheridan Downey (D., Calif.).

Chairman Joseph C. O'Mahoney (D., Wyo.) said that Richard Boke, California regional reclamation director who also was named in Downey's charges, will follow Straus as a witness.

Gulf Hurricane Dissolves

Tampico, Mex., Sept. 26 (AP).—The gulf hurricane dissolved into heavy rains today. There were no damage reports as it went inland. The storm headed this way for three days and then suddenly veered southward to break up inland about 200 miles south.

TRY IT — BROWN BEARS FROM BURDOCK BURS

Any child who lives in open parts of the city where there are vacant lots, or any country child who roams wide fields, is familiar with the Common Burdock. In the fall of the year socks and sweaters pick up the burs from the tall plants, where they cling, begging a ride. Tiny hooks on each point of the bur makes them not only cling to woolly clothes, but to each other. This characteristic makes it possible to mold them together in furry appearing forms.

"Brown Bears" can be made by gathering a ball of the ripe brown burs and shaping them in your hands. Although the burs are sticky and attach themselves together, they do not hurt your hands for the hooks curve in toward the center of each bur. Add a small ball for a head, long rolls of burs for arms and legs, and you can model a very life-like bear.

If you can bear the burs, make a fur bear.

What's the Verdict?

BOY AND DOG

Q. The owner of a small roadside lunchroom kept a dog. A sign prominently displayed read: "Don't Pet the Dog!" One day a couple accompanied by their 4-year-old child entered the place and sat at a table. The child, who could not read, was at once attracted by the dog and attempted to pet it. The animal bit the boy on the hand and the parents demanded that the proprietor pay the medical bill. He refuses, pointing out that the sign was sufficient warning. Is he liable?

A. Although the child could not read, the parents should have been able to. They theoretically thus should have had ample notice to admonish the child not to try to pet the dog. But balanced against this factor is this other: that the lunchroom was a public place, where customers should be able to enter, with children, without danger of being bitten by ill-tempered animals. A jury could properly find that the parents could not reasonably be expected to prevent a small boy from being attracted to the dog. The proprietor would be liable.

Mirror of Love

Your eyes are like a mirror, dead . . . Wherein I see my heart . . . And what it means to be with you . . . And how it hurts to part . . . And there I see my foolishness . . . And all my selfish pride . . . Because your wistful gaze will not . . . Allow my sins to hide . . . But also, dearest, I behold . . . The love I have for you . . . And how I long to fill your hopes . . . And make your dreams come true . . . How I adore you every day . . . And dream of you at night . . . When silver stars reveal their gleam . . . Of everlasting light . . . And all the wonders of the world . . . The oceans and the skies . . . Are beautifully reflected in . . . The mirror of your eyes.

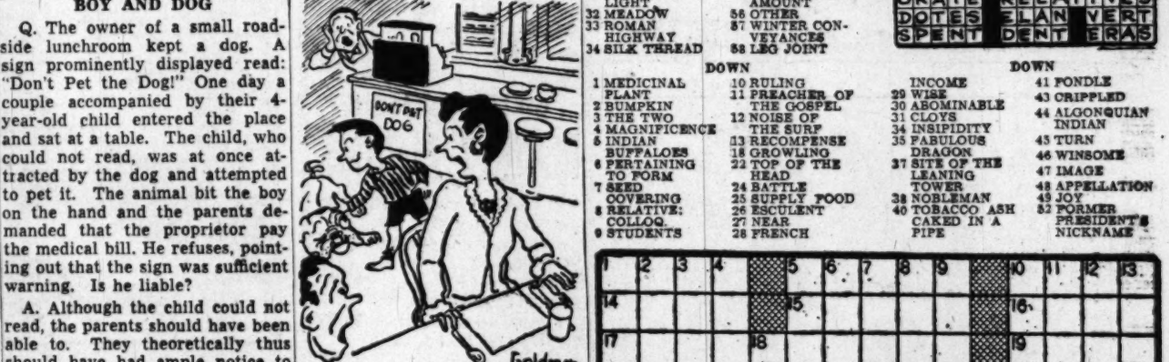
BARNABY



Barnaby, if Mr. O'Malley, your Fairy Godfather, COULD wave his magic cigar and make things appear. . .
IF? He CAN!
Then why doesn't he make a television set appear? So he doesn't have to spend all his time at Paddy's Bar and Grill? So you could watch the ball games, too. . .
Probably he just hasn't thought of that, yet—
Barnaby! What's that man doing up on your roof?
Gosh! Looks like he's putting up a—
I bet Mr. O'Malley DID make a television set appear—At our house!

THE DISTRICT LINE by Bill Gold

In Griff's Case, It's the Optimism of Youth

Bill Popham notes in Shirley Povich's column that Clark Griffith is trying to buy his partner's 40 percent interest in the Nats. Muses Bill: "Wonder why."

PERSONAL NOTES

Floyd L. Miller, 3449 Martha Custis dr., Alexandria, Va.: You raise a good point. He probably chose that phrase as a compromise between "his family is well off" and "his family is slightly off."

Mrs. J. C. Tarmon, 7589 Walters lane: The motorist who killed Bonnie must have been a prize package, judging by your description of the incident. Tell the kids to watch the Give-Aways until they find another puppy. That'll help them forget.

MAIL BAG

Dear Bill:

When Peggy Preston, The Washington Post fashion writer, was a guest on your radio program, she said hemlines are going up, and "the knee is coming back."

Where does one buy such dresses? The ones they're showing in the stores still have hemlines down to the ankles.

Mary Gilbert.
6119 7th pl. nw.

Dear Mary:

I haven't shopped for any dresses lately, so I don't know what they're showing these days. But I can verify that the knee definitely has not reappeared yet, except on very windy corners.

Bill.

GIVE-AWAYS

"Two male kittens, 3 months old." (Trinidad 2453.)

"Two beautiful white rabbits, about 6 months old; complete with hutch and feeding pans." (Emerson 0084.)

"Two cute 6-week-old pups; their mother is mostly airedale." (Union 8795 between 8 a. m. and 3 p. m.)

"Two playful yellow kittens, 10 weeks old." (Overlook 3919.)

"Many pretty kittens, assorted ages, sexes and descriptions." (Emerson 1114.)

"Several varieties of house plants; ideal for schoolrooms, teachers particularly welcome." (Sligo 6121.)

"Male and female 8-week-old puppies part English setter, part unknown; for a child who wants a playful puppy." (Victor 9770, ask for Mrs. Edwards.)

"Four half-grown kittens; adorable, clean, smart, housebroken, nicely marked." (Republic 6260 or Republic 0055.)

"Pretty young female cat; eccentric but tractable and housebroken." (Ordway 1737.)

"Two-month-old housebroken kitten wants a new family to adopt." (Kenmore 3-6391.)

REBUTTAL

Marcia J. Thomas of 221 Gallatin st. nw. says Major Coulter didn't persevere sufficiently with poi, and the taro roots it's made from.

"He's right when he says that the first reaction to poi is that it tastes like wallpaper paste," writes Marcia. "But if you keep at it, you learn to like it very much. It's the ideal accompaniment to fish and raw onions.

"What's more, poi is used in baby's formulas by Hawaiian doctors. It has a very high calcium content.

"The major is wrong about okolehao. It is not made from taro roots, but from ti (pronounced 'tea') roots. But he's right about the nature of the drink.

"It's potent stuff—definitely not to be taken casually or lightly."

The major counters with: "Tell Marcia we're both right about okolehao. It's made from both taro and ti roots, and is only one of several varieties of native moonshine—the formulas for which you will no doubt wish to omit from your family newspaper."

GHOST WRITER

In answer to several inquiries: Jay Aitch, this column's first poet laureate, is still alive and still active. Very much so.

He's now a successful free-lance writer, who is so busy selling his jingles he doesn't have time to write free ones for us any more. He says:

"When my luck runs out and the editors stop buying, I'll be back in the fold. Meantime I'm with you in spirit."

Oh, great. In a materialistic world, I have to have incorporeal contributors.

IF AT FIRST YOU DON'T SUCCEED, TRI TRI AGAIN

The Navy has moved in on my recent discussion of the prefix "bi" and the resulting confusion regarding its exact meaning.

Lieut. Comdr. E. F. Hayes of the Naval Air Station at Patuxent River, Md., suggests that we ought to use "semi" to mean "twice a" and then "bi" could always mean "once every two."

But Capt. Donald McClinch refuses to treat the matter seriously. He recalls that one of his ancestors in the Oregon country used to wait for the "tri-weekly" mail boat from San Francisco, and explains:

"If it didn't get through one week, they'd try again the next; so it was known as the tri-weekly boat."

Listen to the District Line on the air Monday through Friday at 1:30 p. m., over WRC.

2 Dominate Policies of U. S. Steel

By Drew Pearson

Two men dominate the policies of the giant U. S. Steel Corporation, and will also largely decide whether or not the Nation is stymied by a steel strike. They are:

Ben Fairless—president of U. S. Steel, son of a Welsh coal miner, who taught school, came up the hard way and is generally sympathetic to labor.

Enders Voorhees—chairman of the finance committee of U. S. Steel, son of a bank president, a tight-fisted New York Dutchman, and an accountant whose job is to pinch pennies for J. P. Morgan & Co., which largely owns and controls U. S. Steel.

Fairless Voorhees

These two men sometimes disagree. And their disagreement represents a seesaw between liberal and conservative policies which have alternated in the management of U. S. Steel and J. P. Morgan.

Originally U. S. Steel was one of the most reactionary firms in America. For years the famed Judge Elbert Gary ruled it with an iron hand. Labor was treated like so many ingots or blast furnaces—except that labor was a lot cheaper.

Then a new day dawned in the oak-paneled offices of J. P. Morgan. Myron Taylor, now Ambassador to the Vatican, believed in giving labor a break. Dwight Morrow, who later followed amazingly liberal policies as Ambassador to Mexico, also leaned toward labor. And Thomas W. Lamont, guiding genius of the Morgan firm, was far more liberal than the public realized.

So, in 1937, the world was flabbergasted when Myron Taylor negotiated a union contract for U. S. Steel, for the first time in that firm's history.

Then Myron Taylor stepped out of U. S. Steel in favor of the Vatican; Tom Lamont died, and J. P. Morgan reverted to the conservatives. Thus began the trend toward conservatism again in the giant steel corporation and the elevation of Enders Voorhees, accountant son of a New York banker, to the position of real influence.

Finally it saw the wane of Ben Fairless, the traditional friend of labor.

It is significant that, during the lengthy sessions of the President's fact-finding board, the only head of a big steel corporation who made no appearance was Ben Fairless. The tight-fisted Voorhees appeared for him.

Fairless first got in wrong with his J. P. Morgan masters when he told the White House, shortly after the war, that U. S. Steel would accept the 18½-cents-an-hour wage increase. This brought rising temperatures to some of the gentlemen in J. P. Morgan offices, and since then they have been more careful about letting Ben Fairless loose at a wage conference without a chaperone.

Enders McClumpha Voorhees, the accountant who really dominates U. S. Steel, is the son of an Amsterdam, N. Y., banker whose family settled in New York in 1660. As a boy, his father invested in a knitting business which went into bankruptcy, and young Voorhees, convinced that poor accounting methods were responsible, decided to take up accounting as his profession.

Since then he has led the colorless, rather routine life of a financier, rose to be financial vice president of Johns-Manville Company, came to U. S. Steel in 1937, is author of a new cost-accounting system of which he is proud.

Judging from U. S. Steel's recent policies, however, plus reports from his colleagues in banking circles, Voorhees feels it would be better for labor to take a bloody nose before management yields further on either wages or pensions.

Furthermore, any settlement, in the opinion of the Voorhees school of management, must come under the Taft-Hartley Act. And so far, any invoking of Taft-Hartley has been deftly avoided both by the White House and by labor.

The Taft-Hartley Act, for instance, provides for a cooling-off period of only 80 days. Already the Steelworkers Union has voluntarily postponed a strike for 76 days as of today, and 80 days as of October 1. The Taft-Hartley Act could have done no better.

Furthermore, one of the amendments to Taft-Hartley accepted by the CIO during Senate debates last year was a fact-finding board to recommend settlements. This was exactly what President Truman appointed in the steel dispute and the fact-finding recommendations would show that labor's method of union is now willing to accept its settling disputes was workable and recommendations in toto. that the Taft-Hartley Act was not

But the steel industry is not. For, so essential after all.
